ADDRESS.

To the Democratic and Conservative People of Alabama.

At a meeting of the State Executive Committee, in the city of Montgomery, on the 24th of February, 1874, some important business was transacted that it is proper to communicate in the form of an address, for the information of the Democratic and Conservative voters of the State. It was resolved, after due discussion—

First—That the next State Convention of the Democratic and Conservative party of Alabama should be held at the State Capitol, in the city of Montgomery, on Wednesday, the 20th day of July, 1874.

Second—In compliance with the resolution unanimously adopted by the last

State Convention, requiring an apportionment of delegates in the different counties of the State, on the basis of one delegate to two hundred Democratic and Conservative voters actively engaged in the political movement, a table of apportionment was arranged and titled by the Committee, and is now submitted to the voters in their respective counties, for their consideration. The following are the names of the delegates to the general delegates to the approaching State Convention.

This table is as follows:

First District—Baldwin, three delegates; Calhoun, three; Chilton, three;

Circumstantial Evidence.

On the 12th of September, 1868, a farmer, boy discovered on the bank of the river, about three miles north of Jacksonville, the dead bodies of Jacob

Young and Nancy Young, his wife, two respectable citizens of that place. The post mortem examination disclosed the fact that Mrs. Young had been killed by a pistol shot, the ball entering the back of the head and coursing upward through the brain until it lodged upon the inner surface of the frontal bone.

The ball proved to be a cartridge pistol shot, and the fact being ascertained that the murder was committed by a discharge from a double-barreled shot gun, which was found by his side with one barrel exploded, and the other barrel heavily charged with ten buck shot

We understand that Gov. Lewis has appointed T. C. Bingham, of this city, and R. P. Baker, of Decatur, as aides-camp to U. W. Danton, major general of the militia of Alabama.

This Danton under whose command Scalawag Lewis has placed the militia of Alabama, was a Yankee soldier, during the war and carpet bagged here after that event. He is now under three indictments in the City Court of Montgomery. The intended insult to the Confederate soldiers of Alabama is fully understood and will be properly resented at the ballot-box next November.

It might not be inappropriate to remark to Bro. Cook of the Montgomery Advertiser, that we did not mean in "what we said about it"—the Address of the Executive Committee—that the Address sought to make the "race issue," but that it "pointed" to it, or, as might be better expressed, recognized the issue as having already been made by the negroes and their white allies, of course.

The Bald Mountain Volcano and "Revival" Results.

From another part of this paper it will be observed that there has been a disturbance in the old North State in the vicinity of and upon Bald Mountain, which has been more potent to bring sinners to repentance than all the sabbath preachers who have, as yet penetrated that country.

Some of our exchanges are inclined to sneer at this work of grace so auspiciously begun, but they sneer without reflection. It is true that there is something ludicrous in the idea, when we think of how those old North Carolina rats who, in lofty contempt of revenue laws, had been distilling in the caves and coverts of the mountain for years, suddenly "lit out" from there and presented themselves singular and "overly at a throne of grace, and howled for the parson first and through him to God secondly. But when we analyze the matter and bring ourselves to look at it from the standpoint of those simple people who believe that the quaking of Bald Mountain means the end of the world, there is nothing extraordinary or laughable about it.

How natural is it for poor, weak humanity to go to God in extremity. Buffering with the waves until all hope of self-preservation ends, the rough mariner who has never prayed, utters an ejaculation to God. As incongruous as the idea may seem, the battle field is an altar from which ascend prayers innumerable to God from hearts and lips unused to praying. On the bed of death, in the quietude of home, after all human help has failed, the soul, disentangling itself from all earthly concerns, turns to God and lives.

How then can we laugh at the simple folk of the Old North State who find in substantial the very soil and the everlasting rocks beneath their feet. A man may encounter a flood with a hope, fire, pestilence, the sword, but when the everlasting hills begin to skip as described by the Psalmist, his heart faileth him and all human invention faileth him likewise. In this strait, how natural to go to God who ruleth and ordereth all things. Sift it down as we say "Man's extremity is God's opportunity."

A Touching Case.

