MONTGOMERY:

J. F. GAINES, Editor.

Wednesday Evening, January 16, 1861.

The Ordinance of Secession.

We refrained from expressing anything like a concise opinion of this important document, further than to endorse its general features, together with the main object which it had in view, until we could have an opportunity of considering it more maturely. This consideration has but confirmed us in the conviction that it is not only worthy of the great Statesmen that matured and adopted it, but worthy of the State for which it was adopted, and the sanction and support of every citizen of the State. We have long entertained the opinion, and time and again have expressed it, in view of the conflicting opinions entertained by Northern and Southern men, upon an institution so vital to our interest, that no remedy for the evil complained of could be provided in the Union, and that our interest, honor and safety demanded a withdrawal from it. This sentiment was clearly endorsed by the first resolution, passed in the Convention by a unanimous vote of that Body; and again embodied in the Ordinance of Secession. Believing the people of the Southern States, to be intimately and inseperably connected both in feeling and interest, we have urged the necessity of harmonizing the Southern States, as far as it could be done by Convention or otherwise, as might be deemed most expedient, to induce them to act in concert, for the accomplishment of the same great object, in which they as well as us were so deeply interested. The Convention has endorsed this policy, and wisely provided for the holding of a Convention in this city on the 4th day of February next, in which all the Southern States are invited to participate. Whilst, therefore, the delegates in the Convention have been especially regardful of the honor and safety of their own State, they have not been unmindful of the kindred ties that exist between Alabama and other Southern States, but standing upon the time-honored principles of the Constitution as made by our Fathers, in the spirit of true friendship, they extended to their sister Southern States, the right hand of fellowship, and hold out the olive branch of fraternal reconciliation.—This is just what we desired our State to do even before the Convention met, but so it is done, we are not fastedious as to the time and manner. We feel proud of the position our State has assumed in this particular, and now if her invitation for consultation and concerted action, is rejected it is no fault of hers. She can realize the consciousness of having done her duty to herself and to the whole South, this wise and prudent course adopted by our Convention, will in our judgment, do more to harmonize the Southern States, and establish the cause of Southern independence, than anything else that has yet been said or done in that direction. We do not mean to impugn the motives of any one, but we are settled in the conviction that some in their mistaken zeal, have prejudiced the cause they designed to promote, by speaking despargeously of the interior and border States, and urging a policy seemingly indignant and repulsive in its character. But the State of Alabama in her sovereign capacity, has put the stamp of her disapprobation upon this policy, and now we trust, that all Southern States and Southern men, will be recognized as such, until by some act of their own, they prove themselves to be unworthy of our confidence and esteem. We look with deep interest to the Convention, called for on the 4th of February, and shall rejoice to see all the Southern States represented in it.

☞ The following eloquent and patriotic extract, we take from a letter written by N. S. Graham, Esq., of Tuskegee, declining to become a candidate to represent the county of Macon, in the Sate Senate. It breaths the true spirit and is particularly appropriate, [illegible] the county [illegible] ty. We know how hard it is for the leaders of a party, said he, who does it, ever to have achieved that greatest of all other victories—a victory over his own passions and prejudices.

Party spirits, that bane of Republics, has been permitted to run higher, and has been indulged in with more bitterness and prejudice in this county than almost any other county in the State; certainly more than any other in East Alabama. But surely, surely, the time has come when good men and patriots will forget party, sink it into oblivion, and let it be buried under the same Lethe's waves that are even now sinking over and shutting out from our view, we trust, forever, the Federalism, the Centralism, the Fanaticism, and the Peritanism of the old Republic. Upon what pretext, upon what basis, can sensible men be excused for keeping alive a partyism that lives only in prejudices and unfortunate passions, which survive the wishes and principles which may have given them birth. Are not the hearts of the people all united, are not their hands locking their shields about them as a buckler of defence against a common enemy? Have went seen in your own town within a week, men of all the parties, shouldering their knapsacks; husband and fathers and brothers, leaving their wives, daughters and sisters, and marching to the music of the drum and fife, shoulder to shoulder, with a common purpose, and each with the same patriotic ardor, to the summons of their State! Who is so presumptious as to undertake to impeage by invidious comparisons, the patriotism of any individual, whatever may have been his antecedents, who thus voluntarily undertakes the sacrifices and the perils incident to a soldier's life?

