OFFICE OF CITY CLERK,
CITY OF SELMA, ALA., March 12, 1862.

ALL persons in arrears for City Taxes are hereby notified to call at my office and settle up without delay, or your property will be advertised and sold to satisfy the same, with interests and costs. A list of City property, on which the taxes have not been paid, is now being prepared for advertisement.

JNO. M. STRONG,

TO THE PEOPLE OF ALABAMA.

THE undersigned have obtained authority from the War Department to raise a Regiment for the Confederate Army. The Regiment will be commanded by the following officers:

Colonel, J. W. FRAZER,
Lieut. Colonel, JOHN C. REID,
Major, W. W. DAVIES.

And in view of the imminent danger of an invasion of the Southern coast it is of vital importance that the Regiment be speedily raised and organized for immediate service. We have assurance from the War Department that the regiment will be furnished with the best arms. We are desirous of effecting an arrangement by which each company, as soon as it is organized, will be mustered into service at some point upon the coast. Each of us holding commissions in the army in Virginia, we cannot at present give our personal superintendance to the formation of the regiment, but one or more of us will be in Alabama in a few days. Meanwhile, Dr. P. C. WINN, of Marion, Alabama, who is associated with us in this enterprise is fully empowered to act in our behalf and for us in this matter, to whom all communications from persons desiring information on the subject will be addressed.—We trust that we do not appeal in vain to the sons of Alabama to rally to the defence of their native soil.

BOARD OF INSTRUCTION.

REV. R. M. SAUNDERS, PRESIDENT, and Professor of Mental, Moral and Natural Science.

MRS. M. J. T. SAUNDERS, ASSOCIATE PRINCIAAL, Teacher of English Literature and Mathematics.

E. TARRANT, Professor of Ancient Languages.

MISS ANNIE E. COLEMAN, Assistant in Mathematics and English Branches.

MISS M. E. FAIRWEATHER, Principal of Primary and Preparatory Department.

W. K. GRABER, Professor of Instrumental and Vocal Music.

MISS ALICE V. TOOMER, Asristant in Music.

MADAME ADELE DELOFFRE, Instructress in French Language and Literature.

MISS JULIA A. SPEAR, Principal of Art Department.

Boarding Department—Mr. and Mrs. Saunders.

Matron—Mrs. Maria Hamilton.

THE next session of this Institution will commence on the 1st Monday in October.

The Principal and Trustees having been unremitting in the effort to provide every facility for the acquisition of a symmetrical education, present with confidence, the claims of the Institution to the enlightened appreciation and generous support of Southern parents.

Every Department has been thoroughly organized, and efficient and experienced teachers employed to take charge of each.

The Department of Music continues under the supervision of Prof. Graber, a refined gentleman, an accomplished artist, and successful teacher. The study of the "Theory of Music" has been within the past year introduced in the Musical Course—a step which, it is confidently hoped, will do much to prevent the general abandonment of music, of which parents so justly complain when their daughters have gone out from the instruction of Masters.

To the demand of the South, which has hitherto been supplied by the North, arrangements have been made to organize a Normal or Teacher's class, the object of which is to educate young ladies, especially for the profession of teaching.

In order to render the study of the Modern Languages, particularly the French, something more than a mere compliance with the general expectation that it shall enter into every liberal course of study, the services of an accomplished French lady have been secured, whose extensive acquaintance with, and long and successful experience in teaching the French Language and Literature, and an almost equally critical knowledge of the English, place the success of this department on the firmest possible basis. The pupils are thoroughly taught the structure and philosophy of the language, and learn to write and speak it correctly and gracefully. In view of the fact, that we, as a nation, hope soon to establish direct and familiar relations with France, special attention should be given to the study of the French Language.

A Department of the Arts of Design, similar in its salient features to the European Schools has been recently established under the direction of one of the first artists in America, and its success thus far has been equally commensurate with the highest hopes of its founders and the importance of its legitimate objects of study. Designing, which is the highest and one of the most important applications of imaginative and industrial art, will be taught as far as practicable in all its branches. A room has been beautifully and opulently furnished with statuary, casts, paintings, shells, vases, stuffed birds, &c., &c., so that every assistance will be afforded for the successful prosecution of art studies.

For a catalogue, or further information, apply to Hon. J. J. Ormond or Rev. R. M. Saunders, Tuscaloosa, Ala. J. J. ORMOND,

"MAD, SIRS! MAD!"

Under this caption, the Mobile Register discourses as follows on the future of the Yankees:

The North dares not look the future in the face. One mad, frantic, infatuated present absorbs all its thoughts, and it purposely works itself up to this demented condition that it may not think of the future. It has never looked more than ninety days ahead—the period within which it has repeatedly promised to subjugate the South, and as repeatedly renewed the promise when failure to meet it compelled extension of time. None of their public men nor their editors dare to look into the future. Wordy and speculative as is their bent, they have not a word as to the future. The bare idea of investigating the future through its probabilities inspires them with a shuddering aversion to pursue the subject, and they drown the reflections suggested by plunging into the excitements of the maddening present—this war which investigations into the future would certainly condemn. Like a debauched felon, they drown remorse for the past and fears for the future in renewed intoxication and the occupation of renewed criminality.