[From the Indianapolis Journal, February 23.] During the last week the Journal has announced the death at the Hotel Rates of Thomas L. Salisbury, of St. Louis, Mo., who was killed by a falling rock on Saturday, February 21st. Some of the circumstances attending the death of these two amiable and excellent persons were not only touching but rather extraordinary. They formerly resided in St. Louis, and while there were called upon to mourn the loss of two fine children, their only son and daughter, who were young ladies, aged eighteen, and a lad of fifteen. They were drowned on the 21st of February, 1864, precisely ten years before the day of Mrs. Salisbury's death.

This double affliction almost broke their hearts and hereafter they lived for each other alone, concealing their great grief as those only can understand who have been similarly bereaved. Naturally congenial and devoted to each other, their lives grew more closely together by reason of the hard providence which at one dispensation had removed both their darlings from their sight without a word of parting or warning. Two weeks ago, when Mr. Salisbury was taken sick his wife watched at his bedside with sleepless affection. Day and night she ministered to his wants till it was feared her own frame, never very strong, would wholly give way. About twenty-four hours before his death, finding him unable to converse a little, she asked him if he knew her. He said yes, and smiling, called her by name. To her inquiry if he was willing to die, he said "Yes. She said, "Thomas, you want to go and see the children, do you not?" He answered "yes." Then she said, "Thomas, I will follow you soon; do you wait for me; I will come very soon." From that moment she continued no more to eat about her husband. She seemed to regard his death as certain, and her own as soon to follow. Yielding to the advice of friends she retired and slept till just before her husband died, when she rose and laid him in his coffin. Immediately after his death she took to her bed and began to sink rapidly. No physical derangement was apparent, but it was a clear case of broken heart, or insupportable sorrow. The doctor who attended her said it was a case that wholly baffled his art. Her malady was of a kind that no human remedy could reach. The gentle lady was entirely resigned to her situation and seemed to contemplate her approaching death with entire composure. During the week she steadily sank until it was apparent that her end was near. On Saturday evening, a short time before her death, her friends were startled to see her face illuminated by a bright smile. It beamed with a light that never shone on her face, and told of unexpressed joy. Her eyes gazed into distance and her hands moved as if to reach some one. A solemn stillness fell upon the bystanders, and the thought struck all that she was greeting her children. From that moment the lady neither spoke nor moved, but sank away and passed from mortal life with the same eloquent smile upon her face. She kept her engagement with her husband, and followed soon after him to complete the family circle in the land of the hereafter.

A Good Deed Brings $1,000,000 to A Florida Man.

We find the following in a Jacksonville, Fla., paper of recent date:—More than twenty years ago Major Waldo A. Blossom, who is now in Jacksonville, was a resident of Washington. While there, chance cast in his way a young man, named Larimer, in whom he became deeply interested. Larimer had been led astray by the influence of wicked associations, and was utterly dissolute and dissipated—to all appearance a moral and physical wreck.

It was more than probable that Major Blossom discovered redeeming qualities in the young man, notwithstanding the depths to which dissipation had brought him, for the Good Samaritan rescued him from the gutter, gave him a pleasant home, assisted him by counsel and the aid of fine social influences to make himself a new man. After his reformation was effected, the young man returned to his parents, who resided in Colorado, and for a number of years his generous benefactor heard nothing of him.

In December of last year Major Blossom's attention was called to an advertisement in a Boston paper, over the signature of "Larimer," inquiring the address of W. A. Blossom. He responded to the inquiry, and soon received a letter from the parents of his former protégé, in Casella county, Colorado, informing him that their son, in dying, had willed his property to him, in gratitude for the kind deeds of years ago.

The letter, which feelingly alluded to the act, gave the sequel to the reformed man's life. He applied himself vigorously to business after his return to Colorado, became an honorable and useful member of society, and in a few years amassed a large fortune, all of which valued at $1,000,000, will fall into the possession of Major Blossom next June.

No act of genuine charity is ever lost. Somewhere in the conservancy of good deeds the plant will put forth its blossoms and shed its perfume, perhaps in the balm and brilliance of the eternal morning, perhaps in the subdued light and murky atmosphere of the mortal life.

Correspondence Asheville (N. C.) Pioneer.] A Good Chance for Real Estate Speculators.