Our Revolutionary Fathers.—Like good printers, they locked up the forms of the Torics, and double locked the British columns.

Extra Session of the Legislature.

SENATE.

Monomery, Jan. 15th, 1861.

The Senate met pursuant to adjournment precisely at 12 o'clock.

Mr. Rather, the Speaker, being in the chair.

Mr. Morgan and Mr. McSpadden, respectively were qualified as Senators from the counties of Selby and Cherokee.

Mr. S. Dixon, of Wetumpka, was unanimously elected Assistant Secretary.

Several resolutions were offered looking to the banking interest of the State of Alabama.

The Governor's Message was read and received, and 5,000 copies ordered, on motion of Mr. Bynum, to be printed.

The Senate then adjourned to meet to-day at the regular hour.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTIVES.

Tuesday, Jan. 15, 1861.

The House met pursuant to adjournment. The roll being called, it was announced that a quorum was in attendance.

The proceedings of Monday were read and approved.

The Speaker announced that the next business before the House was the swearing in of new members.

Mr. Rice offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Whereas, The words "slaves or property" of the United States, as the same appear in the 1st Section of the 4th Article of the Convention of the State of Alabama, is impliedly repealed by the Ordinance of Secession, lately passed by the delegates of the people of said Convention assembled: Therefore,

Resolved, That the words so repealed should be omitted and left out of any oath to be administered to any member or officer of this House.

Messrs. Clitherall and Mabry were appointed a committee to wait on the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and invite him to swear in the new members.

They were sworn to obey the Constitution of Alabama, &c., &c.

Mr. Hooker of Montgomery, was elected Doorkeeper.

Mr. Henshaw of Montgomery, was elected Engrossing Clerk.

An Ordinance was received from the Convention relative to the administration of the oath to the members of the Legislature.

Mr. Parsons moved to spread the Ordinance upon the Journal of the House; carried.

Mr. Hale offered a resolution that the Speaker appoint the usual committees; that the old committees be re-organized, &c., carried.

Mr. Irby asked leave to introduce a resolution to the effect that a committee of three from this House, in connection with three from the Senate, be appointed to wait on the Governor, and inform him that the House and Senate were fully organized. Messrs. Irby, Smith and Overall were appointed the committee from the House.

Mr. Walker offered a bill looking to the effectual organization of the army of Alabama.

Mr. Clitherall moved that 250 copies of the bill be printed.

Mr. Smith of Lauderdale, moved to amend and that it be referred to the Military Committee which shall be appointed.

Mr. Hale asked leave to introduce a bill to raise money to pay the public debt, and to defray the expenses of the Army during the Ensuing year.

Pending the question of the bill to the Ordinance, the House took a recess for a period, by having 250 copies printed.

Mr. Lowe introduced a resolution, which, on being modified, at the suggestion of Mr. Walker, of Mobile, passed:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Judiciary be instructed to enquire into the expediency, at the earliest practicable moment, of a bill making the money of all chartered banks of this State, whose assets are equal to their liabilities, receivable in payment of taxes, and all other public dues.

Mr. Lyon offered the following resolution;

Resolved, As the sense of this House that the Legislature of this House ought to be much confined to matters rendered necessary—namely, the action of the Convention of the people now in session, and that the delay and expense out of ordinary local legislation ought to be avoided as far as may be consistent with the public good.

A little discussion arose between Mr. Rice and Mr. Lyon relative to the resolution.

Mr. Powell offered a resolution instructing the Committee on Judiciary to inquire into the expediency of requiring free persons of color to leave the State; adopted.

Mr. Rice offered a bill to repeal, in part, Section 2319 of the Code; which, under a suspension of the rule, was read the second time.

On motion Mr. Clitherall, the bill and amendment were referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Herman of Lauderdale, moved that the Judiciary Committee be instructed to inquire into the expediency of reporting a bill legalizing the suspension of executions until the first of March, 1862.

Mr. Herman's resolution was carried.

Mr. Walden, of Morgan, introduced a bill looking to the payment of the members and officers of the present called session.

Mr. Mabry moved to refer the bill and amendments to the Committee on Ways and Means; carried.

Mr. Walker, at 15 minutes to 12, moved to take a recess to 12 o'clock; carried.

