Quarter-century News employees

Employees who marked 25 years with The Birmingham News during 1972 were honored by Publisher Clarence B. Hanson Jr. in ceremonies Friday. The quarter-century workers were presented their choice of watches or shotguns. Honored were, from left, Richard L. Foster, Marvin M. Sutton, W. Edwin Day, Robert M. Dorriety, all of the composing room; Robert F. Maxwell, pressroom; George M. Horne Jr., Irby C. Posey, both of the composing room; Mr. Hanson; Jack A. Crocker, composing room; Harry W. Dearing, who received special honors in celebrating the 50th anniversary of his 25-year mark; K. P. Melton, specialty worker; Miss Bernice E. Greer, business office; Charles G. Brooks, editorial cartoonist; Paul W. Henderson, James D. Dorriety, both of the composing room; and Edward J. Hasenbein, maintenance. Not pictured is George A. Pratt of the composing room.
