ARE YOU WAITING?

Are you watching for me, darling,
On the sands down by the sea,
Where the music of its surges
Wake rare melodies for me?
Do you hear the fishers' stories,
As they glide far out the bay,
While you listen for my footsteps
At the purple close of day?

Are you watching in the moonlight,
Near the silver gleam of stars,
As the scarlet flash of evening
Softly fades to violet bars,
And the sky with all its splendor
Looks down on you and me,
Where the shadows kiss the water,
Where the gold lies on the sea?

I can see your amber tresses
Faintly touched with golden light;
I can hear the song you sung me
In the still summer night,
Soft the music comes, like dreaming
Of that far off magic time,
With its soft, delicious clime.

List, the bells are o'er with chiming
Out upon the evening air;
See, the west so full of crimson,
And the stars are more than fair,
Are you watching for me darling?
Soon my footsteps you will hear,
For the sands will sing my coming,
For the sea will say I'm near.

At a late conference session a clergyman gave a reason why the Baptist church is like a beaver's hut. There is only one entrance to it; and that is under water.

At her death while being hit on the head with a long handled steven, in the hands of his wife, was the verdict in a recent case in Illinois.

It's rather remarkable that while several thousand feet are required to make one road, a single foot properly applied, is often sufficient to make one evil.

'Our devil says that two of the hardest things in life is to have a person offer you a chew of fine-cut tobacco and have to refuse it because you have promised to quit using it, and the other is to see your younger brother walking with your sweetheart and not give him a sound drubbing.

"Howdy, Aunt Maria," said a Georgin lady to an old colored lady. "I ain't yer ant, missis," loftily replied the aged female, "and I aint yer uncle, I see yer ekal!"

An obituary notice of a much respected Louisville lady concludes with,
"In her life she was a pattern worthy to be followed, and her death, oh, how consoling to her friends."

A Yankee schoolmaster who undertook to make compulsory poets of his scholars was obliged to listen to this effusion of one of them:

"Oh, helpful Javel lend us thine aid
To help us wretched scholars!
We've hired a tool to teach this school
And pay him fifty dollars."

LUCY'S ACCIDENT.

Everybody wonders how Lucy Willis lost her lover. She is a very pretty girl as well as accomplished and intelligent. Dr. Hampton was a great catch,
and when he came to Nortonburg, Lucy was not the only girl who determined to "set her cap" for him, and Mrs.
Grundy wondered who would captivate
him; but very soon the young physician showed a strong preference for Lucy
and pretty little Lucy was delighted.
Every few days they were seen together, riding, walking, sailing, &c., and the little boys counted the times they made carrying water melons and things doctor to Miss Lucy. But from the all at once his attentions ceased.

A time he missed about in a very quiet
way; then he began visiting Alice Leigh,
and the village gossips wondered why it was so. But you see they didn't know anything of the buggy ride Lucy took with the doctor, the accident that happened, nor what came of it. Lucy knows why she lost him, and so does the doctor, but she will never tell, and he's a perfect gentleman.

You must understand the doctor had not fully declared himself, but he interded doing so, and concluded 'twould be so nice to whisper sweet words in her ear as they drove along the shady turnpike. He invited her to drive out with him, she accepted and away they went.
They were very gay, quoting poetry and making love in that roundabout way that comes just before the declaration, when the doctor's horse backed his ears, shook head, kicked and diu so many queer things that Lucy became frightened, and before her lover could prevent her, jumped from the buggy. Dr. Hampton after quitting his horse went to bed.

"Darling, are you hurt?" he asked Lucy blushed.

"I believe—I think I've sprained my —my foot." It was very foolish in me to do, but I can walk to the buggy, and we must go home." She attempted to walk, but fell back powerless in her lover's arms.

"You are hurt," he said, "you must let me see your foot," and she put out her little foot clad in a neatly fitting boot.

"Your shoe will have to come off,"
he said. "The ankle is swollen badly."