After recess, nothing was done of any interest, except the reading of the Governor's Message, which was plain and susceptible of no misconstruction.

The Legislature went into secret session, on motion of Mr. Hale, of Greene, to receive another Message of a more private character from his Excellency. Five thousand copies of the Message was ordered to be printed.

☞ A distinguished gentleman, ex-Governor of an Atlantic State, was employed for the defence on a trial for murder. The Governor found it necessary in the course of his speech, to comment with some severity on the testimony of a witness for the posecution. In the midst of a most searching and logical sentence, wherein he was convincing the jury that the witness had sworn to more than the truth, he was interrupted by a juryman—a tall, lank fellow, who, rising, addressed the Governor:

"See here, Mr. Lawyer, I don't want yer to go on that way abusing me; I won't stand it; I'll break up the court if you do; I didn't come to be abused."

"My dear sir," replied the Governor, in his politest manner, "I was alluding to the witness, not to you; my remarks were not intended to any of the jurors."

"Well, then," said the juror, "just quit a pinting your finger at me when you tak that way."

The Late Bishop Cobbs.

At a meeting of a part of the Clergy of the Diocese of Alabama, present in Montgomery at the time of the death of their lamented Bishop, Right Rev. N. H. Cobb, D. D., and called for the purpose of expressing their sorrow and bereavement, and their sympathy with the afflicted family, on motion the Rev. Mr. Hanson was called to the Chair, and the Rev. Mr. Gholson appointed Secretary.

The object of the meeting was explained by the Rev. Mr. Ticknor; and on motion, a Committee was appointed for the purpose of drafting appropriate resolutions.

The Chair appointed as said Committee the Rev. Mr. Ticknor, the Rev. Dr. Cushman, and the Rev. Mr. Lee.

After an interval, the Rev. Mr. Ticknor, Chairman of the Committee appointed, reported the following Preamble and Resolutions, which on motion, were received and unanimously adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased the great Head of the Church in His wise Providence to take from us, at a time when his presence and counsels seemed most needful, our revered Diocesan, our tenderly beloved father, and friend, after a lingering and painful illness, in which we saw, and were tried for an example of where, and how, faith found laudable and glorious in the increase," as we doubt not, "of his own endless felicity."

Resolved, 1. That while we are deeply sensible of our own personal loss, and the loss to the Diocese of Alabama, and to the church at large, we bow with resignation to a blow directed by a Wisdom which cannot err, and prompted by a Love which "does no willingly afflict or grieve the children of men."

2. That from the depths of our sorrow, we render hearty thanks to Almighty God our Heavenly Father, for the good example of His servant; an example of entire self-consecration to the cause of Christ and His Church; an example of zeal and discretion; of wisdom with innocence; of strength with humility; of firmness in all that involved principle or duty, with the most unfeigned and affectionate respect for the opinions and feelings of others; of "mercy without remissness, and if so administering disciplines as not to forget mercy;" qualities which eminently fitted him to be the reliable guide, the safe adviser and sympathising friend of his Clergy, and under Christ the faithful shepherd of an infant Diocese, which mainly by his unwearied labors and the influence of his Christian character, was brought to its present strength and prosperity.

3. That we recognize the grace of God in the formation of such a character, and this goodness of God in so long continuing it in our midst. "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken him away: blessed be the name of the Lord!"

4. That, by God's help, we will ever cherish in our minds, just so far as in us lies, inculcate in our ministrations, the things we have received from him; and especially will we remember, as having been nearest to his heart:

His devotedness to the cause of the poor;

His zeal to secure the proper religious instruction of servants;

His earnest and unceasing anxiety that the children of the church might be brought-up, according to her mind and teachings, in the full faith and fear of God;

His inculcation of "decent manners," as a necessary manifestation of inward grace and christian principle;

His unaffected charity, "maintaining and setting forward quietness and peace among all men;

His tenderness of the erring and his diligence in seeking of Christ's sheep that are dispersed abroad, "for he laboured not alone in the midst of this naughty world, that they might be saved through Christ forever"

His uncompromising faithfulness, tempered with the utmost gentleness, in "rightly dividing the Word of Truth," and administering the doctrines, sacraments and discipline of Christ as this church hath received them, "combining" evangelic truth with apostolic order;

"In all things showing himself an example of good works;" "exhorting, comforting and charging every one of us, as a father doth his children;" and "endeavoring that after his decease we might have these things always in remembrance."

