MSSRS. BRAHAN & ATWOOD

In last weeks paper, you took the liberty of cautioning the public from trading for a certain note, given me by your clerk for $337, which you say was fraudulently obtained from him, and which you do not intend to pay.

That the public may judge how far your accusation against me is founded in truth. I will merely state that a note for the amount of that mentioned in your advertisement was given by you on the 19th of September last, to John D. Harmoning and being assigned by several persons came to my hands; and having negotiated the note on condition that I could get a new one from you payable directly to myself, I applied in "the absence of the acting partner" of your firm to your clerk, who destroyed the old note and gave me another of the same tenor in its stead. If this be fraud, I plead guilty.

☞ An apology, is due our readers for presenting them with a sheet of smaller size than usual, and at a day later than that of our ordinary publication. This derangement is owing to serious disappointments in not receiving a supply of paper in the customary length of time. An unexpected continuance of the low stage of the waters of the whole western country has embarrassed the affairs of this office as well as every other kind of business, which depends on foreign supplies. This irregularity is deeply regretted by us, but it will sometimes happen in spite of our best exertions to prevent it.

We shall however endeavour for the future to keep on hand such a supply of paper ink &c. as will enable us at any rate to issue our paper in due season.

GENERAL JACKSON.

The great majority of our readers will doubtless be gratified to learn, that congress has refused to concur with the military committee in their resolution of censure, for the prosecution of the Seminole War and the trial and execution of Arbuthnot and Ambrister by order of General Jackson.

This subject has attracted the eyes of the nation for three weeks, and the house of Representatives was uncommonly full when the question was finally decided, there being no less than 170 members present of whom 108 voted in favor of the General and the administration.

CONGRESSIONAL.

WASHINGTON, FEBRUARY 9.

The House of Representatives sat to so late an hour yesterday, that we can only, from that circumstance and from the want of room, state a few of the prominent results of the proceedings.

In the Senate, some business was done, of which an account will be hereafter given. The proceeding of most immediate interest, was a motion, by Mr Morril, of N. Hampshire, to adopt a proposition to the following effect:

Resolved by the Senate, that the President of the United States be requested to strike from the rolls of the Army and Navy the names of all such officers thereof, as were directly or indirectly, concerned in counselling, aiding or abetting the late duel between Armistead T. Mason and J. M. McCarty, citizens of Virginia.

This motion lies on the table.

House of Representatives.—We have great satisfaction in announcing that the discussion in respect to the incidents of the Seminole war is at lentght brought to a close.

Aftrr considerable debate, &c.—the progress of which shall hereafter be stated.

The question was taken on the resolution reported by the committee on military affairs, disapproving the proceedings in the trial and execution of Arbuthnot and Ambrister and decided in the negative.

The amendment moved by Mr. Cobb to the resolution reported by the committee of military affairs, having been modified was then rejected.

The committee rose and reported its decision.

A motion was made to postpone indefinitely the further consideration of the whole subject; when

After some discussion, the previous question was required, and being taken, was decided in the affirmative: which precluded any other than a direct question on the proposition before the house.

On the question, then, to concur in disagreeing to so much of the report as relates to the case of Arbuthnot, the vote was, by Yeas and Nays

For concurrence in disagreeing to it	108
Against it	62

On the question to concur in disagreeing to so much of the report as related to Ambrister—

For concurrence in disagreement	107
Against it	63

A motion was then made by Mr Cobb, that the house do come to the following resolution:

Resolved, That the late seizure of the Spanish post at Pensacola and St Carlos de Barancas, in West Florida, by the United States, was contrary to the constitution of the United States.

A motion was made to postpone indefinitely the further consideration of the proposition, and decided in the negative:

For the postponement	83
Against it	87

The main qustion was then taken on Mr Cobb's motion, and decided in the negative:

For agreeing to it	70
Against it	100

Thus has this knotty question been settled, after a debate of three weeks The particulars of this days proceeding will be given hereafter It is worthy of remark, that the House has never been known to have been more fully attended, than when the above votes were taken

GEN. JACKSON.—The Legislature of Mississippi now in session have passed a resolution approving the conduct of Gen Jackson, for his prompt measures to put an end to the Seminole, war and the execution of Arbuthnot and Ambrister.

