FOR ONE NIGHT ONLY.
An ass, having put on a lion's skin, roamed about, scaring all the silly animals he met with. That brief sentence, from old Esop, is the text of our article. It is not a sermon, mind you, but an article of facts, and nothing but facts, suggested by the following incident:

One night, at the opening of the present ball-season, the writer emerged from the gloom of Houston street to the brilliantly lighted floor of a casino, then occupied by about two hundred persons in varied masquerade costume.

Only a few of the number were in plain evening dress, and they at the first glance, appeared as fashionable as the most fashionable butterfly of the Academy—the men in swallow-tails and fine linen, with crush-hats dangling in their hands; the women in silks, satins, and muslins, with a profusion of ornaments about their arms, necks, and wrists. The fancy dresses were less perfect; some of them non-descript, and most of them trashily spangled-kings' peasants', harlequins, and barbarians', alike.

Who were they? We were the first to see them. A young lady in a very light blue dress, with a white sash, and a white turban, was the first to attract our attention. She was looking at the other costumes with a look of interest and admiration.

The walls are hidden by high wardrobes filled with dresses, chests of drawers also filled with dresses, and you cannot move about without brushing your head with the petticoats and tunics that hang limply from the ceiling and from every possible projection. Several girls are busy at sewing machines, making, repairing, and altering costumes.

The proprietor, a stout German woman of severe manners, demands our business the instant we enter. Do we want a costume? All she has are fancy, but of those there is a matchless assortment. The rent of the cheapest is $2 for 24 hours, and a deposit of $10. We look at some of these. The suit comprises a pair of glazed pink-calico trousers, spangled; a long robe of some green cotton ribbon, and a white calico turban. An Eastern chief-tain's this, very effective, and very popular, since the visit of the Shah to England. She can give us an "Uncle Sam" costume at $4 a night, $12 deposit; a pretty combination; white trousers with a red stripe, blue coat with gilt buttons, and a yellow beaver hat? Or, if we have a lady in our party, we had better look at the Columbian, costumes which rent at from four to thirty-four dollars a night, the cheapest being made from calicoes, and the best from satins. Very rich and tasteful the latter; worth about two hundred and fifty dollars, made for the last Lieberkranz, and sold to the customer by the original purchaser, "a young lady in high life, well known in Fifth Avenue."

Only a few of the costumes rent for more than ten dollars a night, and the merry-makers hiring them are of humble station. But it occasionally happens that the customer is visited by some august young man or woman of the better class, who is unwilling or unable to buy outright a dress that will not bewilder twice. For their convenience a few expensive costumes are on hand, and are loaned at extraordinary rates. When the lady is returned, it is carefully examined, and if the slightest stain is discovered upon it, a deduction is made from the deposit. But it is the O'Connell, Cotter, the McBrick, the Fraternity, and such social companies, that are most indebted to this good German woman and her admirable system. fashionable customer, provided she provides sufficient security, and the dress will be altered and fitted to her, as neatly as if it were her own. In some of the larger establishments the stock always includes several very rich garments of the latest fashion, which have served as pattern dresses in the windows of a milliner's or sewing machine show-rooms. These are rented at forty or fifty dollars a night, and the trimmings are partly changed to suit the taste of each borrower.

An opera cloak costs two or three dollars more. The jewelry can be obtained at another house, where sets which pass as valuable in a crowd are rented for about $3 a night. Thus a woman, by the expenditure of fifty dollars, may appear in the ball room in such style as calls for a descriptive paragraph in the morning paper. There are some diamond brokers in the city who loan their gems to responsible persons on good security, but their patrons are usually persons who would disdain any other part of the toilet. The most frequent demands are from work girls, whose own wardrobe is too scant and shabby to allow their appearance in "society."

These vain, ambitious creatures gratify their passion for dress in an economical way. They may be accounted in cheap silk, trimmed with imitation laces, and bespangled with sham jewelry, for between five and ten dollars a night. A greater part of all their week's earnings is exhausted by this frivolity, and they are punished, sometimes, by hunger. Yet have they not the satisfaction of admiring themselves in a mirror, and fancying themselves lions? Let us not be too harsh in our judgment upon them. We know ladies of social standing who are not above borrowing their friend's jewels, or even articles of dress, for an afternoon or evening only.

