SENATOR BROWNLOW'S RECAPITULATION.

Senator Wm. G. Brownlow, of Tennessee, is evidently coming around to the frame of mind in which he was before the war, when he lectured in the Northern States on the divine character of slavery. It seems that a convention of colored men held in Nashville took occasion to criticize the Senator for his lukewarm course in Congress. The Senator replies in an elaborate letter, marked with his peculiar, homely style, in which he treats the Convention as "misguided men," incited by "unprincipled demagogues." He sums up his record as a friend of the Union and a friend of the negro, and especially when, as Governor, "unwieldy by personal threats and the frowns of life-long supporters," he demanded for the negro equal rights with the white man. Although he thus aided the negroes, he owed them nothing, and he owes his election to the various offices he has held to "the votes of the loyal white men of the State and the disfranchisement of those who participated in the rebellion." At the same time he will not support the Civil Rights bill or any measure that provides for the "co-education of the two races." Rather than do this he would "see every political organization in the land go the way of Ward's ducks," and every politician buried without hope of resurrection. If this bill is passed the whole school fabric in Tennessee will fall to the ground.

This is plain and bold language from a Senator who has always been among the most radical of the Republicans. At the same time his declaration against the Civil Rights bill is virtually a recantation of his belief in the republican party. He sees, no doubt, that he has gone far enough in his acceptance of the extreme views of the republicans. The issue he makes is not a practical one. No civil rights bill can secure the co-education of the races in any State, unless the "races" themselves prefer to study their grammar together. The whole issue is thoroughly a sentimental one. It is a pretext, not a serious principle of political divergence. Hereafter the radical senators from the South have abandoned everything to please the negro. Now they find that there is another influence to be conciliated. Mr. Brownlow, in taking this step, only justifies our sentiments of him as a man of unusual shrewdness, who knew when to support slavery and when to oppose it; who knows when the negro influence is useful and when it ceases to have any value. His declaration of opinions is one of the most significant events in the now ripening canvass for the Presidency.—[N. Y. Herald.]

When a fluently constructed nature wishes to go into baseness it has first to bribe itself. Evil is never embraced undisturbed as evil, but under some action which the mind accepts and which it has the singular power of blinding itself in the face of day light. The power of imposing on one's self is an essential preliminary to imposing on others. Long habits of this kind of self delusion, in time, produce a paralysis in the vital nerves of truth, so that one becomes habitually unable to see things in their reality and realize the awful words of scripture: "He feedeth on ashes; a deceived heart hath turned him aside; he cannot deliver his soul, nor say, is there not a lie in my right hand?"—H. B. Stowe.

Before the "fall of man," the only occupation was farming. All other pursuits have been introduced since.

FREMONT'S FALLEN FORTUNES.

The Chicago Inter Ocean says: "John C. Fremont is in San Francisco. A few years ago his presence in that city would have been the signal for a series of receptions and ovations, but now he receives only a passing notice. The notoriety he had achieved and the position he had created for himself have been swept away, and to-day the explorer of the Rocky Mountains walks the streets of California's chief city comparatively unknown. When Gen. Fremont was in France he was arrested, tried and found guilty of raising money on the Memphis and El Paso railway bonds by false representations and sentenced to imprisonment for a term of years. He made good his escape from the jurisdiction of the French courts and came to the United States. His brother-in-law, Baron Boileau, who was tried on the same charge, was not as fortunate, and he is now serving his term of imprisonment. Baron Boileau's wife, a daughter of Thomas H. Benton, lately died abroad under very painful circumstances. Her sister, Mrs. Fremont, was a woman of rare attainments and great ambition. Her hopes have withered, and she now holds her husband, who once almost grasped the highest prize in his country's gift, declared a felon by a friendly republic."

A Negro with a Movable Heart.

[New York Tribune.] In the northwestern part of the State there is a negro who is creating a little sensation among his own people as well as among the medical fraternity. He is of interest to physicians because of his peculiar anatomical construction. He is, or seems to be, able to move his heart from left to the right side of the chest, and even down into his abdomen, where he also has, at times, a supplementary set of ribs, which in his ordinary condition, seem to be contained in the chest under the breast-bone and normal ribs. His method of interesting the people of his own race is by getting gloriously drunk, on the proceeds of allowing a medical examination, and smashing things generally, for which offense he has been locked up in the jails of the different towns and cities of that part of the State any number of times.

A NOVEL RAILROAD SUIT OF FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS.