"Oh no; how away?" she said, as she began unlacing her boot. "You shall not take off my shoe," but here the kneen p in struck her again and she fair-ted, while her lover removed the tiny boot. But immediately he started back in amazement, for there before his bewildered gaze were the 5 tiny toes of his lady love peeping out from an immense hole at one extremity of her stockings, while at the other was a little round heel peeping out as shyly as the 5 little toes; and then the doctor knew his little dream was over, for of all things he admired neatness in a woman more than anything else.

When Lucy recovered, he carried her to the buggy, was kind and gentle, drove her home, but the intended proposal was left unsaid.
Lucy knew she had lost him; and reasoned within herself. He had no business to take off my shoe." And he thought to himself, "She had no business wearing stockings with holes in them."

"Accidents will happen, young ladies, and the safest plan always is to be neat, and not think as Lucy did, that these holes will never be seen."

Be True to Yourself—If a man will only start with a fixed and honorable purpose in life, and strictly and persistently attempt to carry it out to the best of his ability; undismayed by failure or delay, the time may be long in coming but come it will when that purpose will be achieved.

Under the Senate bill as it now stands, the entire paper circulation would be $448,500,000, including the fractional currency, or, $800,000,000
without the latter.

NOTICE.—G. A. NORTHINGTON, Esq., is our authorized Agent to receive and receipt for all monies due us for advertising Probate Notices.

PROBATE NOTICES.—See all new Probate notices in to-day's paper.

An emigration meeting was held at the Court House yesterday, the proceedings of which we will publish next week. Speeches were made by Messrs. C. S. G. Doster, W. H. Northington, T. W. Sadler, S. S. Booth, and others.

New Hats.—The clever firm of H. E. Day & Co., No. 26 Market street, Montgomery, have just received their new and beautiful stock of hats for spring and summer wear. Their hats are all of the latest styles, very cheap and really magnificent. Call on them when you visit the city.

We are having too much rain for farming operations, and our farmers are now doing but little. We are glad to note, however, that the majority of them have planted at least one half of their land with corn.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Warner, traveling agent for the Montgomery Advertiser, paid us a visit yesterday. He is here looking after the interests of his paper, and we hope our people will give him much encouragement.

The currency bill that passed the House on the 14th has yet to pass the Senate. It is thought that Grant will sign the bill, should it pass the Senate, and give the New England States a chance to secede and get up a new civil war. Nous verrons.

METHODIST FAIR AND SUPPER.—The ladies of the Methodist E. Church, of this place, will give a Fair and Supper, at the M. E. Sabbath School Room, on Thursday night next, 23d inst., for the purpose of raising funds to replenish their Sunday School library. It will be a splendid affair, of course, and we hope our citizens will attend en masse.

THE CONCERT.—The Brass Band of Prattville will give their concert at the Protestant Church on next Wednesday night, 23d inst. They will be assisted by several lady musicians, and we may expect something good. The Band has made great progress within the past few weeks, and we have no doubt their performances at the concert will give great satisfaction to all who may attend. Let there be a crowded house.

Circuit Court.—This Court convened on Monday last, Judge J. Q. Smith presiding. His honor delivered an able and lucid charge to the Grand Jury, after which the Court adjourned until Tuesday morning. The civil docket is very light, and will be disposed of by to-morrow. The Prattville bar is in attendance in full force—only one lawyer present from Montgomery, Mr. Gunter. Very few people from the country have visited us this Court. Next week the State docket will be taken up, and we expect to see a big crowd in town. The Grand Jury, no doubt, will adjourn next Saturday.

Southern Musical Journal.—In the April number of this interesting monthly, we find a choice selection of music, which must prove highly acceptable to its subscribers. The duet and chorus, "Sweet Birds of Spring," by A. B. Clark, is really charming and needs only to be heard to be thoroughly appreciated. "Jolly Shottische," of medium difficulty, and "Pleasant Smiles Waltz," for little fingers, complete the musical contents. The remaining pages are filled with the usual variety of excellent reading matter interesting to musical readers. One dollar a year will secure the Journal regularly, and those who are interested in musical matters, cannot do better than to subscribe at once. A specimen copy, containing one dollar's worth of music, can be had free of charge, by addressing the Publishers, Ludden & Bates, Savannah, Ga.

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

Colonel T. B. Bethea, of Montgomery, is strongly urged for governor.

