CALL ME DARLING.

Call me darling, darling call me,
Speak it tenderly once more,
As you used to when we were Nightly at your father's door.
Then your arms entwined me fondly,
And your cheek was all on mine;
Oh, my darling! call me darling,
Gently, as in dear "long syne."

Call me darling, darling call me,
Though they love be dead and cold,
I would hear the fond, fond pet name,
Silly spoken, as of old.
Heed my pleadings, now, O! heed them
While my eyes are free from tears;
Oh, my darling! call me darling,
Kindly, as in other years.

Call me darling, darling call me,
I will love, best hours recall—
Though for years you have not loved me,
I've been faithful through them all.
For the sake of children buried—
In the children, one, two, three—
Oh, my darling! call me darling,
In the accents dear to me.

Call me darling, darling call me,
It would soothe the fever-flame
Could I hear thy accents, lowly Syllable two old pet name.
Years ago my roses faded,
White hairs gleam like dark among;
But my darling, call me darling,
Though I am no longer young.

Call me darling, darling call me,
Though to-night I'm fever-shuddered,
Pale will be my cheeks to-morrow,
And my pleading will be hushed.
Through long years of silent sorrow
I have loved the pet name so;
Then, my darling, call me darling,
Speak it gently ere I go.

The greatest friend of truth is time;
Her greatest enemy is prejudice; and her constant companion is humility.

It is said that newspaper offices in Kansas have two pairs of stairs—one for the editor to go down while the unwelcome visitor is ascending the other.

The question of where all the Smiths come from is answered, a factory in an adjoining city bears the name of Smith Manufacturing Company.

Webster's Dictionary contains over fifty thousand words. Jones says when he came home late the other night, in the space of fifteen minutes his wife applied them all to him, including some extra ones, and the fire shovels.

Adam had one consolation when he fell. Fifteen or twenty acquaintances didn't stand on the opposite corner and laugh at the mishap.

Our devil says he saw at a place of amusements a few nights ago, a type who was the most reckless fellow he ever saw. He was heard to say he didn't care a d—n if corn was ten dollars a bushel, so he didn't have to buy, and from the many visits he paid to a bottle which he had out side, he thinks he had already bought enough. He was seen going home about 12 o'clock swearing at his friend because he didn't walk straight.

COURTSHIP OF SAVAGES.—Among the aboriginal blacks of Australia, courtship as the precursor to marriage is unknown. When a young warrior is desirous of obtaining a wife, he generally obtains one by giving in exchange for her a sister or some other female relative of his own; but if there should happen to be no eligible damsel disengaged in the tribe to which he belongs, then he hovers around the encampment of some other blacks until he gets an opportunity of seizing one of their leanbras, whom perhaps he has seen and admired when attending one of their feasts or caribories. His mode of paying his addresses is simple and efficacious. With a blow of "office" and drags her insensible body away to some retired spot, where, as she recovers her senses, he brings her home to his own gunyah in triumph.

Another method with wife stealers is to ascertain the camp-fire beside which the girl whom he covets, sleeps. When he gains the knowledge he requires, he creeps close to the camp, on some dark windy night, and stretching out his spear, inserts its barbed point through her thick, flowing locks, turning it slowly around, some of her hair becomes entangled with it; then, with a sudden jerk, she is rolled from her slumber, and as her eyes open she feels the point of another weapon pressed against her throat. She neither faints nor screams; she knows well that the slightest attempt at escape or alarm will cause her instant death; so like a sensible woman, she makes a virtue of necessity, and rising silently, she follows her captor, to begin a life of toil, from which she is not released till death.

Shun evil speaking. Deal tenderly with the absent. Say nothing to injure a wound on their reputation. They may be wrong and wicked, yet your knowledge of it does not oblige you to disclose their character, except to save others from injury. Even then, do it in away bespeaks a spirit of kindness for the absent offender. Be not hasty to credit evil reports; they are often the result of misunderstanding, of erroneous conclusions or of evil design, or they proceed from an exaggerated or partial disclosure of the facts. Wait and learn the whole history before you decide; then believe just what the evidence compels you to believe, and no more. But even then take heed not to indulge in the least unkindness; else you dissipate the spirit of prayer for them, and unnerve your self for doing them good.