Thus far we have only referred to the customer as an agent of vain pleasure seekers; but he is also of service in another way to very different people. The trappings and suits of woe, are found in his stock, as well as the tawdry liveries of Momus, and he equips mourners for a funeral as readily as roisters for a dance. Black silk and alpaca dresses are provided for the women, and doe-skins for the men. Hats, hat bands and gloves are included in the outfit—all at an expense of three or four dollars for each person. In winter time, too, he rents, at a charge of a dollar a night, considering the risks, in-curred, his fees are not exorbitant, and, whether his business is for good or evil, we will not decide. Certainly with his presence a time-honored and familiar nuisance is likely to become extinct. Students and victims of that literary curiosity, "The Complete Letter Writer," will remember the confusion provided for the gentleman soliciting a loan, in order that he may procure a suit of clothes, wanting which he is "debarred from a most eligible situation." His shift-bus can be covered by the customer, promptly and economically, and with this hint to beggar and alms giver, we retire—Appleton's Journal.

A certain young man went to spend the evening with his friend. During the evening he told a few stories and called them tales. The lady reproved him and told him he should say "anecdotes." After a short time he went out to see his horse. When he returned she asked him how his horse was getting along. "Oh," said he, "he's all right, only the calves have chawed off his 'anecdotes'."

The ways of women are past finding out. It is said of the young ladies of Jacksonville, Tenn., have a fashion of tying up their taper fingers when young gentlemen are expected to call, and when they very naturally ask the cause, they blushing reply "I burned them broiling the steak this morning morning."

The result, as chronicled by the local paper, is that several young gentlemen have burned their fingers by the story.

IT LEADS TO HAPPINESS.
A BOON TO THE WHOLE RACE OF WOMEN.

Dr. J. Bradfield's FEMALE REGULATOR.
It will bring on the Menses; relieve all pain at the monthly "periods;" cure Rheumatism and Neuralgia of the Back and Uterus; Leucorrhoea or "whites," and partial Eclampsia Uteri; check excessive flow, and correct all irregularities peculiar to ladies.

It will remove all irritation of Kidneys and Bladder, relieve constiveness; purify the Blood; give tone and strength to the whole system; clear the skin, impart a rosy hue to the cheek, and cheerfulness to the mind. It is as sure in all the above diseases as Quinine in Chills and Fever.

Ladies can cure themselves of all the above diseases without revealing their complaints to any person, which is always mortifying to their pride and modesty. It is recommended by the best physicians and the clergy.

LAGHANGE, GA., March 23, 1870. Bradfield & Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sir:—I take pleasure in stating that I have used for the last 20 years, the medicine you are now putting up, known as Dr. J. Bradfield's Female Regulator, and consider it the best combination ever gotten together for the diseases for which it is recommended. I have been familiar with the prescription both as a practitioner of medicine and in domestic practice, and can honestly say that I consider it a boon to suffering females, and can but hope that every lady in our wide land, who may be suffering in any way peculiar to their sex, may be able to procure a bottle, that their sufferings may not only be relieved, but that they may be restored to health and strength. With my kindest regards, I am, respectfully,

W. B. EMMETT, M. D.

We could add a thousand other certificates; but we consider the above ample sufficient proof of its virtue. All we ask is a trial. For full particulars, history of diseases, and certificates of its wonderful cures, the reader is referred to the wrapper around the bottle.

SHELBY GUIDE.

COLUMBIANA, ALA.

Thursday, April 2, 1874.

The Montgomery Advertiser of March 27th, last, copies approvingly from the St. Clair Eagle an article in which it is asserted that the question of repudiation is not political, but judicial. From an editorial in the Advertiser of March 25th when considered in connection with its complimentary endorsement of the article from the Eagle, there can be but little doubt but that such is the position of the Advertiser as well as the Eagle. To this doctrine we cannot subscribe, and must express our astonishment at the announcement of a position, to our mind, so absurd. It is utterly impossible to make the question of repudiation a judicial question, and how these gentlemen could have fallen into such an error, we cannot well conceive. How or in what way in the courts are you to raise the question of the willingness or indisposition of the people to pay. A court of competent jurisdiction may determine the validity of the bonds, or the legal effect of the endorsement by the State, but this is the mere adjudication of a legal question. Repudiation by the State is a disclaimer, or rejection, which can be made by none other than the political department. That courts can only determine legal questions, is too plain for argument; and that repudiation, when applied to the action of a State, has always been held to mean the rejection of some existing, valid claim against the State. If upon proper proceedings, a court of competent jurisdiction should decide in favor of the liability of the State to pay these alleged fraudulent bonds, and the legislature should reject, or refuse to pay, or in other words refuse to provide for the discharge of the liability thus ascertained, and declare its purpose never to pay the bonds, this would be repudiation by the State.