In relation to the phenomenon that is now terrifying the people in the neighborhood of the Bald Mountain, candor forces me to admit that I do not believe their fears altogether groundless. I was on the mountain on the night of the 21st inst. The noise seemed to be under the ground in a small valley between what is called the Round and Stone mountains, though I could not exactly determine the locality. Sometimes the shocks are very heavy, accompanied by sounds similar to the detonations of artillery, and the earth is shaken for miles around. A very perceptible movement is seen among the trees, and the vibrations travel through the houses and are sufficiently jarred to arouse children from their night slumbers, when they manifest their fright by cries and screams. The sound is more distinctly heard in the valley than in any other place. The people who live in the vicinity are very much alarmed, and many of them are preparing to emigrate. A protracted meeting is in progress in the immediate neighborhood, and towards forty persons have professed religion and joined the Baptist Church, the only denomination in this section. Prayer-meetings prevailed, to which all take an active part, from the worst of the vibrations that have been experienced. I attended one of these meetings, and feel safe in saying that it was the first religious assembly I ever witnessed where every one was so deeply interested in the subject. If this noise is followed by no destructive eruption, it will be a good thing for these people in a religious point of view. These subterranean sounds are not heard every day, but more or less distinctly every day. Land can be bought at trifling prices at this time on the Bald Mountain, but no one has an inclination to purchase. As I did not visit the place for the purpose of investing, I am unable to give an account of this interesting subject, you must excuse this hasty and indefinite narration of what I witnessed.

THE JACKSONVILLE REPUBLICAN

comes back at us this week, and says we entirely misconstrued his article. Well we have not the paper at hand, and as we read the article hurriedly, we might have been in error. As the Republican is a Granger, we believe he is all right, and we won't have any quarrel over the matter.

TELEGRAMS.

Elmira, N. Y. March 24.—A two hundred thousand dollars fire. Boston, March 24.—The result of three balloting by the Senate and one by the House does not show an indication of a speedy election of a United States Senator. The total vote in the Senate was 37, and in the House 235. Dawes was ahead in the Senate and Hear in the House, but neither approached anywhere near a majority. A ballot will be taken at noon daily until a choice is made. Probably no election of the kind in Massachusetts was ever watched with greater interest by the people than the one now pending.

Selma, March 24.—Chancellor Turner to-day decreed the sale of the Selma, Rome and Dalton railroad and all the property of the company, including four hundred thousand acres of public land. The decree was on the suit of Johnston & Stewart, trustees of the first mortgage bondholders, and is the most important case ever adjudicated in Alabama. The plaintiffs were represented by Messrs. Brooks, Haralson & Roy, and the defendant by Messrs. Pettus, Dawson & Tillman. The road to be sold is two hundred and thirty-six miles long and is one of the most important thoroughfares in the South.

Chancellor Turner held that the mortgages to Gasaway B. Lamar, executed on the first of July, 1852, is a first lien on the road from Blue Mountain. The mortgage to Charles G. Edwards, trustee, executed on the 10th of January, 1855, is a second lien on one hundred miles of road from Selma. The mortgage to W. P. Fe lows, trustee, is a first lien on the public lands, and the mortgage to Johnston & Stewart is a first lien on the road from Blue Mountain to Dalton—a hundred and one miles—and upon all other property acquired since August 8, 1866, not appurtenant to the road from Selma to Blue Mountain, also, the Ashby branch. Chancellor Turner also held that the Receiver's certificates were a first charge on the gross proceeds of the sales.

THE STILTZEWEITER BUTCHERY.

A Visit to the Scene of Death at Centerville, Mo.

St. Louis, Mo., March 21, 1874. A gentleman just from Belleville, Ill., reports that Sheriff Hughes, of St. Clair County, had returned from the scene of the murder of the Stiltzeweiter family near Centerville. He obtained no clear view of the scene, but the murder was evidently committed for plunder, as the house was thoroughly ransacked, and the contents of bureau, closets, &c., were strewn all around. The elder Stiltzeweiter had considerable money in the house, which it is supposed the murderers have got. The house is situated some distance from any other dwelling in the vicinity.

It is believed that the murder was committed on Thursday night, as the bodies of Mrs. Stiltzeweiter and her children were in bed when found, and that of her husband on the floor beside a lounge on which he had slept. The heads of the men were heavily covered with blood, while those of the mother and children were crushed with some blunt instrument. The County Court has offered a reward of 1,000 for the capture of the murderers.