They have the nerve to contemplate neither the consequences of failure in this war, nor of success, nor of its continuance for years. The consequences of all of these are alike disastrous in their probabilities. If they fail in this war, their country is left burdened with an enormous debt, with crippled commerce, suspended industry, general bankruptcy, a million employees of the late military establishment out of employment, and all the seeds of disorder and public distress sown deep in the bosom of society, and promising immediate growth and fruition of anarchy and disruption.

If the war continues for years, as they loudly boast it shall, at any cost, until the South is subjugated, the prospect is even more appalling. The vast public expenditure must be continued and increased, commercial and industrial distress will continue and increase. They do not dare to pursue inquiry as to how the means can be raised to continue such expenditure for years, nor how the country can bear commercial and industrial distress for such time.

But last of all, perhaps, do they dare to investigate the future of success in conquering the South, though they have, by acclamation, voted it the panacea for all their troubles, and strive to keep up the delusion by loud and constant reiteration of the assertion. THEY DREAD TO, AND DARE NOT, OPEN DISCUSSION OF THE RESULTS OF SUCCESS. They can no longer deceive themselves with the pleasing fancy that when the South is well whipped it will good naturedly own up to its subjection, acquiesce in reconstruction, and be as willing to the Union as ever. They are obliged to recognize the fact that if the South is subjugated, as they say it shall be, that it must be held as a conquered province. Seeing this, who can wonder if they dare not examine into the manner and cost of so holding it? They know how enormous would be the figures representing the army of occupation and the millions of cost. Nay, they know the utter impossibility of so holding the South, and yet they will not admit that the war shall have any other termination than in their possession of. With a willful determination to persist in a belief of remunerative success, which every incautious moment of reflection tells them is a delusion and a lie, they rush blindly onward in the awful future, which must be awful under all circumstances, and which every hour of persistence ensures to be more awful.

COM. FARAGUT lived for some time in Norfolk, where he now has a mother and sisters-in-law. Previous to his departure from that place he gave his friends the most positive assurance that his hand should never be uplifted against the South. That he would proceed at once to California, preferring to take no part in the contest. But contrary to his promises, he has made war upon one of the most beautiful cities of the South. Let his name descend in infamy for all time.

A SHARP SHOOTER SHARPLY SHOT.—A gentleman informs us of the death of one of McClellan's sharp shooters on the Peninsula under circumstances which possesses interest sufficient to give them to the public. Several of our men, it seems, were killed while going to a spring near by, but by whom no one could imagine. It was at last determined to stop this inhuman game, if possible, even at the cost of killing the hireling himself, who was thus, in cold blood, butchering our men. So a sharp look out was kept for this sharp shooter, and the next time he fired, the smoke of his rifle revealed the locality of his pit. That night a pit was dug by the Confederate soldiers, commanding the position of the Yankee sharp shooter, and arrangements made to get rid of the annoying creature. For this purpose a young Kentuckian was placed in our pit, with a trusty rifle, and provisions enough to last him until the next night. Next mornig early, a man was despatched as usual, with two buckets, to the spring.—He had proceeded about one or two hundred yards, when the Yankee marksman elevated himself, and placing his rifle to his shoulder, was about to pull trigger, but the Kentuckian was too quick for him for he pulled his trigger first, and simultaneously therewith, the Yankee fell.—Upon repairing to the spot, which the Kentuckian did immediately, he discovered a rifle pit and a sturdy Yankee in it, in the last agonies of expiring nature. The pit was provided with a cushioned chair, pipes and tobacco, liquor and provisions.

But the rifle which had been used was really a valuable prize. It was of most supurb manufacture, and supplied with the latest invention, an improved telescopic sight upon its end. The pit had been dug at night, and its occupant had been provisioned at night, so but for a sharp look out for the smoke of his gun, there is no saying how long this Yankee Vandal would have enjoyed the luxury of killing Southern men, without even a chance of losing his own worthless life.

MACON AND BRUNSWICK RAIL ROAD.—We are gratified in being able to announce that the Macon and Brunswick Rail Road Company have concluded an arrangement with Messrs. Nightingale, Huger & Co., for grading their entire line of road from the point to which it is now completed to the point of junction with the Albany and Gulf Rail Road. The contract made, while it places the construction of the road beyond contingency, and within a very brief time, is certainly not more advantageous to the company than to the contractors, who are wealthy proprietors upon the seaboard, but have been driven by the enemy from their estates, and find themselves with a large force without locality or employment. The road, while consulting its own advancement, has also subserved a highly patriotic purpose in furnishing occupation to a numerous body of laborers who would otherwise have been idle.