We are unwilling to charge such as claim to be the peculiar and especial guardians of the State's honor, with being the friends of the holders of these illegally issued and fraudulently obtained bonds of the State, or with a purpose to fasten the payment of such bonds upon the taxpayers of the same. Yet we cannot well understand how it is, such intelligent gentlemen cannot be made to understand the issue made by those who seek to protect the people against such fraud and corruption. Great injustice would be done them to say, that they do not know, that if the State should promptly pay the interest, that the validity of the bonds would never become a judicial or political question.

If you believe the State should provide for and pay the interest on these bonds as well as the ultimate payment of the bonds, be sufficiently candid to say so, and cease so much prating about the great seal of the State, which is known to have been placed upon such bonds by the hands of fraud and corruption? If on the other hand you are the friends of the people in this matter, we beseech you not to say so in one line and in the next attempt to gull the people into the belief that there is no way of escape save through the dishonor of the State by repudiation. You know, and the people know, it has been well ascertained fact, that Soutter & Co. and Clews & Co. were parties to the corrupt collusion which secured the issuance of the straight bonds of the State, as well as the States endorsement of railroad bonds claimed to have been purchased. It is further well known to you, that being parties to the fraud they cannot occupy the position of innocent bona fide purchasers without notice, and therefore, the presence of the great seal of the State will avail them nothing. It is a fact established by the sworn testimony of witnesses, and the confessions of Ex-Gov. Smith, that the bonds of the Selma & Gulf, Alabama and Chattanooga and East Alabama and Cincinnati roads was endorsed in violation of the statute and without authority of law.

With these indisputable facts staring you in the face, why longer affect not to understand the issue made. This is no abstract question of political economy, but a practical question of pressing importance to the people. There can be no necessity for the judicial ascertainment of a fact already established, and which none will deny, save those directly interested in the payment of the interest claimed to be due, and the only question is, will you provide for its payment? If done, it must be done by the legislature; and we ask you the plain question, whether or not you favor an appropriation for that purpose? and hope you will as plainly answer.

For the Guide.

MR. EDITOR: Were I present with you it would be improper to ask the name of the author of the article in your last week's issue, over the signature Leoneona, and will therefore be content with mere conjecture. It is the article, or rather the utterances of the author I dislike, and would criticize, and not the author.

If the author was indicted for the murder of the Democratic party, this article would either prove such universal malice as would sustain the indictment, or a plea of the want of information sufficient to create political responsibility. If he is a democrat (and I suspect he is, as his article is sent to a democratic paper and by it published without comment) and I believe the will of the people should be respected and the government administered with reference to constitutional limitations, he must possess more than an ordinary degree of christian charity to love the radical party as it exists in the southern states. Indeed, his love must "passeth all understanding, to induce him to place the honesty and integrity of the Democratic party, as a party, on a level with the honesty and integrity of the Radical party.

How has the Democratic party effected "religious depreciation"? How has it degenerated judicial position, and when was it guilty of legislative corruption and executive assumption? Is he a member of the Democratic party, with any degree of information as to the ends intended to be accomplished, and yet prepared to say, it is not afraid to trust the affairs of the government in the hands of the Radical party? Has he no knowledge of the manner in which the present constitution of Alabama became the organic law of the State. Has he never heard of the character of the legislation in Alabama in 1868, and how that legislation was effected? Has he yet to learn how Martin was ousted from the Senate in 1873 and Miller given his seat? Did he bear nothing of the organization of a "court-house" legislature in Montgomery and its recognition by a radical governor as the legal legislature of this State? Is he ignorant of Durell's judicial tyranny in Louisiana and its enforcement by the military under Federal permission, if not by direction? If not, please tell him something of all this, and if so how can he say that the Democratic party is not afraid to trust the Radical party, but that its opposition results only from selfishness. How did he learn, and where is the evidence that selfish motives and personal ends have crept into the Democratic party as party principles? Will he be pleased to tell us, when and in what way the Democratic party sacrificed the public good for the accomplishment of these ends? Individual members of the party may sacrifice the public good from selfish motives and to accomplish personal ends, but where is the instance of such action upon the part of a member of the Democratic party, when the party failed to show its disapproval?