An Awful Horror.

Information was received in Pittsburg recently that a terrible horror has just been unearthed at Chippinville. Two weeks ago a woman named Maria Cogswell, wife of Anthony Cogswell, a drover, died, as was supposed in the village named, and was buried. Her husband was absent at the time. His first knowledge of his wife's death was on Thursday last, when he returned home. Almost wild with grief he insisted on her body being exhumed, so that he could see the remains.

This was done, and the coffin was opened in the presence of several friends. To the horrible horror of all, the body had changed its position in the coffin, showing that Mrs. Cogswell had been buried while she was in a trance. The body was lying on its face. Evidence of a fearful struggle made by the unfortunate woman when she recovered consciousness in the coffin were visible. The flesh was torn from one shoulder, and the whole was covered with blood. When Mr. Cogswell saw what a horrible fate his wife had met he fell senseless across the coffin, and has been a raving maniac ever since.

The Probable Murderer.

St. Louis, Mo., March 21.—Midnight additional but still meagre information has been received from the scene of the murdered family is Steinbock, not "Stiltzeweiter," as previously reported. At the inquest this afternoon held by Coroner Ryan, at East St. Louis, several witnesses were examined and facts elicited which led to the belief that Frederick Boeltz, husband of a sister of Mrs. Steinbock, committed the horrible deed. He was present here refused to testify until forced, and then his answers and general conduct were such as to excite the strongest suspicion of his guilt.

He acknowledged that he had been on bad terms with the murdered family some months, entertained feelings of enmity towards them and was in the old man's debt several hundred dollars. These animosities were aggravated together with another fact, that the houses was not ransacked and pillaged, as previously stated, and that the old man's money was found, established beyond a doubt that the murder was committed for plunder, and tend more strongly to arouse suspicion upon Boeltz. When our informant left the scene the inquest was still in progress, and it was probable that Boeltz would be committed.

A Washington letter speaks pitifully of Parson Brownlow, of Tennessee. He is seated in his seat in the Senate at twelve, and carried back to his solitary house at five. There is no color in the tall, pale, dark-haired man except in his eyes, which grow restless when any thing in the debate excites him. He never speaks, nor smiles, nor smiles, nor calls a page, nor talks to a neighbor. He is afflicted with a terrible palsy, which makes him quiver and tremble continually, but the old man means to die with his harness on, and sits there by the door on the left of the President's seat, biding his time.

THE BIRMINGHAM NEWS

suggests the idea that the Grangers may give a wholesome and effective impetus to immigration by taking hold of the work and making its active encouragement a part of their creed. The idea is a good one, because it contemplates a plan of organization already perfect in all its parts and capable of a greater concentration of effort and means than can in any other manner be brought to bear. Our State Grange can devote those "surplus fees" so much talked about of late, to the formation of an Immigration fund, and by diverse other effective means do good service in the cause.

Montgomery Advertiser.

A striking instance of the influence of the press in opening up new avenues for commerce is seen in the increase of the trade of Baltimore with Northern Europe. A report setting forth the commercial advantages of that port was not long since copied extensively in the Danish, Norwegian, Swedish and Russian papers, and the result is that there are now some thirty vessels at sea, mostly Swedish and Norwegian, bound for Baltimore. Eight vessels of those nationalities are now in port at present. Many vessels hitherto trading to New York, are said to be bestowing their favors upon Baltimore.

LOCAL.

Weather good after a nine days rain.

Look at list of candidates. New ones out.

Nearly all the lawyers off to Gadsden to attend Court.

One granger has died and the newspapers are telling the world how the other grangers planted him.

The new Town Council re-elected Matt Pruitt, the old and efficient Marshall, to serve another term. Matt understands his business and does it.

Persons who may wish to improve their breed of poultry, and introduce a greater variety are referred to the advertisement of Mr. Hoyt, of Rome, in another column.

We learn that a cow belonging to Milton Stevenson, had two calves last Saturday night, one male and the other female, but otherwise precisely alike. They are both living and thrifty.

The gentleman who sent in the name of W. G. Woodley, Esq., as candidate for Commissioner, together with five dollars, will please call and draw back two dollars, as our charge for announcing commissioners is only three dollars.