The ratification of the Chickasaw Treaty is said to have made a splendid addition to the value of the property of the Univerity of North Carolina; by conferring the estimated value of 100,000 dollars on a donation of 20,000 acres of land made by Gen B. Smith some time ago, to that institution. We wish this flattering anticipation may be realized as the University has heretofore been scantily endowed, if not greatly neglected by the government of the state of North Carolina

INTERNAL IMPROVEMENT.

It will be recollected that in Oct. last, a meeting was held at the court house in this place, to consult on the measures necessary to be adopted for the purpose of raising a fund for clearing out the Tennessee river from the mouth of French Broad to the suck. At this meeting Col. Rufus Morgan, James Kennedy, Richard Meredith, Daniel Rawlings, and James Gillaspie Esqrs. were appointed a committee to superintend the collection and disbursements of the money subscribed. The meeting then adjourned to meet again on the second Monday of February, pursuant to which adjournment all the managers except one attended, when it was

"Resolved, by the board, that Jas. Kennedy sen. and Col Rufus Morgan, are appointed agents on behalf of the same to receive proposals until the third Monday May next for opening the different shoals in the rivers Holston and Tennessee, between the mouth of French Broad and the suck, and to lay said proposals before the board at its next meeting—James Kennedy and Rufus Morgan are also appointed by said board, address circular letters with subscription papers annexed, to the respective captains in the counties of Knox, Blount, Roan, & Rhea, and to sign the names of each member of this board thereto. Board adjourned to meet the third Monday of May.

WILLIAM C. MYNATT, Secr'y.

The Legislature of North Carolina, at their late session, I have been informed, have directed the road from Milton and Leaksville, on the Dan and Roanoke rivers, to be opened at public expense, to the Tennessee line, near Roane's creek iron works, in Carter county. The Post Master General of the United States has issued a proposal to have the mail of the United States carried in stages from Danvill in Virginia near Leaksville and Milton) to Jonesborough; I am also informed by a gentleman lately returned from Norfolk, in Virginia, that two steam boats are already built at that place to ascend the Roanoke to Danville, in Virginia, or as high as practicable, and then to navigate the river with barges to the before mentioned places in the same mannner they do between Richmond and Lynchburgh.—These arrangements naturally lead to the following results That hereafter it will greatly tend to the interest of the merchants of East and West Tennessee, and also of the Alabama Territory, to send their goods from New York, and Philadelphia, in the steam boats to Norfolk, then send them up the Roanoke to Danville, Milton and Leakeville to which ever of these places will best suit, then have them waggoned from those places to the Watauga, Holston or Nolichunky, there put them in light boats or barges and have them sent down the Tennessee to the most convenient points where they may be wanted. The improvements made, in the boat navigation on on those rivers, will, at all times insure a safe and speedy mode of obtaining our supplies of merchandize, from the eastern cities, and the expense of the transportation of goods from N. York to Huntsville, greatly lessened: it cannot exceed the following estimate: From N. York to Danville, &c. per hundred $2; from Danville to the mouth of Wautauga on the Holston or Nolichuky river, $3, it being one hundred and sixty five miles distance; from thence to Huntsville; one dollar per hundred. Light boats and barges, as soon as wanted on those rivers, can always be got, as well as hands to navigate them. The merchants on their journey eastward, can, at Blountsville, Greensville, Jonesborough and Elizabethton, and at a variety of places on the rivers, make arrangements to have boats and hands engaged by their return and at Norfolk can procure groceries on the best terms, perhaps better, than at any other in the United States. East Tennessee and the merchants of the Alabama Territory can be supplied with iron, flour, nails, and I hope before long, window and other glass, to make a full load for their boats. The waggons returning to Danville will have it in their power at all times, to procure back loads of flour, barrelled pork, bacon, whiskey, and I hope, cotton. In this way the people of Tennessee and Alabama, can always certainly procure a supply of salt, and thereby shield themselves from any improper exaction in the price of that indispensable article which might be attempted on them. The road from Jonesborough to Danville in Virginia, is equal at this time to the road to Winchester in Virginia, if not better. A few years ago the Legislature of Tennessee passed a law directing the expenditure of only two hundred dollars, on the road from Roane's creek, to North Carollna line. This money was judiciously laid out, and the road is now perfectly good to the state line.

