

SHELBY GUIDE.
COLUMBIANA, ALA.
Thursday, March 19 1874.

We surrender most of our space this week to the address to the Democratic and Conservative voters of the State, by the Executive Committee. We hope it will be read by every voter in the county. The suggestions in regard to County Conventions are good, and if followed will insure harmony in the party ranks. Let the Executive Committee of Shelby bestir themselves.

We learn from Gov. Coke's recent Message to the Legislature of Texas, that the financial condition of that State is remarkably good. The entire bonded debt is $1,061,131; due to school fund, $806,306; floating debt about $500,000. Thus the entire debt of the State is only $2,967,437. To meet this debt, the Treasury holds, cash, $36,173; unpaid taxes for 1873, $802,709; bonds deposited in New York, $900,000, and the income from taxes for the present year. The Governor closes this gratifying exhibit of the financial condition of the State with the pithy and wise remark, we ought to settle what we now owe, and hereafter pay as we go.

Mr. Editor: All men are in the pursuit of happiness. The good body, indeed, finds a higher aim than this—the establishment of justice and truth in the earth, and the honor of our Creator. But these are themes that more especially befit the pulpit and the religious paper. It is allowable for the secular paper to confine itself to secular themes. Indeed, these often underlie more sacred ones. Honesty and thrift, promote good morals, and good morals furnish a standing ground for higher things. Bread and meat, a bread-and-butter policy, is not to be despised.

In better days, intellectual eminence, professional walks, luxury and fashion, were regarded as the sphere of happiness. The notion survives still. But is it true? Have great men—men of learning and wealth, of fashion and taste, been happier or more serviceable than others? Is the career of Napoleon, an Agassiz, an Astor, a Bessington, or a Madame LeVert, to be specially coveted? Has not the severe and unambitious boy of household, who, while time, been more desirable? There are people adapted to every sphere. Some are endowed for mechanical trades, some to till the soil, some to engage in the distribution of the products of the earth, some to delve for gold and iron, and brass. For all that needs to be done, there are adaptations. There is a place every body, and everybody should be in his place. He who scorns his humblest fellow's pursuit, scorns his own interest. None can say to another, I have no need of thee. As each one of the great family pines his calling, he serves every member.

But less abstractly. If the excitements and splendor and so-called pleasures of what men have phrased high life, are more stimulating, their votaries are exposed to a thousand hazards that never reach the plain below. There, quietude, and irresponsibility, and repose, abide. No ambition drives sleep from the eyes, in midnight hours, of him who sows and plows and reaps upon his natal soil. No envious rivalry gnaws at the vitals of him who molds the plowshare or drives the plane. No fastidious follies make a doll of the good housewife, whose generous ambition is to make home tidy, and train her family in industry and virtue. No hazardous speculations jeopardize the bread of the thrifty, home-tending husbandman. A city walled around without any influx of country health of mind and body, would speedily become a society of insane and cadaverous emaciation. An inflow of health, an outflow of culture, should be the policy of our people—stamina replacing impotence, and taste lopping rural luxuriance.

Let each man, therefore, stand erect and account himself the complement of every other honest man—a needful and necessary wheel in the same great machine, assigned of God an office of equal importance with every other. And let him know that happiness is found in his place.

"Honor and fame from no condition rise, Act well your part, there all the honor lies." We shake hands and hearts, with every such nobleman, in cloth, or linsey-woolsey, or nankeen, and rank him of nature's aristocracy.

E. B. TEAGUE.

THE APPROACHING CONTEST.

In a few weeks, we shall be overwhelmed with reports of primary meetings, held to inaugurate the great political contest now approaching. Upon the action of those primary assemblages, much will depend. In the hands of the people, the fate of the democratic party in the state rests. On the success of that party is staked the welfare and the hope of the state. Unless the state shall be carried by the democracy this year, we can have no retrenchment and reform, no relief from the process of confiscation initiated by the republican party, and no restoration of confidence in business and political affairs. Unless those controlling the democratic party in preparing for the contest before it, shall consult the wishes and prejudices of the people as well as their interests, it will fall short in that support without which no victory can be achieved.