The Banner County Horse Company had out the horse carriage beautifully garlanded Wednesday, and spurted water around generally. What the Company most need, and the town should buy in view of the approaching dry season, is new and smaller horse.

One of the "oldest inhabitants" says that if he can find a candidate who has not been "strongly solicited" and who has not come out by reason of a "strong pressure on the part of the public," it is the candidate for whom he intends to cast his humble vote.

We have received and used several cans or boxes of the American Sardines, put up by the American Sardinia Co. 37, Broad Street New York.

They are large, perfectly fresh and fine flavored, and superior in every respect to the imported article. They are also much fresher. We are assured that no one who will try them will afterwards wish to use any other kind.

OUR VILLAGE GOSSIP.

After a nine days "spell" of gloomy weather, the Sun is again out, bringing with him that warmth and comfort to which our village has been a stranger for more than a week. Now we can bid defiance to our pine men and rest easy until the next cold wet snap. By the way, have you ever noticed they always come when the weather is good and invariably fall when the weather is bad, and have you not noticed that the supply of lighted knots and kindling stuff always gives out just about the time a bad spell sets in. Now here, after we have been shivering for a week and burning up all the pine plank and old barrels on the place, and just as the weather has begun to admit of comfortable living independent of fuel, here comes a "spell" of the pine men with the biggest loads of the "fattest" pine you ever saw and looking as innocent as if they had never deserted us in our straits. Well, after all, the pine men are not wholly to blame. Both their and our own philosophy partakes somewhat of the individual the Arkansas traveler "come across" in his journey. He didn't "kiver" his house when it wasn't raining because it didn't need it then, and when it did rain it was out of the question to think of outdoor work, such as house "kivering." When it did rain there was no market for pine here, and when it does rain the pine men won't bring it.

Speaking of pine men reminds me that Jacksonville came very near having a skating rink the other day. The fellow came and "skated" one night and next morning "skated" to another place. Some cursory remarks of the County Solicitor in reference to State and County license is supposed to have been the moving cause. He took in some seven or eight dollars, and likewise "took in" some of our young men whom he beguiled into the payment of money on the promise of a free "skate" the following night, which he didn't stay to see. Among the victims may be mentioned Dick J., Don P., Jim H., Alf D., Wm. W., Messrs. C., S., M., L., the Hon. Geo. W.—te, and others.

And this naturally brings us to onion buttons. A lady walked into Town's the other day and enquired of Hal Forsy if he had any onion buttons. Hal laid off his Nath Webb hat and remarked that they had pearl buttons, agate buttons, wooden and cloth buttons, but that he believed Mr. Rowan had not laid in any onion buttons this season—a "most unpardonable oversight," continued Hal, "since I notice Mrs. Demore says they are the all prevailing style in triumphing Spring and Summer ladies' wear."

And one cannot mention the ladies without instinctively thinking of Jimmie Farmer. The two are inseparably associated. James, from what your gossip hears, is much troubled by a rumor that is affixed to the effect that he is to be crowned "Queen of the May." His well known modesty, he says, forbids that he should be the recipient of the compliment, however deserved. He had rather be allowed to attend to his routine of Post-office duties, together with handsome little Tommie Isbell, under the big chief William the First—in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen.

But handsome hint the word for it when you come to the fire company boys, the gallant Banner County Horse Company. Didn't they look gay in their red shirts with "B. C." on the bosom?

Tuesday and Wednesday as they cavorted around and broke horses loose and squirted water and broke those and those faults set of boys, and with all their faults we love 'em still. Its a crying shame that men whose property they are protecting and whose insurance rates they have done so much to lower, do not buy them a better horse.

The girls (pretty creatures) show a larger appreciation of them than anybody, if we may be allowed to gather anything from the beautiful manner in which the horse carriage was garlanded, and the number of the lovely creatures that graced the ball given in their honor at Capt. Whisenant's American Hotel Wednesday night. Oh, but it was lovely, and the feast that followed was rich, doing infinite credit to the Captain's kind little wife, to whose skill and taste may be attributed the beautiful and rich appearance of the splendid spread table.

