Mr Dellet

Dear Sir

My Sister told you no doubt some ago of the derainged condition of my Husbands affairs on that subject I now address you I thought I would spare my Sisters feelings from this disagreeable task I know well what it is to ask a husband favours for poor relations you may think I wish to be importunate but if you knew the unfriendly condition I was in when my Husband married me and that Marriage in some degree the cause of his present difficulties you would not you could not blame me. the proposal I am about to make is one that you cannot loose a cent by and is done by myself alone Mr Gorin being in New Orleans at this time where he has entered in a commission business with one of the wealthiest men of North Ala the proposition is this we have three very valuable servents that will be sold if you will buy them for me and take a deed to yourself untill I pay you for them which I will do by taking them to Orleans with me when I go and hiring them out by the day I will name them so you may designate them in after days if I should fail to pay, their names are John a man about thirty five years old and a woman by the name of Dianah and a girl twelve years old name Celia Sister knows the servents above mentioned and is well aware of their value

if you should think proper to comply with my request the negroes can be bought for thirteen hundred dollars if not never mention it to Sister it will only hurt feelings

your affectionat
but unknown Sister