The Montgomery Ledger says Col. Tyler will resign the chairmanship of the democratic state executive committee.

It is hard for the Bay State to fill her Senator's place. Ballot after ballot brings the issue no nearer its end.

A Hoboken editor, being challenged, sent word in reply, "When I want to die I can shoot myself."

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher has accepted the invitation to be present at the Press Convention in Birmingham on the 19th prox.

Spell murder backwards and you have its cause. Spell its cause in the same manner, and you have its effect.

Thousands of young trout about two inches in length were recently thrown up to the height of thirty feet from an artesian well in San Francisco, 145 feet deep.

A Richmond paper thinks that the moving of the mountains in North Carolina must be owing to the increase of faith in that region.

Western women are grumbling terribly because the managers of the agricultural fairs don't give at least a year's notice, when they offer prizes for the finest babies.

The Cincinnati "Enquirer" offers to bet five hundred dollars that no fashionable lady ever goes to bed without first looking in her glass, and a rival is willing to risk the same sum that no Cincinnati editor goes to bed without drinking out of his.

A bill is being considered in Congress to reduce the army by five regiments of infantry, one of cavalry, and one of artillery, besides a good many staff officers. They expect to save about $6,000,000 per annum by it.

The Pittsburg Commercial objects to cremation. "We lay to earn our living," says that journal, "and we don't want to be compelled to urn our dead."

An Indiana man, a day or two ago, shipped from Macon, Ga., to his State a full carload of fishing poles. The poles were of the common cane, cut in the swamps below Macon.

The boundary dispute between Virginia and Maryland runs back to 1633. It involves about 330 square miles of land, most of which is now immensely valuable on account of the rich crops of oysters that it yields.

Mad. Nilsson thinks that since we send our singers abroad to study, we ought also to demand the same experience and culture of the critics who decide so dogmatically upon their claims.

The whiskey war in Ohio is damaging the whiskey trade of Cincinnati about $20,000 per day. The "Enquirer" says: "Distilleries in this city, which formerly turned out four hundred barrels of whiskey per day are now running but sixty." Effect of the crusade.

In Salt Lake City recently a mormon named James Wilson publicly announced that he would kill any man Brigham Young didn't like if ordered by the prophet to do so.

The officers of the state grange, in session at Montgomery, have adopted resolutions looking to co-operation with the Georgia grange in the matter of direct trade.

When a Chicago girl quarrels with her lover she communicates the important fact to friends in the remark that she isn't on squeezing terms with that fraud any more.

And now the colored sisters are on a temperance crusade! And the drinking saloons will be purified from the fumes of whiskey and perfumed with "Ain't's spicy gale."

Now is the time for farmers to keep steadily at work. We hazard the opinion that those who have not already planted, by going to work now will probably strike a good season.

Mr. Darwin's "Missing Link" has at length been found, to judge from an account of dwarfish human beings, said to resemble a race of monkeys, which is given by the Siam Weekly Advertiser.

On the island of Borneo has been found a certain race of wild creatures, of which kindred varieties have been discovered in the Philippines Islands, Terra del Fuego, and in South America. They walk, usually, almost erect, on two legs, and in that attitude measure about four feet in height. They can not be tamed or forced to any labor, and are hunted and shot among trees like the great gorilla, of which they are a stunted copy. When captured alive one finds with surprise their uncouth jabbering sounds are like articulated language. They turn up a human face to gaze at their captors, and the females show instincts of modesty; in fine these wretched beings are men and women.

A contemporary calls Congress our "National windmill," but this is not a settled question. It might as well be called a "bark-mill," or perhaps a "paper-mill," judging from its financial policy, while a good many people are more than half inclined to think it a "grist-mill," from the amount of toll it is credited with taking, and from the slowness with which it grinds; it might not improperly be termed one of the "mills of the gods."

The golden fleece was the fleece of the ram upon which Phryxus and Hellen ran away. It was sought for and found by Jason and his companions; called the Argonauts, who on numerous adventures form the subject of a very romantic history. You can ascertain the particulars by consulting any work on ancient mythology.