And then the post prandial speeches that every body delivered after being "somewhat surprised" including the effort of that eagle orator Captain Peter Hines, and the amount of "wittles" that Dan Warlick and Dave Jennings demolished, and—"wittles" naturally brings us to George White. He got shaved the other day. Garrett has saved the rubbish and proposes to sell it out by the ton as a first rate commercial fertilizer. Upon analysis by Capt. Whisenant, Analytical Chemist and Practical Guano Smellist, the fertilizer was found to be composed as follows:

1 part whiskers and hair.

1 part grease and soap.

1 part virgin soil.

He also had his hair combed. It took 3 quarters of an hour, 3 minutes and 2 seconds to get through with the job, at Garrett's "parietes" lick.

"After the company parade, Dick Weaver's Majestic brass band, John made his appearance on the streets, followed by his band. The old fellow made things lively for awhile. There is a suspicion abroad that Dick turned John loose as an advertisement that he was still in the land of the living and handy for service. To give dental to this unfounded rumor, Dick will advertise him in the Republican this week in the regular way. He runs an insurance business in connection with his brass band. Here's another job for the Commissioner's Court—a Court House job at that. The south steps of the Court House are wearing out—scrubbed over your gossip might say by the fellows who sun themselves fair days, when the sun is on the right side of the house. It is beyond question that life-panes are about to inaugurate an anti-woman patching society for the discouragement of such practices, both in the interest of themselves and an already overtaxed public.

All the lawyers have gone off to court and the atmosphere lacks that alkaline flavor usually discernable.

Candidates mightly polite now. Howdy, howdy, howdy. How's your folks.

OUR CENTURY.

Editors REPUBLICAN: We desire to call the attention of our excellent town council to the importance of selecting some person as executor of our town cemetery. Let him take charge of it, see that it is properly taken care of, and give him the exclusive right of digging graves for all who may hereafter be buried there. It is after a series of years of diggings and trouble to get any one to dig a grave and frequently the task falls upon some one whose humanity moves him to attend to the work.

It is hardly necessary to urge upon the public the necessity of burying deceased friends in the cemetery instead of in private burying grounds, which many in our town have done in the possession of strangers. Let the council take action in this matter at once.

CITIZENS.

THE REPUBLICAN WILL BE

FURNISHED CASH SUBSCRIBERS FROM NOW UNTIL AFTER THE NOVEMBER ELECTIONS FOR ONE DOLLAR.

The Scientific American says that at least once a year soap should be used in cleansing the teeth, as antiseptic and destroy the enamel of the teeth and render them subject to the action of acids and other destructive influences. No other dentifrice is so effectively destructive to the antiseptic.

The same source gives a valuable hint to housekeepers relative to saving feathers. It is to cut the plume part of the feathers from the quills and use the quills in making pens, and the plume part in making brushes. This is a most economical and useful plan.

Here is work for idle hands and for children too young for other labor.

KIND WORDS FOR THE #### PAIN-KILLER.

The Associated Reformed Presbyterian say—Perry Davis' Pain-Killer has been known as a most useful family medicine. For pains and aches we know nothing so good as the Pain-Killer. For many internal diseases it is equally useful. We speak from experience and testify to what we know. No family ought to be without a bottle of Davis' Pain-Killer.

Messrs. Perry Davis & Son, Prov. R.I., Gentles.—Although a stranger to you I am not to your invaluable medicine, Pain-Killer, for my acquaintance in 1874 and I am most intimate terms with it. I still my experience in its use confirms my belief that there is no medicine equal to Pain-Killer for the quick and sure cure of summer complaints, Sore Throat, Croup, Bruises and Cuts. I have used it in all and found a speedy cure in every case. Yours Truly, T. J. GARDNER, M.D.

Judging by our own experience whoever makes a trial of Perry Davis' Pain-Killer, will not fail to recommend it widely as an unequalled and valuable remedy for colds and various other complaints.—Bery Month.

The efficacy of Perry Davis' would never be lost in all diseases of the bowels, even in that terrible scourge, the Asiatic cholera, has been amply attested by the most convincing authority. Missionaries in China and India have written home in commendation of this remedy. In fact, it can be said to carry conviction to the most skeptical, while its popularity in communities neither home is ample proof that the virtues claimed for it are real and tangible. Among family medicines it stands unrivaled.

Boston Courier.