5. That we praise God for the numerous circumstances of consolation attending this trying visitation, for the perfect clearness of intellect and the spiritual tranquility and support enjoyed amid physical suffering and exhaustion; for the fulfilment before our eyes of the promise that "God will keep them in perfect peace whose minds are stayed on Him;" and for the precious legacy of parting words of admonition, encouragement and blessing, now communicated to us from the venerated deceased.

6. That we offer our fervent petition to the Giver of every good and perfect gift that this afflicting dispensation may sanctify to us all; in the increase of faith, in the promotion of brotherly love, and in the renewal of self-devotion, diligence and humility in the service of the great Shepherd and Bishop of souls.

7. That we tender our earnest sympathy to the family of the deceased in this their sore bereavement, commending them to Him who alone can bind up their bruised and bleeding heart.

On motion, it was further

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Parishes of the Diocese, to drape in mourning their churches, in memory of the death of our honored Bishop.

Resolved, That a copy of these proceedings, be transmitted to the family of the deceased; and that they be published in the city and church papers.

F. R. HANSON, Chairman.

John Y. Gholson, Secretary.

Six Wagon Loads of Gold.—The N. Y. News, of the 12th, remarks:

The Persia's specie list of yesterday, about $3,000,000, (11,700 pounds of gold,) would comfortably load six horses. It is quite a consolatory sight, in these hard times, to witness six wagon loads of gold pass up Broadway. There are few cities in which there are so many wretched, suffering people, and at the same time so much gold coin as in Gotham.

A Conference.—The Secretary of War and the Secretary of State, under a white flag, visited Major Anderson yesterday, at Fort Sumter, where they were in conference for some hours. Neither the subject upon which they treated, nor the result arrived at, has as yet transpired, but it is supposed will be made known at the proper time.

Since writing the above, we learn that Commissioners from the Governor went down to Fort Sumter this morning, but have not yet returned.—Charleston Courier, 12th.

☞ A man has a soul worth a six pence, must have enemies. It is utterly impossible for the best man to please the whole world, and the sooner this is understood, and a position taken in view of this fact, the better. Do right though you have enemies.—To cannot escape them by doing wrong, and it is little gain to barter away your honor and manhood and divest yourself of moral courage to gain what? Nothing. Better abide by the truth—frown down all opposition, and rejoice in the feeling which must inspire a free and independent man.

The Idol-Flower.

BY VIRGINIUS BUTCHER.

Beyond the baldricks high dominion,
Where orbs of flame like diamonds gleam,
Dwells fond affection's lovely minion,
The darling of my life-long dream.

In olden days of song and story
Ere fairies from the world were flown,
No fay beamed bright with beauty's glory
Like that which 'round my idol shone.

The songs she kindly sang to me
When love gave pinions to the hours,
Were sweet as lute-notes on the sea,
Or linnets' carols in the bowers.

The shell retains the ocean's tone
When from its native waves remote—
And so the tones of her thrill'd song,
Imprisoned in my memory float.

Long years ago I loved to see
Her hazel eye whence'er she smiled—
For tenderly sh gazed on me,
When I was but a little child.

Far back as memory can trace,
I know I thought that she was fair,
Whence'er I saw her love of grace
And the soft mesh of her raven hair.

Few years she walked this world of our
And mingled with the fair and gay,
Ere blighted like November flowers
She withered and drew the world away.

Nor mine the power to tell the worth
Of that sweet woman free from pride—
The sexton's spade no'er open'd the earth
To lay a dearer one within.

And if in Heaven above there be
The brightest grote for the fair,
Fond Hope, the angel, whispers me
Her stainless spirit lingers there.

I never see a lingering flower,
In autumn's pensive pallid hue,
But memory bears me to the bower
That fades in sweetness round her grave.

Yes, memory bears me to the bower
And there, beside her storm-stained urn
By bright Ohio's blooming shore,
I sigh to think she'll no'er return.

And fill my heart with rapture more,
Sons of a thousand days to-day
A thousand mornings waked the lark,
But my bright sun's evanished yet.