[illegible] movement looking to the early completion of the enterprise, the stock must advance. No one need be told that; with a complete line of communication to Savannah and Brunswick, it is bound to be a paying enterprise so soon as the incubus of war is lifted off the shoulders of our people.—Macon (Ga.) Telegraph.

We commend the foregoing to rail road companies in Alabama, and parties owning slaves in exposed portions of our country.—Montgomery Mail.

PENSACOLA.—It is reported by passengers just from Pensacola, that that city is to be evacuated at an early day. The Government has military control of the Alabama and Florida Rail Road; no freight is received but that which belongs to the Government. The navy yard and forts are to be destroyed; the custom house in Pensacola is to be blown up; the saw and grist mills and all other property that may be of benefit to the enemy will soon be a mass of ruins by conflagration. The Alabama and Florida Rail Road is to be stripped of all the iron; but before that is done, those citizens who desire to leave and have not the means to do so will be invited to take seats in the cars free of charge.

Thus will ingloriously fall one of the most promising and delightful little cities in the world.—Greenville Observer, 7th.

THE WHEAT CROP.—In coming from Richmond to Chester, we noticed that there was a greater quantity of land sowed down in wheat this year than usual, and never at this season of the year did wheat look more promising. From all sections we receive the same cheering news with reference to the wheat crop, and if rust does not make its appearance before the grain is matured, we may justly calculate on an abundant harvest.—Chester Standard.

PAPER.—The scarcity of writing paper drives to all sorts of shifts. We learn that a letter has been received here from Hillsborough, written on a leaf cut from an account book of a mercantile house in this town just one hundred years ago—1762.—Fayetteville Observer.

TRUE PATRIOTISM.—J. Sharks Simms, Esq., of Grindall's Shoal, Pacolet River, S. C., has refused to allow any thing made in his factory to be sold for more than it brought before the war. While others have sold yarns at $2 and 225 per bunch, he has held it steadily at $1.

☞ A Cavalry Regiment should be raised composed exclusively of extortioners, as they make such bold charges.

☞ The N. Y. Herald says that four of the "Rebel Generals" were born in Massachusetts, one in New York, one in Ohio and one in Pennsylvania.

FOREIGN INTERVENTION.

The Richmond Enquirer, which is considered by knowing ones, the organ of the Confederate administration, has a lengthy editorial, in one of its late issues which fairly lets the cat out of the bag in broaching the object of the visit of the French envoy to our capitol. The writer, it seems, penned this article immeditely after the confab occurred between that high official and our reticent Chief Executive. And although the editor does not mean to tell all he knows, and evidently touches very gingerly upon the probable designs of the Napoleonic Empire in respect to the revolution, he yet reveals enough to show the state of affairs pending between the French nation and America. The following paragraph is at least ominous, and to our mind, is but a thin disguise to the palpable designs of Napoleon as a conjoint agent of other Eurepean powers. After speaking at some length of the deprivations wrought by the blockade of our ports, and the fallacious promises made to European powers that these ports should be opened, the writer touches upon the dangers of a protracted war, and the certainty that England and France would be obliged to interpose to end it, he says:

"But the greatest danger we think would probably be found in the disposition to apply the doctrine of uti possidetis to the two belligerents. We might be addressed by a powerful, armed intervention: "Stop the fight, and hold as you possess!" This is a very unjust, but sometimes, a simple mode of settling disputes as to boundaries. To us, at this time, it would prove very disastrous; and the apprehension of it combines to urge us to make a vigorous campaign, that we may expel the enemy from our soil."

We have never [illegible] war to close upon any other than fair and honorable terms, sick as we are of the waste of blood and treasure; and for this reason we ardently hope that the present campaign will be pushed vigorously forward to a successful issue. It will require almost superhuman effort on the part of the government and people to re-possess what we have lost, if indeed, it can be done at all, for we have not only to drive the enemy from our midst, but to invade his own country, all of which demands an outlay of exertion almost disproportioned to our ability. Contemplate it as we will, the future is full of peril which it were needless to disguise. Our last hope of defending our coasts and rivers is dead; and beleagured in this way, it will demand a persistent determination of self sacrifice and stolid endurance on the part of the people, which we fear they will not be equal to, great as is their patriotism, and indomitable as has been their energy heretofore in weathering the storm.

If it be true, as hinted by the editor of the Enquirer, that a limit is to be put to the days of this sufferance, by the allied powers of England and France, we have left us precious little time to regain our natural boundaries. With the loss of the border States, our vision of empire would be shorn of its glory, and the "pent up Utica" of seven States, a republic too small to live unabsorbed by the towering grandeur of a neighbor whose spirit of conquest would never be satiated except as it held it as a dependency, unless deterred by the frowns of a mighty ally, who might consent to hold it as a sort of Province, for the sake of the profit arising from the monopoly of its great staples. We do not like the idea of being overshadowed by the magnificence of Napoleon's throne, or of having to cling to his skirts as our dernier resort, in this day of our troubles; yet even this is preferable to being whipped into subjection to the infernal dynasty at Washington. Our people will never go back to the Union. Let the blood that they have poured out like water attest this truth to the infatuated Yankees, for the sooner they are made to perceive it, the better it will be for all parties.