In 1866 a sleepy traveler on the East Tennessee and Georgia Railroad was carried by his point of debarkation, owing to the station not being called. He was a member of the Legislature and introduced a bill, where it is provided that conductors of passenger trains shall call out at each station, in a loud voice, its name and the length of time the train is to stop. For each failure to do so the road must pay a penalty of one hundred dollars. His declarations are printed and consist of two thousand five hundred cents, the aggregate of penalty amounting to two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. This is the amount claimed for failure to call the names of the stations and two hundred and fifty thousand dollars more is claimed for the failure to call the stopping time, making in all half a million dollars. The law is very distinct, and it is not easy to see how the road can escape the penalty. The law provides that half of the penalty shall go to the complainant.

Language of Affection.

How much more we might make of our family life, of our friendship, if every secret thought of love blossomed into a deed. We are not speaking merely of personal caresses. These may, or may not be the best language of affection. Many are endowed with a delicacy, a fastidiousness of physical organization which shrinks away from too much of these, repelled and overpowered. But there are words, and looks, and little observances, thoughtful, watchful little attentions, which speak of love, which make it manifest, and there is source a family that might not be richer in heart wealth for more of them.—Horne Journal.

A Kalamazoo widow has the photographs of her three departed husbands in a group, with a vignette of herself in the center, and underneath the inscription: "The Lord will provide."

PRISONERS AS PRODUCERS AND PROVIDERS.

[Missouri Republican, May 20.] Is it not possible, in this country where all kinds of labor are in such demand, to make all prisoners, those confined in jail as well as those confined in penitentiaries, earn their own living, and thus relieve society of the cost of maintaining them? Under the present penal system, which makes the prisoner an utter slave, this may be impossible; indeed, ages of experience seem to prove that it is so. But suppose we limit the restraint on the prisoner to the minimum amount required to protect society against him, and beyond that, leave him as free as an unconfinement citizen; in other words, suppose we give him to understand that he can not go beyond the prison inclosure, but may go anywhere and do anything within it that he may please to—provided he earns his own living in the workshop. He would be surprised at first, and then delighted at this unexpected freedom of choice and action; it would be an appeal to his reason and his sense of duty which would not be without effect. It may be said that if thus left to his choice, he would not work; but this is not the logic of human experience. All men outside prison have this choice, and the result is that all work. Would a prisoner's decision be different? If told that he should have all he earned above his share of the prison cost, would he not labor to support his family, to supply himself with extra comforts, and even to accumulate wealth? This is human nature outside penitentiaries, and it is difficult to tell why it should be different inside them. The idea is a bold and startling one, we admit, but it is boldly and confidently suggested to the legislature of Missouri by the secretary of the late State Board of Guardians, and supported by arguments and facts which, if not conclusive, are not easily answered. We are not prepared to say that it would yield a complete solution of the problem which the prison association has taken in hand, but it is strikingly reasonable; to say the least, it is a starting point of much interesting and instructive reflection on the subject, and we suggest that the convention may find some advantage in considering it.

Our Dormant Energies.

Our bodies are not as vigorous nor our minds as clear as they might be. This remark is true of at least two-thirds of civilized society, and of these two-thirds probably one-half is laboring under bodily infirmities of a character likely to shorten the lives of the sufferers. This is a melancholy exhibit and furnishes abundant food for reflection. Can the evil be mitigated? It can. Lack of vitality is the primary cause of most of the physical and mental suffering to which we are subjected, and therefore a vitalizing medical agent is the remedy required. Is there such a medicine? There is. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will rouse and energize the mind and body when the life power of the system is in a comparatively dormant state. The languid, feeble, depending invalid is not aware of the latent energies that underlie his debility. He thinks there is no element of vigor left in his frame, when the fact is that his physical capabilities are merely asleep and only require waking up. Let him stimulate and tone his animal machinery and endow it with new motive power, through the agency of this incomparable invigorant, and he will soon feel like a new man, or rather like a man who has received a new lease of life, and the requisite health to enjoy it. Many business men suffer from chronic languor and depression caused by too close application to business. Hard students are often oppressed with melancholy from a like cause. Mechanics and working men are affected in the same way as a result of overwork. To all who are in this condition, from whatever cause, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will prove a signal blessing. It is a perfect panacea for physical debility and mental gloom. It strengthens the body, clears the mind and calms the nervous system; while as a remedy for indigestion, biliousness, constipation, rheumatism, and remittent fever, it takes precedence of all other medicines.