And love's long world is drear and dark.

Question Hope, and she replies
In her left voice's sweetest strain,
In yon bright Iren of the skies
The Rose you lost now blooms again."

I know I loved her as I may
Love on this dying globe no other—
The Idol-Flower Death stole away—
High and write—it was my mother.

The Black Republican Party and the Present Crisis.

The Cincinnati Courier draws the following graphic picture of the Black Republican party, and the incentives by which it is prompted:

The Black Republican party at this time occupies a most embarrassing position. For years its leaders have indoctrinated the masses North, with hatred of slavery and of the South, and they have unfortunately kindled a fanaticism, which they are now unable to control. But while the present agitation has demonstrated the existence in the North, of a powerful organization hostile to the South, it has also brought out a strong conservative influence, which, if it could make itself felt, would do very much to restore peace between the North and South. But, unfortunately, no occasion will arise, for some time, at least, in which the conservatism of the North can manifest itself in any way, that will be a judge of the sentiments or our people from the declarations of Black Republican executives and from articles in an unscrupulous partisan press. Nothing could be more conducive to the dissolution of the Union than the messages of the several abolition Governors in the Northern States, backed as they have been by the press of their party. If the people even of the Border States, believed that the Governors of Massachusetts, Michigan or Ohio, in their recent messages, reflected the sentiments of the people of the North, nothing could possibly prevent their immediate withdrawal from the Union.

The Black Republican party is bad enough, Heaven knows, but it is not so bad as its leaders. If the question could be fairly tested, we believe, to-day, the North would repudiate the distinctive principles of the Black Republican party. The main difficulty in the way of an honorable adjustment of the present controversy is that if the slavery question is amicably settled, the Black Republican party will be disbanded—its "occupation will be gone" forever. Hence it is, that the leaders of that party are unwilling to make concessions. With them it is a question of political life or death. Rather than sacrifice the Republican party—rather than cease the agitation of the slavery question—rather than concede to the South her Constitutional rights—they will dissolve the American Union.

The leaders, however, of the Republican party are becoming apprehensive, the brethren are becoming "weak in the knees."—Hence, it is necessary for the file leaders to give warning to the faithful, lest they may be betrayed into some compromise which may destroy the Republican party and save the Union. To show the alarm which prevades the Black Republican camp, we subjoin an article from the New York Tribune:

Beware.—Some weeks ago we warned the Republicans of the Free States that a measure was being concocted at Washington, that would yield up the vital doctrines for which they struggled in the recent Presidential contest, and we urged them to let their opinions upon that subject be known to their Senators and Representatives without delay. We have reason to know that that appeal was not made in vain. We now say to the tried and true friends of our cause throughout the country, that the advocates of what is called concession and compromise are again at work, and with more vigor than before, to induce the Republicans in Congress to support some policy that shall humble the North and make shipwreck of our party and its creed.

☞ A Scotch parson in the Rump time said in his prayer:

"Lord bless the grand council, the parliament, and grant that they may all hang together."

A country fellow said "Amen" very loudly, adding, "I'm sure it's the prayer of all good people."

"Friends," said the minister, "I don't mean as that fellow means. My prayer is that they may all hang together in accord and concord."

"No matter what cord," replied the other, "so that it be but a strong cord."

Business.—The general commercial and financial business of the city is not in a very prosperous condition. There is little doing comparatively to what our merchants are accustomed to do when times are easy.

Scarce.—The extreme scarcity of any items of local interest, is enough almost to give one the delirium tremens, who has to hunt them up. However, we are glad to see it. It is a fair indication that the morals of the community are on rising grounds. We do not deem it our special province to go around, incite persons, animals, and whatever else may come in our way, to do atrocious deeds; such as running horses away, tieing fire-crackers to the canines, getting up cat-fights, or making people drunk, for the purpose of having something to write about. If these things will happen "in the course of human events," then we will tell you about them. So look out.

Theatre.—The great musical Drama, "Guy Mannering," will be presented at the Theatre to-night, in which Mrs. Wallack will appear as "Meg Merriles," and Mr. Wallack as "Dandie Dinmont."

Bishop's splendid Ballad Music will be given by the Company. To conclude with "Boots at the Swan."

This is a splendid bill, and as the weather promises to be more favorable, a full attendance may be expected.