Speculation in Memphis.—Sugar has advanced over one hundred per cent in Memphis within the last few days. The Memphis Avalanche more than hints that the rise is caused by the probability that the Federalists will occupy Memphis.

For the Reporter.

To the Ladies and Ladies Aid Societies of Greene, Perry, Dallas, Bibb, Shelby and Jefferson Counties.

I have been requested to tender you, in behalf of this regiment, an expression of grateful acknowledgement for your kindness in supplying us so promptly with various useful and indispensable hospital stores. But for this expression of your kindness, the sick soldiers of this command would have suffered greatly, for it is impossible to obtain medicines and hospital stores of the government.—It has none to furnish, and unless the women, who never fail to respond to every call of patriotism and humanity, supply such things, the poor soldier must suffer and die for want of them. Your hearty and prompt response to our former call, give us assurance that we have only to indicate what may be needed for our sick and wounded and it will be immediately supplied.

Permit me to suggest that so great is the danger of losing articles sent by ordinary transportation that it will be better always to send some one with the goods, which will be transported free of charge if marked "hospital stores."

A few single bed ticks, made of heavy osnaburg, sowed up at each side, and made to fasten at the ends, (both ends,) with buttons and button holes, would save the lives of many sick soldiers. The reason for closing the ends with buttons is that when straw can be obtained they can be filled up and emptied at pleasure, but if nothing can be obtained to fill the ticks with, they may be stretched upon poles and used as cots. By this simple arrangement, the sick can be kept off the ground, and in time of battle the sacks can be used as litters to bear the dead and wounded from the field. One hundred of these ticks or sacks in each regiment, will save much suffering, and many lives. A few pounds of ginger, sage, and red pepper, and a few gallons of paregoric, essence of ginger, and number six, would be of great service to our sick.

Direct supplies to the undersigned as Surgeon of the 28th Regiment Alabama Volunteers, Corinth Mississippi.

With renewed assurance of our grateful appreciation of your generous donations in behalf of our sick,

I am very respectfully yours,

P. C. WINN.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

Richmond Lodge, No. 282,
May 8, 1862.

Death has entered our Lodge. Brother John F. Womack is no more! He has fallen by disease, as has been decreed by the Great Architect of the Universe, against many of our brave and promising young men, while battling for the liberty and independence of our beloved Confederacy. Be it therefore

Resolved, That we deplore the loss of said deceased, not only as a brother, and a zealous member of our Order, towards whom none bore malice or ill will, but we mourn for him as a true and devoted friend.

Resolved, That the name of our deceased brother be inscribed upon a blank leaf of our minutes, and that the Secretary be instructed to furnish the parents of the same, with a copy of the above resolutions.

FROM MEMPHIS.

"Personne," the able correspondent of the Charleston Mercury, writing from Memphis, says:

The occupation of New Orleans, of course opens the mouth of the Mississippi, and Federal gunboats have already started up the river in chase of one of our escaping steamers. They are looked for in the vicinity of Memphis within four days—a contingency which your correspondent will sagaciously anticipate by "pegging out." A majority of the residents of the city will remain and take their chances under Federal dominion.—Those most closely identified with the Southern cause, have already gone, and by the end of this week that sterling paper the Memphis Appeal, and its hive of workers, will have followed in the wake. The Avalanche will continue its publication in Memphis. Confederate money is refused here in dozens of places, and for small articles it is impossible to make use of this class of funds. Tennessee money is at a premium of from fifteen to twenty per cent. At Nashville it is selling at the same rate. Some of the merchants have closed their stores rather than sell their goods for Confederate money which they cannot use, and wherever it is accepted, the surplus cash is being invested in real estate, jewelry, plate and diamonds. Sugar has risen two cents and a half. Those who remain in Memphis, are generally the financial grey-beards, whose property and pecuniary interests are at stake, and they have been the first on the black list at the approach of danger to sound the alarm, produce panic, and discredit the treasure of the Confederacy.

The Wheat.—An immense breadth of wheat was sown last seed time, and until quite recently the prospect was unusually promising. But within the last twelve days, a blight, of some sort, seems to have struck it, and many fields are so much injured that the owners talk about turning their stock upon them. While we doubt whether the blight is so general and fatal as accounts would lead us to believe, it is certain that the prospect for the usual crops is seriously diminished, if not entirely gone.—Athens, (Tenn.) Post.

Important Suggestions.