Church is derived from a Greek word which signifies consecrated to the Lord. Christians have always given the appellation church to the edifices designed for public worship, but in its early signification it referred only to those who organized themselves into a body or society for the worship of God.

Grant says that he is opposed to inflation in the general acceptance of the term, but that he has given no opinion as to the measures pending in Congress and indicated no line of Executive action; apart from his own ideas of self respect he thinks it would be improper, if not offensive for him to intimate to Congress what he proposed to do.

A rival of Blind Tom has been found at Mount Springs, in this State, in the person of Jim Haiden, a negro from Baltimore. He plays the guitar and sings the most difficult music, and is also something of a composer. He has received no instruction, but is, emphatically, a natural-born musician.

A rare event occurred at Austin, Ill., a few days ago. It was a golden wedding, and the fact that two people in the land of easy divorces have lived fifty years in wedded bliss was so remarkable that the townspeople gave the singular couple an entertainment in the town hall. There is no picture so full of shadow that no ray of light cannot be found in it.

An exchange notes the rumor that Donati, the great astronomer, died from excitement consequent upon discovering that the earth is approaching the sun so rapidly that in ten years it will be drawn into the sun and shriveled up. The paragraphist then adds the decidedly American comment, "This will be discouraging news to the insurance companies."

Mr. Bölin, a prominent granger of Kickapoo, Kansas, was buried on March 7th with the honors of the order. The sons followed the horse in full regalia, and the brothers marched next. At the grave the master read a selection from the burial ritual, and was followed by the chaplain. The brothers and sisters repeated the Lord's Prayer, closed with a hymn and then threw flowers and evergreens into the grave.

Chloroform was discovered in the year 1831, by Mr. Samuel Guthrie, of Sackett's Harbor, New York—he first obtained it by distilling a mixture of alcohol and chloride of lime and subsequently rectifying the product. It is now, however, prepared by chemists by a variety of processes.

Many Roman Catholics have been deterred from joining Grangers on account of a canon of their church which forbids connection with secret societies. A Catholic member of the Minnesota Legislature recently applied to Bishop Grace for leave to enter the order, and the Bishop referred the question to the Pope, who replied that the petitioner might join if he found nothing therein conflicting with his conscience or creed.

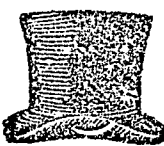

Democratic and Conservative County Convention.

A convention of the Democratic and Conservative Party of Autauga county is hereby called to assemble in the town of Autauga, Ala., at the hour of 11 a. m. on Friday, the 5th day of June, 1874, for the purpose of selecting delegates to the State Convention, to be held in the city of Montgomery, on the 29th day of July, 1874.

The local committees appointed in the last canvass, will see that meetings are held in their respective precincts on Saturday, the 30th of May, to elect delegates to the proposed county convention.

New Goods at J. FABER'S.—Our clever friend, Mr. J. Faber, of Prattville, has just received, at his store, his new stock of spring and summer goods which he is now opening for the inspection of the public. He has some very beautiful calicoes, muslins, delaines, and other desirable goods, which we advise the ladies to call at once and examine, before they are picked over by Faber, Hirscher and Franks are all polite, attentive and clever gentlemen, and will take great pleasure in showing you their new and cheap goods. Go soon if you wish to get bargains. 2

The Second Adventists are a religious sect who believe in the speedy second coming of Christ and the end of the world. They are the same as the Millerites; they owe their origin, in the United States, to William Miller, under whose preaching, previous to the year 1842, they became quite numerous.

It is said that the soil of Ireland is fatal to snakes. A son of Erin who visited the green isle last summer and returned to Augusta, Ga., with a memento in the shape of a shamrock, growing in Irish soil, tested the matter by placing a snake within the box containing the plant. The creature died almost immediately.

As for the comparative longevity of drinkers and non-drinkers, the English life insurance actuaries whose business it was not to be mistaken in such a calculation, have found that among 1,000 drinkers and 1,000 non-drinkers, taken at random at twenty years of age, the drinkers lived upon an average thirty-five years and six months, and the non-drinkers sixty-four years and two months.