Mayor's, Court.—This Court was rendered radiant this morning by the lucid countenance of one of Pinto's simps, in the shape of and wearing the apparel of a woman. Her notoriety for raising disturbances and acting disorderly generally, was at one time huge. But we observed this morning that she had only temporarily withdrawn from the stage of action, perhaps to prepare some great piece, of which that of this morning was an imitation, or perhaps necessity had had his iron clutches upon her. Be that as it may, she was there unaccompanied by her counsel who it seems owl employed by the year. What was the charge against her we did not learn, and which was investigated. She concluding it best to plead guilty, and pay up and leave, which she did very gracefully.

The Alabama Troops.

The Pensacola Gazette, of Saturday, says: The 9 o'clock train last night, brought 204 men from Montgomery, commanded by Col. Lomax, to co-operate with the Florida troops in the capture of the public works at this point. The detachment consists of the Montgomery True Blues, Capt. Andrews; Tuskegee Light Infantry, Capt. R. Mays; Independent Rifles, Capt. Farris; Wetumpka Light Infantry, Capt. J. R. Loomis; Montgomery Guards, Lieut. Whiting, Commander. We have never seen a finer looking body of men; they are composed of the flower of Alabama chivalry, and do not look like men whom the smell of gun powder would make nervous. We understand another detachment is expected to-night.

A Challenge---The Minnie Musket.

As much has been said in disparagement of the Minnie Muskets, bought by me, for the State of Alabama, and as I am satisfied from tests, that their character is entirely misunderstood, or misrepresented, with a view of determining the question in a brief and practical manner, I hereby challenge those who find fault with them, and all others to shoot against them with any arms in possession of the State of Alabama, (not excepting those which cost three times as much as those guns,) or of any private individuals therein, provided there be enough to arm a single company, for any sum between $50 and $2,500—distance 1,000 yards with 50 shots, and 1,200 yards with 50 shot—all rifles shooting the round ball, and smooth bored guns to be allowed ten shots for one.

The challengers will shoot off-hand without hair-trigger, and with the ordinary sight upon these guns. The accepting parties will be allowed a rest, hair-trigger, and any kind of sight they may select; proposition open for ten days.

It is to be hoped that these guns may not stand the test for strength, is merely ridiculous; upon this I will hazard the odds of one hundred to one, upon such applications of the United States Government regulation test.

I am not a gun man, and this limited authority to purchase, was delegated under peculiar circumstances, and this accounts for the "flavor of the cocoanut."

If I have wronged the State, upon the advice of others, I will suffer for it as above, and to a greater extent in the same way if desired.

BY TELEGRAPH.

NEWS FROM THE UNITED STATES.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Senator James S. Green, of Missouri, made a formal demand for an explanation from Secretary Holt, with regard to the quartering of United States troops at the public buildings in St. Louis. Mr. Holt has refused to comply with the demand, and it is understood that Mr. Green will make the matter the subject of a strong speech in the Senate. He has telegraphed Governor Jackson, of Missouri, to take decisive measures for routing the Government troops.

Col. I. W. Hayne, Commissioner from South Carolina, and Lieut. Hall, bearer of dispatches from Maj. Anderson, have arrived in this city.

Dudley Mann, Esq., leaves here to-day, at two o'clock for Europe, entrusted with the business of South Carolina. Mr. Mann is on a mission to secure direct trade between South Carolina and Europe. He is said to go out provided with letters from the Governors of South Carolina and Georgia.

Mr. Bigler, of Pennsylvania, introduced a Bill for holding a general election of the people of the United States, on the twelfth of February, upon amendments to the Constitution.

House.—Mr. Garnett, of Virginia, introduced resolutions for the suspension of the Federal laws in the seceding States.

Mr. McKean, of New-York, introduced resolutions relative to the non-collection of the revenues in South Carolina.

Mr. Maynard of Tennessee, introduced resolutions, which were adopted, instructing the Senate Committee on the Special Message, to consider the Message of the President, recommending the issue to be presented to the people.

Mr. Corwin, of Ohio, from the Committee of Thirty-three, said he was ready to report. Made the Special Order for Monday next.

Correspondence of the Charleston Mercury.

Washington, January 11, 1861.