The Saturday Evening Gazette of Boston, says: "It is impossible to find a place on this broad land where Perry Davis' Pain-Killer is not known as a most valuable remedy for physical pain." In the country, miles from physician or apothecary, the Pain-Killer is cherished as the exclusive panacea, and it never deceives.

PARTING.
BY LONDON.
Her disposition was so sweet,
So different from mine,
For I was like the rugged oak,
She like the clinging vine.
I did not know how strong a hold
She had upon my heart,
Until upon that sad, sad day
I knew that we must part.
And not like lovers must we part
Who hope for future bliss,
And seal their vows with faith and love
With true love's burning kiss.
No, we must part as strangers part
And ever strangers be;
I know not that 'twas hard for her
But bitter 'twas for me.
The lingering look of long farewell
I never shall forget;
I pressed her hand, then turned away—
My star of life had set.

BALD MOUNTAIN VOLCANO.

Startling Sounds Heard Issuing From The Mountain.

Alarm of the people living in the neighborhood—the strange noises thought to forbode the end of the world—business neglected—the people gathering to prepare for death smoke and vapor reported to be issuing from the peak.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 20.—For the twenty days the greatest excitement has prevailed for a distance of twenty-five miles around and in the vicinity of Bald Mountain.

This mountain is situated between Crooked Creek, in McDowell County, and Broad River, the mountain also extending into Rutherford County. That portion of the range within McDowell County is generally called Stone Mountain. The first signs of alarm in this locality were witnessed on the 10th of February. This consisted in what the people call a "terrible lumbering," the earth seeming to quiver to a frightful extent. Some parties describe it as terrible thunder gradually dying away in the distance, others as the roaring of heavy artillery in the distance. On the 12th of February two gentlemen on the highest point of Bald Mountain, known as Harris View, which is said to be next to Mount Mitchell in height, heard this strange noise. One of them says it at first reminded him of the falling of heavy timber and presented a combination of sounds and impressions. Parties living on the mountain sides and at the base heard the same noise. All think that the noise was in the mountain. One man says when he saw on one side of the mountain the terrible noise was in the direction of the mountain, and when on the opposite side the same indications were observed. All feel satisfied that the noise proceeded alone from this mountain. But on the 22d February the noise had reached such a point as to be perfectly terrible.

Among the persons living on this mountain are Mr. Camp, Johnston Elliot, Noah Elliot, Widow Nancy, George Morgan, James Gilbert, and others. From the statements of all these parties and of perhaps fifty others the mountain was actually shaking. The moving was as if the entire mountain was giving away. The table ware and the furniture in the house all rocked and jolted with frightful force. It is said that the cattle have become alarmed, and have wandered from their usual range. Such was the alarm that, at about twelve o'clock on the night of the 22d ultimo, the people for miles around began to assemble at the house of a Dr. Camp. Camp having gone to the wood-pile for wood became so alarmed that he fell upon his knees and began to pray aloud. Very soon the terrible quaking of the mountain was such that the great crowd assembled engaged in prayer. At daybreak on Monday morning, George Logan, a negro Baptist preacher, was sent for in great haste, and so impatient were they for his arrival that a portion of the crowd met him on the road, beseeching him to come and pray and preach. The people thus assembled remained in these devotions three days, when they moved a short distance to a vacant house, the property of Harris Elliott. On the third day Billy Logan a white man Baptist preacher, was sent for, and came immediately. On March 3 J. M. Lumby, a Methodist minister in charge of Broad River Mission, was imported to attend and preach, and promptly complied with the request. From an eye-witness the scenes are described as most strange and extraordinary. The people came flocking in crowds of fifteen and twenty including men, women, and children, all in the most terrible state of fear, despair and penitence. On the day Mr. Lumby preached the house was literally packed, the preacher barely having room to stand. So great was the rush to hear that many rushed up the side of the walls and crowded on the joists above. Only a portion of the upper story having a floor and many not being able to enter the house, they crowded their heads in, the door and all around the house manifesting the most intense interest. When the call was made for mourners the people rushed from all parts of the house, and from the outside, with almost frantic yells, and fell upon the floor and upon each other all praying and supplicating in the most heartfelt and agonizing manner. These exercises continued incessantly for sixteen days and nights with but little intermission. During this time the people all lived in common. No attention was given to labor or property. Cattle, horses, and hogs were turned to the woods, and the entire people within the range of this awful excitement have concluded that they have but a few more days to live. About one hundred have made profession of religion. The closing scenes of this strange meeting are represented as most peculiar and wonderful. During most of this period of sixteen days the mountain had continued at intervals to present the same alarming impressions. Having prayed, shouted, and sung for this long period, the people separated with the promise that all would remain and die if necessary. It is said that the awe-stricken countenances the melancholy demeanor of this vast crowd on the breaking up of the devotions are beyond all description.