There is at this time, no place between the boat-navigation of waters of the Atlantic and western states where boating is practised, where the transportation by land is so short Any persons who will take Melish's or any accurate map, & examine the course to New-York from Huntsville and Nashville, will at once discover this is the best, nearest and safest way. The country between Knoxville and Danville, is the cheapest in the United States, through which to travel.

Should the foregoing plan be adopted as it really ought to be, the delay occasioned by the lowness of water of the Ohio and Cumberland can be avoid an intercourse and acquaintance will be constantly kept up between the citizens of all parts of Tennessee and Alabama, large sums of money expended within the state, which are now expended out of it, for the transportation of merchandize to it, new means and resources of wealth will develope themselves daily; and above all, a new stimulus to the opening and improving the roads and rivers within the State of Tennessee will be the consequence.

DIED,

In the vicinity of Bladensburg, on Saturday morning General Armistead T. Mason, of Loudoun County, Va aged about 33 years He was killed in a Duel fought with muskets, at a short distance at the first discharge he fell, and his antagonist was wounded. Thus has Virginia lost one of her most esteemed sons. He has been, already, for a time, her Representative in the Senate of the United States and it has been said, would have been the next Governor of the State A beraved mother, wife, and child, and a large circle of affectionate relatives are plunged by this sad event, in deep and inconsolable affliction.

Of the origin and circumstances of this combat, we shall not speak. We deplore the occasion which has made it necessary for us even so far to note the occurrence of a Duel

☞ The following article respecting the sale of Public lands in the Missouri Territory is taken from a St. Louis paper, by which it appears that only 45,000 acres were disposed of at an average of $2 50—There were 30 townships or about 700,000 acres offered of which one sixteenth sold for $112,500. The editor assures us that the lands sold were "extremely rich and highly susceptible of cultivation," and considers it a subject of great felicitation that tracts of such value, can be obtained at a price so reasonable."

We are confident if 700,000 acres of "rich" land were offered for sale in Alabama Territory at least one half would sell at an average of $10 per acre amounting to $3,500,000, Past experience will fully justifi this calculation, and every Planter's practical knowledge of the advantages of agriculture in this country will authorize his paying that price. As the editor of the St Louis paper is fond of contrasting the two countries, we shall take the liberty of presenting our view of the subject, and account for the difference of the price of lands. The current of emigration to Alabama is so strong, that all the lands offered are wanted for immediate improvement As an instance we will take a single township sold at the November sales on which there was at the time but one family of 7 or 8 presons since, more than sixty families have located themselves on places purchased for their own use in that township, making together with their slaves a population of more than 800 souls—we give this statement on the authirity of a gentleman in whom we have entire confidence. Although the numbers moving to Missouri may be very considerable, yet they are scattered over an extensive region of country, doubtless fertile in corn &c. and if we may judge from the small quantity of land purchased at the public sales, we may conlude there are few or no dense agricultural settlement in that Territory

The extraordinary demand for land in Alabama is one reason of its high price, but a much more powerful one is the value of the production grown here. The planter here with a single quarter section, derives probably a greater profit from his farm, than one who cultivates four or five times the quantity in corn

With this view of the subject we are at a loss to conceive, on what grounds the secretary of the Treasury anticipates such great failures of future payments for land in Alabama, and still more so, to conceive how the editor of the St. Louis paper, has ascertained that fact. We presume that subsequent instalments will be as promply paid at the land office in Huntsville as in any district north of the Ohio, and if the purchaser should not be punctual to a day, we have full confidence that the government, will exercise to its debtors in this quarter, quite as liberal indulgence, as in other parts of the U. States. It is however much to be regretted that a portion of the excess over the minimum price of public lands could not be applied to purposes of internal improvement in a country so susceptible of it—but instead of this the resources of the country are exhausted by the purchase of lands, to fill the coffers of the Treasury. In our present peculiar situation no project for improving the navigation of rivers, cutting canals or opening roads can be effected but by individual enterprize While on this subject we would invite the attention of our readers to the spirited exertions of the association at Knoxville, for removing the impediments in the Holston and Tennessee Rivers.

SALE OF LAND..