The progress of the revolution is so rapid and certain, that it is now beginning to be recognized, not only by the border Southern States, but, by the Northern States. So strong is the secession spirit in Kentucky, as I learn from citizens of that State, that Kentucky will probably go out of the Union ahead of Virginia. It is not well, on the part of Virginia, to defer her movement till February 7th. It will render the movement more difficult to move Maryland. What we want is peaceful secession—peaceful revolution—peaceful consolidation of the interests of the South. The more prompt the accomplishment of these objects, the sooner shall we be relieved from the present condition of doubt and uncertainty, financial and political.

With peaceful secession of the Southern States, and with or without prospective reconstruction, financial affairs must right themselves at once. The Northern States will be left to ponder upon her. But be that as it may, she was there unaccompanied by her counsel who it seemed was employed by the year. What was the charge against her we did not learn, and which was investigated. She concluding it best to plead guilty, and pay up and leave, which she did very gracefully.

Mr. Hunter enforced the proposition which he had moved for surrender of the forts and other property of the United States to the States which may separate themselves from the Federal Government. The attempt by the Federal Government to reinforce by force he considered as coercion, and coercion was war, civil war. Besides the train of disasters which it would bring upon the whole country, it would forever prevent any reconstruction of the government. He showed that the Southern States, after secession, would call a Convention, to consolidate and secure their interests. If the Northern States refused to hold a Convention, reconciliation might be commenced for a re-union upon a safer and better basis than that of the government from which the South is about to separate.

At least, the two sections could enter into league for mutual defence of such common interest as they might have.

If the Government would but abandon the absurd and impracticable project of claiming the forts in the seceding States, all would go well.

I have reason to think that the Executive Government will not make another attempt to reinforce the forts in Charleston harbor. Lieut. Talbot arrived here to-day with dispatches from Major Anderson, and they are under consideration. I have no doubt that the determination of the President will be to drop the proposition of sending supplies or troops to Fort Sumter. The Star of the West has, by this time, probably returned to New York, and will not be sent back again. The South Carolina is believed, was not sent out with any hostile view. I think so, and so.

Mr. Seward, who has accepted the post of Secretary of State from Lincoln, is to-morrow, to make a conservative speech, and will oppose coercion.

New York Fancy Dyeing and Scouring Establishment.

THE UNDERSIGNED returns his thanks to the Citizens of Montgomery and vicinity, for the very liberal patronage heretofore extended to him, and begs to inform his old customers and the public generally, that he is at his old stand on Montgomery Street, nearly opposite the Post Office, and is better than ever prepared to DYE AND SCOUR all kinds of Ladies' and Gents' Wearing Apparel, Silks, Satins, Merinos, Crape Shawls, &c. &c., upon an entirely new principle.

All work left at this establishment will be executed with neatness and dispatch. Every description of Tailoring neatly executed.

All Goods not called for within three months will be forfeited.

In addition to the above business, I will manufacture Ink of any kind that the public may require, viz: Black, Blue, Green, Red, or Yellow, as good as any imported from London or any other place, and will sell it as cheap as you can buy it in New York. I will make the best Exchequer Ink, that will not wear out the paper or any other material that it is written on, and will endure for centuries. I will also make Printer's Ink of the best quality, if I could get encouragement to make enough of it, at as cheap a rate as can be bought elsewhere. I could make enough of these materials during the summer months to supply the State of Alabama the year round.

Crane's Patent Metalic Burial Casket.

THIS is a newly invented Burial Casket, fashioned to accord with the feelings of the bereaved, and yet retaining all the requisites of an appropriate receptacle for the dead. There is no reason why such a receptacle should be made to create by its appearance disagreeable sensations. It is enough that we should be bereaved; and whatever tends to soften or make less keen the poignancy of our grief, commends itself to our consideration So much that is repulsive has been discarded in the arrangement and shape of the above Case, that its name, the CASKET BURIAL CASE, is an involuntary suggestion, and we do not hesitate to aver that there never has been in use anything so entirely chaste, appropriate and convenient as this invention.

The Case permits a view of the entire body after it is enclosed, the whole top being composed of beautiful thick French Plate Glass, sufficiently strong to resist any internal or external pressure, is perfectly air-tight, composed of metal, highly ornamental, and will last for ages.