VANITY IN CHURCH.—A contemporary admires a rebuke to those who make the house of God a place to exhibit their fine clothes, and argues that a mere simple attire on the part of the rich would not only be appropriate to the place and its services, but would increase the disposition for religious observances on the part of the poor. How to reconcile humility in worship with vanity in dress is beyond our power. Silks, satins and laces are hardly consistent apparel for miserable sinners!

A person is not worth anything that has not had troubles. You cannot subdue selfishness without a struggle. You cannot retain pride without a conflict. You cannot expect to go through life without bearing burdens. But you are going to have help under circumstances that will redeem you from these things. You are going to experience more victories than defeat. Your suffering will be only here and there little spots in a whole field of peace and joy.

A student in a veterinary college being asked, "If a broken-winded horse was brought to you to cure, what would you advise?" promptly replied, "Sell him soon as possible."

A lonely fellow advertises in a Chicago paper for a wife, and intimates that he prefers a poor girl. The Louisville Courier-Journal tells him to take the first one that responds and he will be almost certain to get a poor one.

Autauga Citizen.

Prattville, April 30, 1874

The new York Herald says: "When Marshall Bazaine, then at the apogee of his fortunes as a marshal of France, commanding the expeditionary French army in Mexico, fell in love with and married the young, beautiful, but penniless Senorita Penney Pena, grand daughter of one of the many ex-presidents of Mexico, the worldly advantages of the match were thought to be all on the side of the young lady. The tables have since been turned if we are to believe a Mexican journal cited in the columns of our Spanish contemporary, El Cronista, as authority for the story that Senora Pedraza, a cousin of Madame Bazaine, and very rich, has just died in Mexico, leaving all her fortune to the children of the marshal, cast down now from glory and opulence by the disgrace and degradation of their father into penury and obscurity. The mouse relieves the lion."

Alexander H. Stephens has returned to his home in Georgia. Before taking his departure from Washington, he was called upon by a company of friends and during the conversation remarked that unless his health became improved by the trip, he never again expected to visit Washington. He is a confirmed invalid, and has not been in his seat on the floor of the House for the past two months.

With a loss of sixteen men an English army about 3,500 strong, routed 48,000 Ashantes, captured and burned their capital and held possession of the country until abject terms of surrender were completed. The colored troops fought nobly, but they were no match for European valor and superiority in every way, save numbers. England applauds the negro business in America, but she makes short work with the blacks who tamper with her rights of policy.

THE CONFEDERATE SOLDIER.—Mr. Charles A. Dana of the N. Y. Sun and during the war was Mr. Seward's principal assistant, says, in advocating a reduction of the standing Army. "The men who enlist are mostly foreigners and refugees from illness, beggary, or criminal justice. The army is their poor house or hiding place. They enter it to avoid starvation or arrest. The quality of the Confederate soldier is actually disposed of the plea that it is necessary to keep the regular army as a nucleus. On the Union side, was the entire rank and file of the old army. Of that force the rebels had only officers. The Confederate rank and file was composed wholly of raw men, and in the first two years of the war volunteers. Yet what an infantry they were! Those of us who saw them charge in line of battle never approach a Confederate cemetery without taking off our hats in homage to the devoted brave who ever walked straight into the jaws of death without blanching. The explanation of the extraordinary excellence of the rebel infantry is that it was composed of American citizens. The present army of the United States is not such. It is largely composed of unnaturalized foreigners, who enlist as a temporary refuge from material evils."

Established a Cotton Warehouse and Close Storage Rooms in the large spacious Brick Fire Proof Warehouse in the rear of our Stores. We propose to offer special inducements to Planters and Merchants in the Storage and Handling of their Cotton and other Produce consigned to us. Competent and experienced employees, well acquainted with the details of Warehousing Business, will have charge of the proper receiving, sampling, weighing and shipping of cotton. We respectfully solicit the patronage of the Public, feeling confident of our abilities to serve them advantageously.

Montgomery, Sept. 14 1873—6m A. & H. STASSBURGER.

THE PUBLIC.—An advertisement is published in the daily papers of this city since Tuesday last, signed by men, which they advertise a reduction of 75 cents on cotton, but upon enquiry, we are reliably informed from parties interested who are signers to the advertisement, that these War houses will charge hereafter 50 cents a bale storage, for each and every month for any cotton remaining in their respective Warehouses. A glance at the last year's rate will satisfy any one, that whereas they charged 75 cents for the first and 50 cents for all succeeding months, that any one who stores his cotton with them this year, is compelled to pay for each bale he lays there after the first month 12 1/2 cents more than he had to pay last season. This would make the Storage of one bale this season in 4 months $2.00 while they charged last year for the same period only $1.87 1/2 cents.