"The quantity of land sold at the December Sales is said to amount to about 45,000 acres; its average price is estimated at $2 50 cents.—It must not be supposed that because the land was sold at such a moderate price, that it was deficient in fertility. On the contrary, it is believed to be extremely rich and highly susceptible of cultivation it is a subject of great felicitation that tracts of such value, can be obtained at a price so reasonable—at a price that will enable the industrious farmer and moderate capitalist (who are the most numerous in every community) to purchase with a certain expectation of paying Th[e] extravagant prices given for lan[d] in the Alabama territory, render [it] necessary that a man should be possessed of immense riches, to make purchases of any magnitude this together with the fact, that a great portion of the purchasers of that section of country, depend upon the continuance of the present price of cotton for paying the government, has induced the secretary of the treasury to anticipate great failure from that source. But in this country no failures of that nature can reasonably be apprehended. The land is equally fertile and its produce as marketable. We have this advantage, that while in the south most of the farmers depend upon the present cotton market for their ability to pay the government for the lands they have bought: in this territory almost every article which trade has made lucrative, can be raised in the greatest abundance—It is the opinion of an intelligent farmer of this country formerly, of Virginia, who has grown tobacco in both countries, that the soil of the former is better adapted to the cultivation of this article, than that of the latter. Wheat, hemp, corn and every article indigenous to the climate, can be raised in as great quantities as any other part of the globe in the same latitude With these advantages the extreme lowness of the price opens to the most indigent farmer, provided he be industrious, the means of obtaining at least a quarter section From the moderate price at which the land has been sold, inferences have been drawn unfavorable to its quality; but it is only a proof of the vast extent of unsold territory, which for years to come will present to the surplus population of other countries the certain means of finding a home and resting place, and to the government a great source of revenue

☞ Besides what has been disposed of at the public sales, a large quantity has been entered at private sale, at two dollars an acre."

LATEST FROM EUROPE

By the arrival yesterday, at this port, of the fast sailing ship Athens, captain LEE, we have received Liverpool dates of the 25th December, and letters of the 26th. The accounts are fourteen days later than we have heretofore published.

The following price currents will show the state of the cotton market, as also the prospect:

"LIVERPOOL, 26th Dec. 1818.

"We have this week some changes in the Cotton market, so far as regards demand, and on Thursday and to-day we have had a good deal of business doing in up-lands and New-Orleans at former prices We are glad also to perceive a disposition to purchase East-India cotton on speculation, which may relieve the general market. The transactions of the week embrace about 6400 bales, of which 800 New-Orleans at 17 a 18d for inferior to fair; 18 1-2 a 20 1-2 for good fair to good. 1050 uplands at 17 a 17 1-2 for inferior to fair: 18 a 19 1-2 for good fair to good: and a few prime at 20d"

Lord Elenborough, Chief Justice of England died on the 14th December.

A rumor was very prevalent in London that the King of Spain had absconded from Madrid. By letters received it is stated that he had destroyed himself, and by others, that he had been murdered. The Times observes, that the aspect of affairs in Spain was such as made it but too probable some crisis was at hand Certainly something serious has occurred in Spain

Sir Philip Francis, the supposed author of Junius, departed this life on the 32d of December last, in the 79th year of his age. Papers and documents are said to have been found which conclusively prove that sir Philip Francis was the author of Junius.

It is calculated in a Paris paper, that the French Monarchy contains 29,800,000 inhabitants, of whom 163,000 speak Bosque, 900,000 speak the Kimreque, or low Breton, 160,000 speak Italian, 1,700,000 speak German, and the remaining 27,000,000 speak French. It is calculated that of these there 26,400,000 Catholics, 2,300,000 Calvinists, [1],100,000 Lutherans, 60,000 Jews, [illegible],000 Hertenthatians, and 5[illegible] Quakers.

Growth of tea in France.—The [illegible] has the following.—"The precious herb, first introduced into France by a Russian, in 1814, promises to become naturalized among us. There are already three hundred stocks, which it is easy to multiply. This tea has received the approbation of the king's physicians, and the first naturalists in France. The plants are to be sold by subscription.