A colored Mississippi legislator lately proposed a bill to make each member of the legislature, present and future a bona fide attorney and counselor at law. His reasoning was direct: "For, said he, if we know enough to make de laws, why don't we practice 'em?" Sure enough, why not?

CAROLINE A. BROWN,
Jan. 15, 1874—n8—6t Adm'r

TOM MARSHALL.

A case in which a duel was prevented by one of the seconds, much to the disgust of the other, who happened to be a military man may be related here. It occurred during the extra session of congress in 1841. Thomas P. Marshall invited three gentlemen to dine with him one stormy dismal Sunday. One of the guests was an officer in the army, from the south, who afterward made something of a name during the rebellion. The other two were connected with the press. An entertainment given by Tom Marshall before he joined the coldwater association was sure to be abundantly furnished with wine. Marshall and one of the newspaper men, who was from New Orleans, drank deeply. They had been classmates in college, and were on terms of familiar intimacy. A slight misunderstanding arose between them, and both were considerably elevated, a harsh remark was made by the editor. Marshall inquired if he was responsible for what he said. The reply was,

"Tom Marshall, you ought to know me too well to ask such a question." The party broke up rather suddenly, and a short time afterwards the editor brought to his friend of the press who was present at the dinner a challenge which he had just received from Marshall, with unconditional acceptance, asked him to deliver the reply, see the army officer who was to act as Marshall's second, and make arrangements for an immediate meeting. The friend of the editor was inexperienced in such matters, but he impressed with the folly of a duel between two gentlemen on a misunderstanding at a dinner table, and determined to prevent a fight at all hazards. He held the acceptance until near the close of the following day, when he waited upon Marshall.

"You come, I presume, on behalf of Mr. —?"
"Ye, sir."
"You have been a devilish long time in getting here!"
"That is my fault entirely. Your challenge was accepted at once."
"Let me have the acceptance, then, without further delay."
"Here it is," the gentleman replied.
"But I don't propose to deliver a full. I will not be accessory to a duel between two men who have no real cause of quarrel," and thereupon tore the paper up and threw the fragments in to the fire. Marshall was much astonished, and inquired of the gentleman if he knew the responsibility he had assumed in so doing. The reply was that he neither knew nor cared.

"You have put yourself in your principal's place, and I presume you are prepared to take the consequences," said Marshall.
"Nonsense," was the reply. "I will neither let — meet you nor will I fight you myself on any such ridiculous quarrel. Now, what do you intend to do about it?"

Marshall finally burst into a laugh, and in less than an hour's time all the parties were taking a friendly drink together at Gadsby's. The army officer was inclined to make a scene, protesting against the irregularity of the whole proceeding, but there the difficulty ended. — An Old Story in Harper's Magazine for April.

The Drunkard's Will.—Know all men by these presents that I—of the county of Mecklenburg, and state of Virginia, being of sound and disposing memory, in view of death, do make this my last will and testament, to wit: I die a wretched sinner, and I leave to the world a worthless reputation, a wicked example and memory that is fit to perish.

I leave to my parents sorrow and bitterness of soul all the days of their lives.

I leave my widow and broken hearted wife a life of lonely struggle with want and suffering.

I leave my children a tainted name, a reviled position, a pitiful ignorance, and the mortifying recollection of a father who, by his life, disgraced humanity, and at his premature death joined the great company of those who are never to enter the kingdom of God. I pray to God that those who are yet living may take warning and profit by the above.

REMOVAL!

B. M. LEWY

Has removed with his entire stock from 22 Market Street to

Belshaw's Stand

DIRECTLY OPPOSITE EXCHANGE HOTEL.

Every effort will be made to give the same satisfaction as in the last twenty years of my residing in this city. On account of recent money pressure, will sell goods consisting of

We, Jewels, Diamonds, Silver and Plated Ware, Clocks, and Spectacles

TO SUIT THE EMERGENCY.

My entire and personal attention will be given to Watch and Clock and Jewelry repairing, to which my practical experience of thirty years is assuredly, that all work under my care will be done in the most correct manner, and at moderate prices.

With thanks for past patronage received, it will be gratifying to have a call from my friends and patrons, at my new stand.

B. M. LEWY,