The following important suggestions, from the Montgomery Mail, may be read with profit if promptly acted upon. It is not necessary to enquire whether there is cord wood strewn all along the banks of our river, or many tons of coal in Selma. The point is to act at once, if we intend to cripple the advance of the enemy up the Alabama river.

The Mail says, intelligence has been received that seventeen of the enemy's mortar boats threaten an attack upon Fort Morgan. Thus the Alabama river may be invaded much earlier than we anticipated. Hurry the river defences. What can be done may be necessary to do quickly, hurriedly.

A word to river men: Gunboats cannot ascend the rivers without wood or coal; then after it is known that the enemy's boats have started up, it is plain that the owners of wood or coal yards should destroy by fire or remove their contents beyond the enemy's reach.

Think of this, steamboatmen, and advise the owner of every woodlanding on the river.

The Vicksburg Whig has the following on this subject:

It is reasonable to suppose that they have not come prepared for this emergency. Indeed, it would be no small matter for them to bring a sufficiency of coal and wood to carry them through such a river campaign as they have undertaken.—Without fuel their boats will be powerless; and with our citizens living along the river it remains to deprive them of this important "sinew of war." Not one stick of cordwood or a bushel of coal should be allowed to fall into their hands; and the man who would not, under such circumstances, destroy the last vestige of anything likely to aid them, deserves the severest punishment.

The enemy, if this be done, will find it very difficult to get their boats up the river, in the first place, and much more difficult to keep on hand a supply of fuel thereafter.

Encouragement for the Timid from the Lessons of History.

A writer in the Western Carolinian, in discussing the question, "Are we to be subjugated by the North?" says:

The history of all civilized nations of past ages answer this question decidedly in the negative. Greece, a small republic, consisting of not more than an half dozen States, whose population did not exceed three millions, was invaded for the purpose of subjugation by the Persian monarch, Xerxes, with an army more numerous than the entire population of the country they invaded; but her soldiers were well disciplined and brave, and the result was that Persia "failed to subjugate her," and her invaders returned home with not more than the fiftieth part of the army that entered Greece.

England, with a population four times more numerous than that of Scotland, by taking advantage of the domestic discords of that country, for more than two centuries, at various times, attempted her subjugation, and in the rein of Edward the 2d, did succeed with a powerful army in overrunning the entire country, taking every fortress, their capital and every seaport town, and yet, notwithstanding her chiefs who fled to her mountains, in a few years assembled a powerful army of determined men, and at the field of Bannockburn, so completely vanquished and dispersed the British army, that it was the last attempt that England ever made at subjugation, and though the two Kingdoms afterwards became united under the same monarch, it was the result of civil compromise and not of conquest.

But a case more analogous to that of the Southern States and that of the Northern Government presents itself in that of Spain and Portugal. Portugal was a department of Spain, separated from the other departments by a chain of mountains, and containing a population less than one fourth of the entire kingdom. Portugal felt, or fancied, that she did not enjoy equal privileges with the other departments, and, therefore, in a Convention, passed a resolution to secede from the Spanish Government and have a Government of their own. Spain called this rebellion, and sent a powerful army by land and sea to crush it out. Portugal also assembled an army which was commanded by the Duke of Burganze, and after many years effort of alternate defeat and victory, Spain abandoned the country, AND FINALLY ACKNOWLEDGED HER AS AN INDEPENDENT KINGDOM and her rebel Duke as King.

Scotland in her efforts was without a navy—so was Portugal, and the ports of each, all the while under the strictest blockade, and neither of them possessed of half the internal resources for the supply of food or arms as are the Confederate States, and each of them had to contend with a greater numerical difference in the field. It follows, therefore, as a fact, that if we suffer ourselves to be subjugated it is because we are less brave than either of these kingdoms. This we do not believe, and therefore utterly discard all apprehension of subjugation.

☞ We regret to learn that Judge Caruthers, of Lebanon, Tennessee, died in Marietta, of jaundice, on Monday last.—The deceased was an eminent jurist of Tennessee, and for a short time, driven from his home by the invaders of that State, had been temporarily residing in Marietta. His numerous relatives and friends will mourn over his loss.—Atlanta Intelligencer.

☞ The river at this point is fourteen inches higher than it was in 1859, the highest water then ever known. It is still rising at the rate of about an inch every twenty-four hours. The levees are giving away at different points, and from the reports from above, there is every prospect that the whole Mississippi valley will be flooded.—Vicksburg Whig, 1st inst.

LATEST NEWS

BY THE SOUTHERN LINE.

Transmitted for the Selma Reporter.

Richmond, May 10.

The following is an official dispatch from Corinth, dated May 9th, via Mobile 10th, to Gen. S. Cooper:

We attacked the enemy to-day and drove him from his position seven miles.

(Signed) G. T. BEAUREGARD.

Richmond, May 10.

Gov. Letcher received a telegraphic dispatch this morning from Staunton, which states that Gen. Stonewall Jackson dispatches that we had gained a brilliant victory.