Ancient Bridge.—"Zwatle Oct. 19 Between Valte and Exloo, in the Neen (a marsh) in the district of Dienthe, a bridge has been discovered four feet under ground, which has been uncovered for a length of a league and a half, and the end of which is not yet known. The following are some particulars:—The bridge, of which more is daily discovered, runs from the Weerdingertout, through the marsh, past the Haar, and the convent Ser Apel, a distance of above three full leauges. It consists principally of rough firs, of the length of 12 feet, neatly laid together. When the marsh ground is carefully taken up no interval is to be seen between these stems, which are, on an average, three or four inches in diameter. Here and there, instead of stems, there are split planks, of the above length, and various diameters. There are no nails, and all is hewn with the axe It is generally believed that this is the bridge of Germanicus, mentioned in Tacitus and which was laid about this place, by 40 Roman cohorts, on occasion of a hasty retreat, 15 years after the birth of Christ."

Territorial Legislature.

AN ACT supplemental to the laws now governing Judicial proceedings.

Sec. 1 Be it enacted by the Legislative Council and House of Representatives of the Alabama Territory, in General Assembly convened, That whenever it shall hereafter become necessary for want of personal property, to levy an execution issued by a justice of the peace, on lands, it shall be the duty of the officer levying such execution, to return the same to the next superior court of his county, and such court shall on motion of the Plaintiff, & it appearing by an exhibition of the proceedings before the justice, that the same have been regular, order a sale of such land or whatever part thereof may be necessary to satisfy such execution.

Sec. 2 And be it further enacted, That whenever it shall be made appear to the satisfaction of any county court, that the estate of any deceased person, or those who are entitled to inherit the same, will be less injured by a sale of the land, or part thereof, for the payment of debts, than by a sale of slaves, such court may on the petition of any party interested, cause a citation to issue to all other interested persons, if in the county, or when that is not the case, by publication of notice in some paper, for such interested party or parties to appear at the next county court, and shew cause, if any they can, why sale of the land belonging to the estate so situated should not be ordered, and on the return of such citation, made known or proof of the publication of the notice hereby required, at the next term of such county court, if no cause be shewn which the court deem sufficient such court may order sale of such land, or whatever part therof as may be necessary to satisfy debts, without a sale of negroes; and such sale shall vest in the purchaser the same title in law or equity of which such decedent died possessed.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That hereafter, on the rendition of a judgement, by any court of record, or Justice of the peace, if the plaintiff or other credible person make affidavit that the defendant or defendants hath or have no property within the knowledge of such affiant, in his or their possession, and that such affiant hath just reason to believe that another person or persons is or are indebted to such defendant or defendants, or hath or have effects, of such defendant or defendants, in his or their hands, it shall [be] lawful for such court or justice t[o c]ause the person or persons supposed to be indebted to, or supposed t[o h]ave any of the effects of said defen[d]ant or defendants, to be summon[ed to] appear forthwith, before su[ch c]ourt or justice, as a garnishee [or] garnishees, and said court or justice shall examine and proceed against such garnishee or garnishee[s] in the same manner required by law against garnishees in original attachments.

Sec. 4. And be it further enact[ed] That all executions required to [be] issued on a return in vacation, sh[all] bear teste on the return day of t[he] last execution.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacte[d] That all judgments shall hereaft[er] bear interest from their date at t[he] rate established by law for contr[acts] specifying no rates.

Sec. 6. And be it further enac[ted] That there shall be appointed [in] each county, two justices of t[he] Quorum, in addition to the numb[er] now authorised and required [by] law: Provided, that any three justices of the Quorum, shall be autho[r]ised to hold a county or orpha[ns] court.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That when a writ or other process shall issue to the sheriff of the county, where the defendant resides, service of such writ or other process shall be good and valid, if the said sheriff shall execute the said writ or other process in any adjacent county, or in lands to whih the Indian title has not been extingnised, and return the same to the court from which the writ or other process issued.

Sec. 8. And be it further enacted That any person or persons, may be sued in the county in which he, she or they may be found without regard to his, her their residence, if oath be made before the clerk issuing the writ, or any justice of the peace, that such person or person hath or have gone from the county of his her or their residence, for the purpose of avoiding service of process in their proper county.