NEW ORLEANS' PLEA.

We have heard so many affecting incidents of the overflow that it is really refreshing to hear anything so ludicrous as the following: The little town of Pearl River, on Pearl river, is pretty well overpowered. A branch of the Portier river is situated there, and consequently the place is well peopled with negro laborers. Old "Uncle Billy," a venerable old darkey, with side-whiskers, has a cabin built near the river bank, and was among the first inundated. He was accosted on the street the next morning after the rise by a gentleman with: "Well, Uncle Billy, I hear you were pretty well drowned out last night. How is it?" "Well, you see, Massa John, de ribber 'gins to rise up to my doo 'bout eight o'clock. I nether know'd my ole cabin was dat full of leaks 'fore, and de way dat ribber did rise on me was wusser den de dead sea ris on ole Fero. I 'clare fero Moses, massa John, I belevs dat ribber-water was creasins; fur it crawled troo dem cracks slipper den a 'possum tail. 'I didn't say nuffin till de ole cabin got kivered wid de overflow, and den I begin to bail her out. I bailed her and bailed her till de mill bell struck twelve of de clock, and den I gived her up, and took my ole chest to top of de bed, and den I got up to top of de chest and den I tried to sleep, but de cat fish was too odacious; dey kept sich a jumpin up all round de bed dat it was impossible to sleep, and I jist lay der an prayed for daylight an my fishing-pole. An when I see de fast streak ob de broke ob day a gibberin troo de chinks, I reached up to de rafters an took down my fishin-pole; den I cutts off a big piece of fat off'n de bacon side, massa John, den was hangin up der, an I jist set on my ole chest an caught dem assy cats till sunrise, haw! haw! haw!"

DR. R. RANDOLPH STEVENSON, who was chief surgeon of the Confederate States prison hospitals at Andersonville, Ga., has issued the prospectus of a book, to be entitled "The Southern Side, or Andersonville Prison."

It will contain a large amount of official documents and other testimony, vindicating the South from the malicious charge of cruelty to the Federal prisoners confined at Andersonville during the war.

"FRATERNITY UNDER THE ROSES."

The suggestion of the Herald that all distinction between the federal and confederate soldiers should be forgotten on Decoration Day, that the graves of both should be honored alike and that "our brothers should find peace and fraternity under the roses" seems to be generally approved in the South. One Southern journal speaks of "Nature, our common mother, kindly prodigal of her gifts, decorating the graves of dead heroes who fell in the discharge of what each regarded as a solemn duty. This "is an approximation to that Divine love which passeth all understanding, and is a decoration direct from the hands of God Himself." These are noble words, breathing the spirit of true christianity and patriotism. We are glad to hear them spoken in the South, and we trust the time will soon come when nothing will be remembered of the war but the valor and devotion it inspired on both sides, and when North and South will vie with each other in doing honor to the patriotism and valor of Reynolds and Jackson, Meade and Lee.—New York Herald.

Twenty thousand persons, it is estimated, have been drowned in Lake Erie during the present century.

The confiscation of the convent libraries by the Italian government has produced a collection of 600,000 volumes, which it is hoped will be assorted into a great library.

A thirty-five year old horse
died on the 13th inst., in Lawrence county, says a correspondent of the

The writer thinks that the secret of his extraordinary longevity is due to the fact that the owner never allowed his horse to ride him on a courtship expedition.

On the day of the color-

through the bridge, and half way to Tusculumbia, (more or less) and then returned to the bridge to pay his toll.
Dignity personified that.

THE LADIES SUPPER.
Messrs. Editors:
When in the course of human events it becomes necessary that lovely women should enter into combination—the specification of whose machinations it is not ours here to amplify
—the best thing for the men to do is to scatter—or come down gracefully to their work and "shell out." For our observation of late lunches us that "Women's Crusade," whether against men's appetite or pocket has been a success; and when the appetite is tickled the pocket is sure to laugh. In the contemplation of such philosophy, (we suppose) the ladies of the Episcopal Church, last week proceeded to test its sapience in this community,
and on Friday evening at 8 1/2 o'clock
they had the town hall arrayed in a way that was gorgeous to look upon and beautiful to behold, with many a smile here and there through the excesses that was child-like and blind, and tables with such things that a thorough-bred dyspeptic could not refuse;
for we think we saw one making way
with a plate of strawberries, cream, sippets &c., whose whole theory is anti-stomachic!