The enemy were in full flight, and being hotly pursued by the Confederates.

Our loss was forty killed and two hundred wounded.

The loss of the Federals was very heavy

They left all their dead and wounded on the field.

Of the 12th Georgia Regiment, Capts. Turlow, McMullen, Patterson, and Lieuts. Turpen, Goldware, and Woodward were killed. Capt. Dawson was wounded very badly.

Mobile, May 10.

A correspondent of the Advertiser and Register, from Corinth, says that he has just returned from the front.

The enemy were driven across Seven Mile Creek, running like sheep.

It appears that Pope's division of the Federal army alone occupied Farmington.

Halleck with the main body is still on the river.

The loss of the Confederates was slight.

The enemy's retreat was so rapid that we were unable to capture many prisoners.

Gens. Price and Van Dorn led the attack.

We captured the telegraph office at Farmington.

Confederates returning to Corinth.

It is reported that the Confederates are operating down in Tennessee, capturing a large number of prisoners, and a large amount of property, near Paris and Paducah.

[PRIVATE DISPATCHES TO THE REPORTER.]

Corinth, May 10.

Heavy skirmishing near Farmington. The enemy was driven back in confusion. Twenty-fifth, and twenty-eighth Alabama regiment is all safe.

Richmond, May 10.

In the engagement on the 5th inst., Samuel T. Griffin, and Thomas P. Norris, was mortally wounded, Isaac Moore seriously, and Lieut. Knox, and myself slightly. Wm. H. Howell, missing—supposed to be killed. Our Surgeon is attending the wounded at Williamsburg. If I hear anything more from them I will dispatch immediately.

R. A. McCRARY.

"Reliable" says that it has been determined in the Cabinet that the Merrimac is to go to York river or perish in the attempt. Wednesday night was fixed on for the trial—a desperate one; for besides the two forts, she would have to encounter two Monitors, the Stevens Battery, and any number of torpedoes. But her only chance is in doing what she can at once; delay is destruction.

It is reported that Magruder has fallen back to Williamsburg. Also that there is a quarrel between Johnston, Tatnall and Mallory about the Merrimac, which had not left Norfolk at last accounts.—The Yankees have built a bridge of boats across the Rappahanock at Port Royal, some twenty miles below Fredericksburg.

McClellan has advanced his lines to within 500 yards of ours. The Whig shows that we have still soil enough left to feed our armies, and the Examiner deprecates European intervention, on the uti possidetis basis, as the worst event that could happen to us.

If monarchical potentates have decided to prevent the continuance of the war, they must intervene by force and not by diplomacy. Seward's cunning has kept them off a long time, and his whole aim now is to keep them off until interference will be unavailing. Our path is plain.—With or without intervention, we must fight, must cease to tremble at entrenchments, must whip Halleck and McClellan.

It is said that Gen. Winder will take the field, and General Wise will assume command of this city. People have complained of the temper of the former; that of the latter is not like honey. The three French officers who deserted to us have been assigned to Gen. Beauregard's staff. They are refined gentlemen. The town is swarming with deserters, and will continue to be until a hundred or two are shot. A gentleman from New Orleans confirms the sinking of the Louisiana. Her hull was old, and too weak to sustain her armor. As many as fifty men are employed obstructing the river, which has already washed away most of the obstructions. Richmond is safe—very!

HEADQUARTERS DEP'T ALA. & W. FLA.
Mobile, May 2, 1862

[Special Orders No. 97.]

IV. The 2nd and 3rd Regiments A. V. M., together with Brig. Gen. Thomas J. Butler and his Staff, will be discharged from the service of the Confederate States on the 4th day of May inst., except the Quartermaster, Commissary, and Surgeon of the 2nd Regiment. The Commandants of Regiments will be the mustering officer and mustering them out of service.

V. The Quartermaster, Commissary and Surgeon of the 2nd Regiment A. V. M. will at once resume their duties as Quartermaster, Commissary and Surgeon of the Post at Hall's Mills, and continue to act as such until further orders.

VI. It is ordered that the 2d and 3rd Regiments A. V. M. and the 90 days men who reported for duty at Mobile under the proclamation of Gov. Shorter, may volunteer immediately for three years or the war in the Battalions and Regiments now organized and organizing for the war in the counties of Mobile and Baldwin: and to that end they may form themselves into new companies or join companies already organized in those Battalions and Regiments not having the maximum number allowed by law. Those of the 90 day men who may so volunteer will be, upon their being mustered into service for three years or the war, discharged from the service.

VII. Those of the 90 days men who do not volunteer in the Regiments and Battalions now specified, will be retained as 90 days men subject to further orders.

VIII. New companies will consist of not less than 77 rank and file, and as made up, they will apply at once to these Headquarters, for leave to elect company officers and to be mustered into the service.