We the undersigned, desire to have it distinctly understood that we charge for all cotton in our Warehouse 50 cts for the first month, and only 25 cts for each succeeding month, thereby saving planters for a lengthened period of storage considerable money.

April 29th is the day fixed for Schurz's eulogy on the late Senator Sumner. The Mayor of Boston will preside on this occasion, and Wendell Phillips will introduce the orator. This will probably be the grandest oratorical effort of Mr. Schurz's life.

A sordid person applied to a wealthy person for help, and received the small sum of five cents. The giver remarked as he handed him the pittance, "take it, you are welcome; our ears are always open to the distressed." "That may be," replied the recipient, "but never before in my life have I seen so small an opening for such large ears."

An exchange says: "The man in town who sponsors a paper and then abuses the editor behind his back, is like the man who crept into a show under the canvas, and then cursed the proprietor because he did not have a better performance."

It is stated in some of our exchanges that the Internal Revenue Department has sent instructions to its subordinate officers to enforce the penalties against all persons engaged in the liquor or tobacco business, who fail to pay their special taxes before the first of May. These penalties are severe, involving the addition of fifty per cent to the tax, and subjecting the delinquent to a criminal prosecution.

Mr. Willingham, of Georgia, is an old planter and always has plenty to eat. This year he will plant 3,000 acres of corn to 2,000 acres of cotton. His cribs are full of corn and his smoke-house full of meat; and has 100 mules, plenty of hogs, sheep, and cattle. Let Alabama planters follow this example and we will hear less about hard times.

Wild Coffee bushes are plentiful in Amador and other counties of California. The berries are known to the settlers as "cat berries," but are in every respect similar to the coffee in South America, is confident that the shrub is the genuine coffee plant, and capable of producing under cultivation a superior quality of coffee.

This is the year of floods. Never before have all the water courses, west and north, been so full for so long a time. More water has fallen this year than has fallen within the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

For MOTHERS.—Below will be found a prescription to prevent rising breast, which has never been known to fail when the directions are strictly observed. The remedy has been in an old Virginia family for several generations and its efficacy has been satisfactorily tested hundreds of times. It is worth cutting out and putting in the back of the family "cook book."

Two tablespoonfuls of linseed oil, two tablespoonfuls of honey, a piece of beeswax the size of a hickory nut, a piece of gum camphor the same size, simmer it in an earthen vessel and thicken it the consistency of salve with flour; cut a piece of cloth rather larger than the breast, and cut a hole in the centre; spread it with salve. Bathe the breast well with hot camphor before applying the plaster, and warm the plaster. The day after the birth of the child the plaster must be applied and kept on. Don't take the plaster off, but let the child nurse with it on. Be very careful to keep the breast well drawn. It will prevent the clothes from being soiled. When the salve wears off spread fresh salve on and apply as before. This salve should be kept on until all danger of the breast rising is over.

When the M. E. Conference assembled at Hillsboro some time since, on the last day of the session a lad whose dad entertained some half dozen preachers, entered the room where the ministers were seated, in a terrible state of excitement.

"What is the matter, Isaac?" asked one, "you seem excited." "Excited! I ain't excited, I'm mad all over." "What are you mad about, Isaac, don't you know it's wrong to suffer ourselves to become angered?" "Wrong or no wrong, it's enough make anybody mad but a preacher. Here's every chicken on the place eat up, but my rooster, and just now he has pecked to see you fellows come up and sung out."

"And must this feeble body fail, And must it faint and die?" And immediately keeled over stone dead.

which is justly regarded as the most important triumph that Pharmacy has ever achieved. This important desideratum is

Dr. TUTT'S VEGETABLE LIVER PILL.

irreconcilable qualities of a Strengthening

Purgative and a Purifying Tonic.

Dr. Tuttle's Pills are the most active and searching medicine in existence. They at once attack the very root of diseases, and their action is so prompt that in an hour or two after they are taken the patient is aware of their good effects. They are taken at any time without restraint of diet or occupation, they produce either nausea, griping or constipation, and as family medicines they have no rival.

Cl.

Ayer's

Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effective remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful anti-dot, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known,

of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases,

Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Bores, St.

Antony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas,

Itch, Ringworm, and all other Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Pits, Neuralgia, Headache, Female

Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhoea,

when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs,

it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.