Sec. 9. And be it further enacted That when a witness whose testimony may be material in any action or suit pending before any of the justices of the Quorum or of the peace of this Territory, resides at such a distance from the county wherein such suit may originate, as to render the obtaining of his testimony according to the ordinary mode of procedure: or, shall reside without the limits of the Alabama Territory, it shall and may be lawful for such justices of the Quorum or of the peace, before whom such suit my be pending, on the affidavit of the party desirous of availing himself of the testimony of such absent witnesses, stating the materiality of the testimony to grant and to issue a DEDIMUS POTESTATEM, to be directed to one or more persons resident in the county where such absent witnes resides, requiring him or them to execute such Dedimus which dedimus shall be subject to the same regulations and be governed by the same restrictions and provisions, as are already provided by law for cases originating in the superior courts of law of this Territory, and to stay all proceedings pending before him or them, until a sufficient length of time, to execute such Dedimus shall have elapsed; any law or provision to the contrary notwithstanding.

Sec. 10. And be it further enacted, That in all cases pending before any of the courts of record in this Territory, written netice to the attorney of record of litigant parties in any suit or suits pending as aforesaid, shall be as valid and legal, to all intents and purposes, as if served on the party in person.

100 Dollars Reward

WILL be given for securing negro woman Eleanor, in any jail without the state, so that I can get her again. I have reason to believe she has been conducted off by a man who was my overseer for eight months, calling himself John Tipton—he says his parents live in Tennessee and that he intended to go there immediately; what route he has really taken I could never learn, but Eleanor having a brother and sister in Tennessee who were purchased by William Franklin of Williamson county, it is possible they may make for that place, if the said Tipton has not previously sold her. His person cannot be mista- ken,—weighing about 150 pounds— about five feet 8 inches high, ex- tremely well made,—having a rud- dy complexion,—white hair,—white eye-brows and whiskers, with very light coloured eyes.

Eleanor is a very likely black woman, about 23 years of age,— short and well made. Had on when she went away (which was late in August a homespun cotton and lin- en dress, and carried with her a green stuff and dimity dress.

The above reward will be given for apprehending and securing in any jail in the United States, the said John Tipton and negro woman Eleanor, or one hundred dollars for either, and giving me information of the same.

TOWN OF CAHAWBA.

BY THE GOVERNOR OF THE ALABAMA TERRITORY

WHEREAS by an act of the General Assembly providing for the permanent seat of Govern- ment, passed the twenty-first day of November 1818, the Governer is authorized to cause to be laid off on such plan as he may deem most suit- able a town at the confluence of Ca- hawba and Alabama rivers, now called and known as the Town of Cahawba; and (giving ninety days notice) offer such number of lots for sale to the highest bidder as he may deem proper, upon the following terms viz. One fourth part of the purchase money to be paid at the time of purchase, one fourth part, one year thereafter, one fourth part, two years thereafter and one fourth part three years thereafter.

Therefore I, WILLIAM W. BIBB, Governor of the Alabama Territory do hereby declare and make known that public sales for the diposal ac- cording to law, of two hundred lots shall be held at the town of Cahaw- ba on the fourth Monday of May next, and continue one week and no longer.

Given under my hand at the town of Cahawba the ninth day of February one thousand eight hundred and ninetcen.

llow- ly oc- metropo- ady, probably very ignorant of what was passing in her own house, was as she thought, and had reason to teink, from her unwearied vigilence, perfectly acquainted with all the domestic economy of her neighbors. It happened that by a long and diligent observation of the proceedings in an opposite mansion occupied by a foreign Nobleman, she had ascertained beyond a doubt that the footman went to bed in the maid servant's room. To be con- vinced of error and to lose no time in correcting it, is the grace of vir- tue. A letter charged with these suspicions, was immediately des- pached to the count who wrote her a very polite answer, stating how much he was obliged to her for the lively interest she took in the mo- rality of his family, that he would fosrhwith institue an enquiry into the matter, and put a speedy end to any impropriety he might discover, but he begged leave to observe, that he had hitherto understood that it was the custom of this country—for man and wife to sleep together.

HAVING sold out their stock of goods in the town of Hunts- ville and also their stock on Li- mestone, are under the necessity of re- questing all persons indebted to them at Huntsville from whom they have not purchased crops of cotton, to settle their accounts immediate- ly—Their office is kept in the white house belonging to Mr. Morgan, on Eustis street, and those indebted on Limestone, are requested to make payment to Reuben Tillman, at that place. They must close their ac- counts directly. They solicit all their former customers to call on Messrs. Robert Fearn & Co. for ar- ticles in the mercantile line, and can assure them that the stock of goods they now have on hand has been purchased on good terms.