Toughing around about 10 P. M.
we looked upon that jury scene. In the middle of the hall under a festoon of wreaths, stood the centre picture of the evening—a beautiful flower table,
nothing but flowers arranged in exquisite taste, evidently by a master hand, presided over by the "Three Graces" who if they carried not the spirit of the night, and all seemed to have left hand times at the door and entered there for a half hour's enjoyment. The meat table in the corner was ably supported and all seemed as busy and buzzy as the B's. While in the farther part of the room, the lounge might well imagine himself in a fairy land where brilliant bon-nets and lemonade flowed freely where the keys of the night were turned upon him and the powers of enchantment took possession of his senses when he would turn from brown to gray—though not with fright, or perchance to a sylvan mood, where a smile with out a key, though with a picket sharp might unlock his pocket and if not too far gone, he might yet be revived by rice, or strawberry.
In fact everything was done up brown and where so many ladies meet bliss was occasionally found—so we thought until we examined the state of our pocket and left—a sadder if not a wiser man.

THE COTTON WORM AND SPARROWS.

The English sparrows imported into New York a few years since to protect the trees in Central Park from the ravages of insects, are making their benevolent way all over the country. We are glad to know that a number of these sparrows have been brought to Georgia. It would be well for the legislature of this State to make a small appropriation next fall to import them into Alabama and to protect them against shot-guns. At one time caterpillars were so numerous upon the trees of the parks and sidewalks of New York as to render it unpleasant for pedestrians. They would drop in myriads upon the passers-by. But since the introduction of the English sparrow not a worm can be found upon the foliage. It is believed that these little birds, which multiply most rapidly, would soon protect our cotton fields from destruction. It is worth while to try the experiment.—[Mob. Register.]

The following story comes from Ireland: "Two men had a quarrel in a liquor shop. They adjourned outside to settle the dispute. The first man being from Connaught, immediately seized a lump of stone and lay it at the head of his opponent, who dipped his head and missed the stone, which went through an expensive plate glass window and did much damage. A magistrate was called upon next morning to determine which of the two should pay the cost. The evidence clearly showed that the aim was a good one, and that if the second man had not dipped his head, he would have been struck. "Therefore," said the magistrate, "he must pay the damages, as it is certain the first man did not intend to injure the window, and the window would not have been injured if it had not been for the act of the second man."

The six largest steamers in the world are the Great Eastern, owned by the International Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Co., 679 feet long, 77 feet broad; the City of Peking (Pacific Mail Steamship Co.), 6,000 tons, 423 feet long, 48 feet broad; the Liguria (Pacific Steam Navigation Co.), 4,820 tons, 460 feet long, 45 feet broad; the Britaine (White Star), 4,700 tons, 445 feet long, 45 feet broad; the City of Richmond (Imman), 4,600 tons, 453 feet long, 43 feet broad; and the Bothnia (Gunsard), 4,500 tons, 425 feet long, 42 feet broad.—[Tusculum Times.]

The experiment of cultivating coffee from the native plant, so abundant in the foothills of the Sierra Nevada, is already begun in earnest. A gentleman, who is already familiar with the coffee plant and with its cultivation in Costa Rica, and with its horticulturalists are with the apple tree and the cultivation of the apple, has purchased a place containing a large number of the coffee shrubs, and has commenced the work of pruning and cultivation, and expects to gather his first crop of coffee next fall.—[Ex.]

KELLOGG'S CONVICTS AT LARGE.—A few weeks ago Governor Kellogg, of Louisiana, pardoned out of prison a large number of convicts, including several convicted of murder and robbery, and what at that time was predicted by the State press has come to pass. New Orleans and all the principal cities of the State are overrun with thieves, burglars and highwaymen, and rarely a paper comes to us that does not show a state of crime really alarming. Burglars and highwaymen seem to have the freedom of every city in the State, where, before the general jail delivery burglaries were of rare occurrence.—[New York Herald.]

Paul Havne recently visited the grave of Edgar Allan Poe in the Presbyterian church-yard in Baltimore, and draws a sad picture of its desolation. The burial ground is quite uncared for, and the grave is only marked by a wooden foot-board.

A gentleman was complimenting a pretty young lady in the presence of his wife. "It's lucky I did not meet Miss Hopkins before I married you, my dear." "Well, yes, it is extremely—for her," was the dry rejoinder.