IX. If vacancies occur in the officers of the 90 days troops remaining after the new organization, such vacancies will not be filled, but the senior officers of the command present will discharge the duties of the officers thereof.

X. The 90 days men will remain under the command of their present officers and their present organization will be strictly preserved until those of them who volunteer are mustered into service or the war.

XI. Application for further information upon the subject of this order must be addressed to Major T. A. Hamilton, Assistant Adjutant General 9th Brigade A. M., who is specially appointed to attend to such applications.

By command of Brig. Gen. John H. Forney,
R. M. CAMPBELL,
A. A. A. Gen'l.

COMPANY FOR THE WAR.

The undersigned have determined to raise an Infantry Company for the war. Now is the time for every man, who can go, to move. At home is not the place to protect families or property. We are fully authorized to muster men, squads, or companies, to pay the Bounty (Fifty Dollars cash) to furnish transportation subsistence &c. Now is the time for all who would avoid the conscription law to enroll themselves before the 17th inst.—All those who do not enroll themselves will not get the Bounty.

Come one! Come all! Let us go where we can do something towards protecting those most near and dear to us. Officers elected by the company.

HEALTH IS MAN'S CHIEF BLESSING.

"Oh, Happiness, how far we flee,
From thy own paths in search of thee
From Health, thy own pure fount, we stray,
Nor God's given instincts o'er obey;
To proud from Nature's self to learn—
Nature's own remedies we spurn."

WRIGHT'S SOUTHERN

PILLS

ARE OFFERED TO THE PEOPLE OF THE CONFEDERATE STATES OF AMERICA AS A

Pure, Simple, Harmless, and Natural Alterative AND BLOOD PURIFIER.

FOR THE

Toning and Fortifying of the System against Diseases, either occasional or Epidemic; and for the Cure of all Ailments having the name of Intermittent, Remittent, Nervous, Inflammatory and Patrid Fevers, Measles, Small Pox, and Erysipelas; Inflammation of the Brain, Throat, Stomach, Lungs, Liver, Intestines, Kidneys and Bladder; Pains in the Stomach, Back and Side; Consumption; Dropsy of the Head, of the Chest, of the Abdomen and of the Limbs; Scrofula, Scurvy and Syphilis; Cancer, Gravel, Loss of Appetite; Sick Headache, Spitting of Blood; Rheumatism, both acute and Chronic; Diarrhea, Dysentery, and Colics; Syncope, Apoplexy and Paralysis; Dyspepsia, Hypochondria, Tetanus, Epilepsy, Whooping Cough, Palpitation of the Heart, Ulcers and Sores of every description; Hysterics, Weak Nerves, and Lowness of Spirits; Suppression; and other delicate Female Complaints.

WHAT ARE THESE PILLS!

Composed of the simple extracts of four plants, common to most of the woods in Central Alabama and Mississippi, these pills combine in a remarkable degree the four great curative powers known to modern science; assisting Nature to expell all disease from the system without crashing its elasticity or poisoning its courses by the introduction of nauseous drugs or mineral agents.

There is not a remedy used by the medical profession or known to the scope of science, that combines, in such perfection and with such harmonious results, the four great agencies of health—the Sudorific, the Diuretic, the Expectorant and the Cathartic.

This is not a "patent medicine." These pills have been used for many years, they have been analyzed by chemists, they have received the fullest endorsement from the most eminent medical practioners, and they have never failed of success.

No pretentions of originality are made in their favor; no assertions of astounding discoveries in some impossible manner are set forth; no effort has been made to deceive or humbug any one. All that is claimed is, that these pills have been proven to be a remarkable remedy, operating with certainty upon the whole system, prompt in their effect, agreeable in their nature, and as harmless for evil as bread and water.

HOW THEY ARE MADE.

Wright's Southern Indian Vegetable Pills have been hitherto solely and are now mainly prepared to fill special orders from physicians, druggists, planters and other regular customers, who use them altogether on account of their knowledge that they are made of pure, simple and efficacious ingredients, and because of their confidence in Dr. Wright, as being free from the imputation of offering anything to the trade that is not pure and genuine. The new process of distilling the plants and purifying the essential elements from all foreign matter, (which was mainly the discovery of that great chemist, Dr. Torrey,) has alone enabled him to make these pills at a cost sufficiently reasonable to place them before the public as a general remedy. The following certificate from the well-known analytic chemist, Dr. Preston, is a sufficient guarantee of their purity;

DR. JOHN WRIGHT—Sir:—At your request I have subjected to the test of analysis a quantity of your Southern Indian Vegetable Pills, selected at random, and take great pleasure in certifying that I found them to contain nothing deleterious to the human system, but on the contrary, they possess the Sudorific, Diuretic, Expectorant, and Cathartic, properties in a remarkably harmonious combination, and my opinion is that they are the greatest universal remedy known to the world.

Respectfully, A. D. PRESTON, M. D.