If in his opinion individual members of the Democratic party are too bitter toward individual members of the Radical party, let him lecture them as individuals, but in the name and for the good of the people of this oppressed and plundered land, I implore him not to so misrepresent the Democratic party and attempt to drag it down upon a level with radicalism.

We had the honor of a call yesterday from a prominent colored statesman—an ex-State Senator of Mississippi. How did it happen we inquired, during the very able conversation which ensued, "that while the entire expenses of your government in 1865 amounted to but $260,248.04 your public printing alone cost you in 1873 no less than $31,945.66?" "Well, I don't know exactly how it is, boss," answered this christian statesman, "but the fact is down at Jackson, such thinks as public printing has fit monies here lately."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

$25 REWARD.

STOLEN from the subscriber, one mile from Clanton, Baker county, Alabama, on the night of Tuesday, March 24th, a heavy set, medium sized, SORREL HORSE, nine years old this spring. On his face is a mark made by a blind tooth working out, which left a small opening about the size of a buck shot—the hair on the back where the hind part of the saddle sits, is a little shaved off on each side of the back bone—rather a short tail, holds his head very high.

I will give $25 for the horse, or half the value of the horse, for the thief and the horse. I was offered $150 for the horse a few days before he was stolen.

SHELBY GUIDE.
COLUMBIANA, ALA.
Thursday, April 2, 1874.

Court convened last Monday, Judge Whitlock taking the place of Judge Smith for this week. After empanelling the jury, the business of the docket was taken up and the first day was not finished until yesterday evening. Besides our home bar we notice in attendance, Gen. John T. Morgan, John White and ex-Chancellor Johns, of Selma; Hon. David Clifton, of Montgomery; Judge John Henderson, Judge Jno. T. Heflin, and Col. Taul Bradford, M. H. Cruikshank, and Col. A. W. Bovey, of Talladega; Wm. McMath, Henry Wilson and P. H. Lewis, of Montevallo.

ATTORNEY GENERAL.—Without intending to disparage the claims of other gentlemen, whose names have been suggested as candidates for the office of Attorney General, the eminent qualifications for the position, personal and political honesty and integrity, together with the known popularity of Col. Ocoila Kyle, of Wetumpka, perhaps more strongly recommends him for the nomination, than any one yet suggested. We believe his candidacy would add strength to the party, and if elected, in the discharge of the duties of the office, he would be efficient as an officer, faithful to the rights and interests of the State, and an honor to the Democratic party.

CENTRAL IRON WORKS.—These iron works situated on the South and North Alabama Railroad, at Helena, in this county, are turning out a very superior quality of bar iron and cast iron. We have conversed with a number of persons who have used these ties and they pronounce them the best they have ever seen in market—being the strongest and most convenient, and were sold last season at lower prices than any others.

These works are owned by a few young men, all of whom were true Confederates, who are now endeavoring to make this home enterprise a success. We hope the people throughout the State will sustain them by purchasing their bar iron and cast iron ties, made of Alabama metal. Patronize home institutions if you want to see your country once more prosperous.

Gen. MORGAN'S SPEECH.—We had the pleasure of listening to Gen. Morgan yesterday, at the Court House. Though short, it was clear and forcible—the eloquence of logic. He spoke encouragingly of our general condition compared with many northern states; alluded to the vast resources of Alabama and showed how the material wealth of the State could be greatly increased, if fostered by a good government—a white man's government, with wholesome laws and an honest administration.

The General drew a forcible comparison between those Southern States where white men rule, and those unfortunate States where negro legislation has its sway. He pointed to Louisiana and Mississippi, covered with the ashes of degradation, as examples of negro domination. He did not mention poor South Carolina, for well he knew that even his eloquent tongue could not portray the unblushing corruption which has reduced that noble State to her present pitiable condition—all the effect of negro rule.

The whole speech was an earnest appeal to every white son of Alabama to rally to the rescue, to make one more long, strong, persistent effort to redeem the State from utter ruin and degradation. May this noble son of Alabama live to wield his Domusene blade, and drive every black government from out the confines of the State. Then may we look for peace and prosperity, not fill them.