A German who had not paid much attention to learning English, had a horse stolen from his barn the other night, whereupon he advertised as follows:

"Von nite, de oder day, ven I vas bin avake in my sleep, I hear something vat I tinks vas not just right in my barn, and I yust out shumbs to bed and runs mit to barn out, and ven I vas dere coom, I seaz dat my pig gray iron mare, he vas been tied loose and run mid de stable off, an ever who will him back bring, I yust so much pay him as vat bin kustumary."

A gentleman of Michigan contemplating the schooner Zaach, Chandler, said that if she was as light on water as her namesake, she would be the fastest craft on the lakes.

A noted hunter of South Hero fears that he has been the victim of a "sell." He has a gun that scatters shot badly, so that it is not much account. A while ago he saw an advertisement in a city paper, offering to send information whereby such scattering of shot could be prevented, on receipt of fifty cents. He sent the money and in due time was informed that to prevent his gun from "scattering," he should "put in but one shot."

It is a sad commentary on carpet bag rule in Louisiana that in New Orleans there are more than six thousand houses and stores standing idle, the population having decreased at least thirty thousand in four years. Shipping has sought other ports, and business at this season is less than one-half what it was fifteen years ago.—[Athens Post.]

THE BUREAU OF COMMERCE.—It is proposed to establish a Bureau of Commerce as a branch of the Treasury Department. This bureau will take charge of the national industries, comprehending those of manufacturing, mining, commerce and agriculture.—[N. Y. Herald.]

A very touchy husband told his wife they could not agree, and must divide the house. "Very well," said she, "you can take the outside."

"I would marry you, Jacob," said a lady to an importunate lover, "were it not for three reasons." "Oh, tell me," he said imploringly, "what they are, that I may remove them?" "The first is," said she, "I don't love you; the second is, I don't want to love you; and the third is, I couldn't love you if I wanted to!"

What a foe the farmers have to contend against in the potato bug is shown by the experience of a man in Joliet, Ill. He placed some in a bottle eight months ago. They have been exposed to the extremes of winter and summer, have had nothing to eat, and are still living.

A London wine dealer was recently sentenced to twelve months' hard labor for selling inferior wine for the best kind, by means of forged labels and corks branded to resemble the genuine article.

A Florida correspondent says that although many persons suffering from consumption in other states have gone there and been restored to health, there are old established Florida families fast dying of the same disease.

"How many deaths last night?" inquired a hospital physician of a nurse. "Nine," was the answer. "Why, I ordered medicine for ten." "Yes, but one wouldn't take it."

A Kentucky farmer refused to look at a sample sewing machine, recently as he always "sowed wheat by hand." He is related to the man who did not want a threshing machine on his farm, "for," said he, "give me a harness tug or a barrel stove, and I can make my family toe the mark according to the law and scriptur."

When you hear a man say the world owes him a living, don't leave any movable articles, particularly any bank bills, lying around loose.

The Chicago Tribune estimates that getting born costs the people of the United States $226,005,000 annually; getting married, $250,000,000; getting buried, $73,839,450; total, $550,844,450.

Senator Sumner's pictures at his house in Washington are catalogued. There are ninety oil paintings, valued at $25,000, and 3000 engravings, photographs, etchings, etc., worth $25,000 more.

A fop, in company, wanting his servant, called out, "Where's that blockhead of mine?" "On your shoulders, sir," said a lady.

In Congress on the 6th inst, Mr. Washburn, the successor of Mr. Sumner, presented a memorial from the colored citizens of Virginia, in favor of the civil rights bill.

A Western paper tells the following: "A gentleman recently entered the office of our leading chemist. 'Dr. —, I presume?' said he. 'Yes, sir.' 'Are you alone?' 'Yes, sir.' 'May I lock the door?' and then he did so; then, having looked behind the sofa, and satisfying himself that no one else was in the room, he placed a large bundle, done up in a yellow handkerchief, on the table, and opened it."

"There, Doctor, look at that!" "Well," said the Doctor, "I see it." "What do you call that, Doctor?" "I call it iron pyrites." "What?" said the man, "that stuff gold?" "No!" said the Doctor, "it's good for nothing; its pyrites, and put it down some over the fire. In a short while, it soon evaporated, up the chimney. 'Well,' said the gentlemanly man, with a woe-begone look, 'there's a widow up in our town who has a whole hill full of that, and I've been and married her!'"

There are 700 fashionable styles of calling cards, and Binks says he prefers to "call" on four acres and let the other 696 go.
