Camp 45th Ohio Near Tunnel Hill

January 18th 1864

Dear Sister—

I received your letter of January 3d on yesterday & was very glad to hear from you, though I do not think I can pay on your forced writing soon. Cold weather is no excuse as you could write by the fire neither is your inability being frozen any because you could thaw that too, I do all my writing by the fire & my ink freezes too, I thank you for your good notes & would be glad to attend some of those parties you mention though I understand that in place of redeeming the other party of what had been done the immediate one were worse, the affair seems to have taken place with one Hall acting in the most vulgar style that any man was ever known to do if what we hear be true I am very sorry to learn that you were there & if had been in place of mine I should have put my foot to his pear my Swanson did not bring the news & letter received here upon a young Lady said She thought B not going to any more of the parties as the way was drunk & acted so badly, but all Right of course gave no heed the case of Adule & Angleine is talked of very much in Camp there that have been some says that Chasing a wife is like going into a lost & diving out the mud gave like best & been of some very strange matches ever & a while I no not what to make of it what I write you I wish you to say nothing about it but I do not think you should have of been Swanson about that report Let it go report but of course did not be like it go over supposes that it was done but what troubles me is after Such a report the same young Ladies goes to you after when they get you were that is two more of our boys that has got furloughs & will start home in a few days Dave Taylor one of them they do not give me a chance at a furlough as I have been home once since I joined the service there is three men that have substitutes & will get forty days on them and gave me & no chance to get me a recruit I think you might get some of those fellows to come & take my place & will I think it would call them off & have their substitutes to return & am really in earnest about a recruit & want you to tell all my friends to try and get me one I think if I was at home I could find one they are in great demand here I suppose that Enoch Owen has married he married a Widow Farmer of Georgia since I have been writing this letter there has come in two men recruits for this company today is cloudy & has been raining though I think it is turning cold I hear some rebel soldiers were near about the camp lately it hurts me so much I see no chance for it to close over and if I should live to see it closed I will be too old to care to make much or to have much of the pleasure of our freedom if we should be so fortunate as to gain it but I suppose that is to me in going with this is no help for it —— January 20, that is no news but at all events every thing is quiet in front — last Sunday we had preaching by Bishop Hamil of Louisiana to the Regiments of this army which before last we had — snow yesterday & today is clear though cold, I understand that they are sending troops to Mobile from this army. I have nothing more at present to write you & must close by asking you to remember me to all my friends. Your Brother Daniel ——