The people have lost a stake. Their credit is bought and sold. Their estates are mortgaged. Their earnings are extorted from them to feed a horde of unnecessary officers and to enrich a horde of alien adventurers. The enforcement of its revenue laws as they stand is confiscation. They are robbed and plundered in their towns and counties. They must find relief in a change of administration or find refuge in exile. They have all they have worked for and all they hope for at stake. They must win or perish. They must elect an honest democratic governor and an incorruptible democratic legislature, or be driven from hearth and home and the graves of their dead by the thieves and fools in whose hands the administration will remain in the event of a republican success.

To the people at large, the hopes and fears, the jealousies and rivalries, the pretensions and aspirations of politicians, are nothing. It little matters to them what becomes of John Doe or Richard Roe. The government was created for their protection and not for the benefit of office-seekers. When their interests are being dissipated through the unwise and corrupt conduct of public officers, they should look with no patience upon selfish ends than mindful of the public good, thrust themselves before their suffering countrymen as candidates for office and seekers after the emoluments of place.

The primary assemblages should not be left to the local politicians. The people unless they are wholly unmindful of their interests will attend every meeting called to select delegates to conventions or to choose candidates. In selecting delegates to conventions, they should regard any man himself a candidate for office as having an interest incompatible with their own and therefore unfit to represent them. No partisan of any aspirant for any nomination should be selected to any convention.

Last fall, we met in Montgomery about two hundred bronzed-faced and hard-handed farmers from the various portions of the state. They represented those who bear the burdens of government and ask in return only protection, who have seldom attended political meetings and more rarely aspired to official position, who have paid the taxes and done the voting, leaving the control of public matters to others. Stirred up by their sufferings, aroused to action by the hope of relief, they left their homes assembled for consultation in the capital. What they did there, they must do now that the work of preparation for the regeneration of that state and the protection of their interests is begun. They must not leave to others the duties imposed upon them by the necessities of their situation. They must exercise their right to shape and direct and control the political canvas, upon the result of which their destiny depends. They must attend the primary meetings, appoint their own representatives to the conventions, and select their own candidates, trusting nothing to the supposed superior intelligence of lawyers and editors and village politicians and others hitherto referred to. They must select the leaders and shape the canvass; then they will feel that the fight is theirs, as the stake is theirs, and we shall have such an uprising and achieve such a triumph as the most sanguine of us has never dreamed of.—Selma Argus.

The Greensboro Beacon compiles the following facts from the Report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction:

The school fund for the scholastic year ending Sept. 30th, 1873, amounted to $524,452.40. This fund is derived from interest on the 16th Section fund; interest on valueless 10th Section fund; interest on surplus revenue; one fifth of the annual revenue from tax and insurance; Alabama Mutual Aid Association. Of the fund for 1872, the amount of which was $607,000.97, the sum of $277,034.04 was expended, which left a balance, to be transferred to the apportionment for 1873, of $330,026.93. That added to the $524,452.40, makes an aggregate of $854,479.03, as the amount of the fund for 1873, from which the sum of $68,313.93, has to be deducted, for certified warrants during 1873, leaving to the credit of the school fund, on the first of October 1873, the sum of $786,165.10. To which is to be added the sum for the present year, which the Auditor reports to be $474,346.52, making a total of $1,260,511.62, as the total fund due the public schools for the year commencing October 1873.

The crisis through which the country has just passed demonstrates the fact that the interests of the merchant and customer are so closely identified, that if one suffers, both must suffer.

The credit system inaugurated since war, has been the curse and almost the ruin of the country. The remedy is a return to a Cash Basis. As I have helped to bring this trouble upon my customers by a too liberal extension of credit, I now propose the only remedy—to sell for cash! and for CASH ONLY! I have, therefore, marked my goods down to net cash prices.

Buy for the Cash if you have it; if not do without until you get it! One year from now you will realize that you have bought your goods 25 per cent. cheaper, and are 100 per cent. better off than if you had bought in the old way—on a credit.

BRUCE HARRIS.
Columbiana, Ala., March 4th, 1874.