Send for a circular of these pills. It contains full and interesting facts, with important suggestions to the sick and suffering, complete directions for the use of the pills, and a special card to females which every one of the sex ought to read.

Wright's Southern Indian Vegetable Pills

are manufactured expressly for use in the CONFEDERATE STATES OF AMERICA, under the personal direction of Dr. John Wright, in his Pharmaceutical Laboratory, New Orleans, Circular.

To the Patrons of the Judson:

THE Twenty-fourth annual Session of the Judson Female Institute will begin October 1st and continue nine months without intermission. The members of the regular classes should be prompt in their attendance.

A considerable change in the Faculty has occurred. The new members are experienced and highly approved instructors, and will maintain each Department in its usual efficiency. No change in the general system will occur, and the character of the Judson as a Seminary of the highest order in all branches of education will be fully sustained.

The troubles of our country and the increasing scarcity of funds suggest that many friends of the Institute may temporarily withhold their patronage. It is earnestly hoped that such will not be the case. Economy should, in these times, be practiced by all, and every luxury be abandoned; but education is a prime necessity, not a luxury, and economy should seek every other mode of retrenchment before this. All good Schools in the South should be supported. The education of our youth is a duty that we owe not only to our children but to our country. It is, next to religion, the surest means of perpetuating the sacred rights which our people are now struggling to maintain.—If pupils are kept at home a few months, schools must suspend, and cannot generally be renewed perhaps for years. A long time must then elapse before the system can be restored to the country, and the standard of education brought up again to its rightful position. Meantime our present youth will become our citizens and matrons without the enlightenment of education. This prospective calamity is as great as any that now threatens the South.

We of the Judson will struggle against this and are willing to labor on for a bare livelihood. We ask our Patrons to send us their daughters and we will train them as heretofore. We wish to receive in immediate payment simply enough to meet the current expenses of the Institution. Our rules require one half in advance. Come as near this as you can, that we may provide for the table, and meet other necessary expenses. If fully half cannot be paid at once, small amounts may be remitted during the progress of the session.

The most rigid economy will be observed in the expenses of the pupils. Parents are requested to provide them with clothing as far as practicable at home. The regulations respecting Uniform Dress will be modified so as to avoid any extra expense, but simplicity will be required. Any plain, neat dress is suitable for school and ordinary occasions. Simple straw bonnets only are worn.

Two Hundred Dollars will defray all expenses, except for clothing, of a pupil in English branches. Confederate Bonds and Treasury Notes taken at par.

Daughters of Volunteers in the service of the Confederate States or disabled in such service will receive English Tuition free of charge.

The Male Department

OF THE

Centenary Institute,

SUMMERFIELD, ALA.,

STILL continues, under the management of the undersigned, and will re-open for boys and young men, on the FIRST MONDAY OF OCTOBER NEXT.

There are some special advantages connected with this school:

1. The Principal has devoted many years to teaching and training boys; and has prepared scores for College. It is worthy of notice that the two young men who have spoken the valedictories at Greensboro, Ala., in '60 and '61 were prepared for the Southern University by the Principal.

2. Drilling in military tactics will be apart of every day's work, though not interfering with the literary success and habits of the students, being taught in the afternoons, when the other duties of the day will have closed.—This Department of the school is deemed especially befitting the times; and to make it thorough and successful, we have engaged the services of Major F. M. Hopkins, a graduate of the Georgia Military Institute, a gentleman of experience as a Teacher of mathematics, and is every way highly competent to DRILL, either in the school room or in the field.

No extra expense will be connected with this improvement. Boys and young men, intending to come, are requested to bring their own guns. Single barreled shot guns preferred. A room is provided to stack them, except when under drill; no other arms allowed.

3. Professor J. J. Garrett, a distinguished graduate of the University of Alabama, a gentleman of superior finish in education, still remains in the school, and will devote his energies to its success.

4. The social and religious advantages of the community are very many and great.

5. The whole expense of a student per year, is about $250; payable in advance, ½ in October; and the other ½ March 1st, following.

The Principal can board about 50 of his pupils; and the community can accommodate as many more.

Lights and towels must be furnished by the Students themselves.

Confederate Bonds will be received in payment for Board and Tuition by the undersigned and when it suits the convenience of patrons, payments may be made in Mobile, to Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co.

For further particulars, address the subscriber at Summerfield, Dallas County, Ala.

Gilmer, Norris & Co., Prop'rs.

HAVING taken charge of the well known Gee House in this city, we would inform the public that it has been thoroughly renovated and refitted, and is now one of the most complete houses in the Confederacy. Experienced and attentive servants are always convenient, and will leave nothing undone to make visitors and travellers comfortable. The table is supplied with the very best that the market affords. Superior wines, of every brand, furnished to order. A continuance of the liberal patronage heretofore bestowed upon bestowed upon the House is respectfully solicited, with the promise to do everything reasonable to please the most fastidious. GILMER, NORRIS & CO.
