BOYKIN READY TO START WORK

Solon Shows Signs Of Recent Auto Wreck

WASHINGTON — Rep. Frank Boykin arrived in Washington this morning and despite his recent accident said he was fit and ready to tackle the work which the reconvening of congress brings to all members.

The Mobile congressman showed signs of the results of his car colliding with a cow and when he appeared on the floor a number of friends rusher over to greet him and secure details.

Wide publicity was given to the wreck and what astounded most of Boykin's colleague was the damage one cow could do to a car and a congressman.

"Only those who have had their car hit a cow can understand what happens," the congressman stated. He said it was not quite as bad as an irresistable force meeting an unmovable object but something almost as damaging.

"You know we have tough cows down in south Alabama," he added with a chuckle.

Alphonse Lucas, secretary to Boykin, will arrive some time next week. He remained to bring Boykin's car.