Farming Does Pay in Alabama.
Ellis Gore, a Free-Will Baptist preacher, furnishes the West Alabamaian the following facts going to show that farming does pay, even in Pickens county:

I have been living in Pickens county ever since 1818. I raised my first crop in 1822, on public land. Entered 30 acres of land March 23, 1825—bought 300 of the money to pay for it. I rented land that year to cultivate. In the Fall I built houses and cleared land, and on the same place yet. I have sold corn, more or less, every year since. At the termination of the late civil war, I owned 13 negroes and other property accordingly. Since then I have hired hands two or three, and did very well. Working on shares had then become almost universal. At that I lost. During the two last years I cropped out portions of my land. That was a success. This year I am turning some few heads. I do not propose to work upon principles that I know from practice will not pay. Last year, with a step son 14 years of age and myself 73 years of age, and a few days hiring occasionally, I made 600 bushels of corn, 1200 pounds of lint cotton, about 400 bushels of oats, and plenty of potatoes, turkeys, cabbages, etc. The Dallas county friend reports 15 old hands—Lesterport 17, besides selling and giving to the sick several, and the last one of 23 hands of year before last on my table. I have killed 18 good hogs this season, and during these fifty odd years I have never bought pork or bacon but two or three times, and have sold thousands of pounds of each. Since the surrender I have paid $300.00 security money (a dead loss) and have also paid $305 for the building of a church house. I have no commission or grocery merchant, and pay every dime as I go, when change can be made. I know nothing about "hard times," but know something about hard hands. That is the way the thing is done. I have a son of 21 legitimate children (none of others) living or dead. I was 73 years old the 3rd of last October. My present wife is the mother of my living children, two girls and two boys, all born within the last four years; and unless the old man is pensioned off, or something is done to stop this wonderful production, it would seem that he will soon begin to know something about hard times. I form my own rules, and do my own growing. I am only transported from my hog pen to my smokehouse, and from my gin house to market. I am only from the Opelika Observatory.

Minor Crops.
The importance of a diversity of crops is impressed upon the farmers of the South by every speaker and writer upon agriculture. But sufficient importance is not attached to minor crops, many of which yield from four to five hundred percent better than our staple crops of cotton and grain.

As one authenticated fact, one successful experiment, is worth a hundred mere theories, I will give the result of the cultivation of sugar cane near Smith Station, Lee county. Last year over two thousand gallons of syrup and 300 hundred pounds of sugar were made in a small neighborhood. I send you a specimen of each, made by Wm. Bird. I am sure you will acknowledge the sugar will compare favorably with the first quality of New Orleans. So much for quality. Now does it pay? I give the exact figures for one patch of three-fourths of an acre.

The produce was one hundred and fifty-six gallons of syrup, and two thousand stalks for seed. And putting the syrup at 80 cents per gallon (it readily sells for a dollar), and the stalks at $5.50 per hundred, the cash value of the product of three-quarters of an acre is $175.80, at the rate of $233. per acre. In other words, one acre of cane will yield as large a profit (after deducting expenses for making and seed) as five acres in cotton. The yield given here is not unusual; it is about the same as has been obtained by these planters for the last seven years. If each planter in Lee county would plant one acre in cane, the net profit of the entire crop would amount to not less than $100,000. Who can't raise one acre? Other crops of this description yield a handsome profit. Let planters and farmers turn their attention to these minor crops, and make them defray the minor expenses, and then raise your own breadstuffs and meats, and your cotton will then be a money crop.

ECONOMY.
THE VERY THING FOR COLDS.—A writer in the Medical Record cites a number of cases in which borax has proved a most effective remedy in certain forms of colds. He states that in sudden hoarseness or loss of voice in public speakers or singers, from colds, relief for an hour or so, as by magic, may be obtained by slowly dissolving and partially swallowing a lump of borax the size of a garden pea, or about three for ten minutes before speaking or singing. This produces a profuse secretion of saliva for a few minutes of the month and throat, probably restoring the voice or tone to the dried vocal cords, just as wetting strings back the missing notes to a flute, when it is too dry.

WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. C. Ayer's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Restorative and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs in Bilious Diseases.

Ayer's
Sarsaparilla
Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has the reputation of being a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination, Impurities or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blisters, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhoea, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poison.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.