A letter was received in this city to-day by a gentleman whose mother resides near Bald Mountain, stating that near the summit of that peak an area of nearly an acre was agitated by subterranean upheavals and then sinking from which smoke and vapor issued.

JEFF DAVIS AND JOE JOHNSTON—THE TRUTH OF HISTORY.

The Washington correspondence of the Cincinnati Enquirer states that the narrative by Gen. Joseph E. Johnston of his campaigns is now ready for distribution, and adds: It is said that the book reveals a good deal that has been hitherto mysterious in regard to Confederate military operations. The General goes largely into the controversy between himself and ex-President Davis. "We have seen nothing yet to indicate the nature of Gen. Johnston's defense; nothing to indicate whether he attacks other parties or confines himself simply to his own defense. The announcement some months ago of the early publication of the history of his campaigns, written by himself, was accepted by the friends of other Confederate Generals as an attack upon those officers. This resulted in elaborate defenses and attacks, which was spiced largely with personalities. The admirers of Gen. Hood, for instance, seem to have received the announcement of the forthcoming book as an indirect challenge, and they straightway set about defending him from the supposed attack of Gen. Johnston. Two noteworthy features of the controversy, so far as we have observed, have been its irrelevancy and its silliness. Courtesy, to say nothing of fairness, would seem to have suggested a little delay in setting up so raucous a defence—a delay that might have proved that there was no necessity for any defence at all. Only the other day Mr. Ben. H. Hill, in an oration before the Auxiliary Southern Historical Society of Atlanta, Ga., related some personal reminiscences of the Confederate Cabinet, in the course of which he exonerated Mr. Davis from the charge of removing Gen. Johnston from the command of the army around Atlanta. This assertion of Mr. Hill was merely a mild supplement to the discussion, and as such has been met and fully answered by a Macon correspondent of the Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel in the following letter.—Nashville Union.

MACON, March 11, 1874.—"Historical truth," said Napoleon III. in his admirable life of Julius Caesar, "ought to be no less sacred than religion. If the precepts of faith raise our soul above the interests of this world, the lessons of history, in their turn, inspire us with the love of the beautiful and the just, and the hatred of whatever presents an obstacle to the progress of humanity. These lessons, to be profitable, require certain conditions. It is necessary that the facts be produced with a vigorous exactness, that the changes, political or social, be analyzed philosophically, that the exciting interests of the details of the public men should not divert attention from the political part, they played, or cause us to forget their providential mission." "In writing history," he adds, "truth must be arrived at by the rules of logic." In his late address before the Historical Society Mr. B. H. Hill asserted that Mr. Davis actually opposed the removal of Gen. Johnston from the command of the Army of Tennessee when it was suggested in his Cabinet and by his counsellors, and that he was the last to give his sanction to it. All who remember the famous speech of Mr. Davis, in the Second Baptist Church at Macon, delivered just after the dismissal of General Johnston cannot reconcile the statement with the "rules of logic" which the late Emperor says must be applied by the historian seeking for truth. Mr. Hill himself was present and followed Mr. Davis in an address to the large audience assembled. He has not forgotten that Mr. Davis not only spoke in a vein of sarcasm about the disgraced General, but was even bitter. "He constantly complained," said Mr. D., "that the odds of the enemy opposed to him were too great to risk a general battle. But two disproportion was equally as great if not greater, in Virginia as in Georgia." After deprecating the Fabian strategy of the General in falling back from the mountains of Northern Georgia and surrendering all its natural defences, he said, "I have frequently been asked if pontoons have not been forwarded to allow his army to cross over to Cuba." And again, "whether it resulted in victory or defeat, I determined to put a general at the head of that army who would at least strike one manly blow in the defense of his country." This language and much more of the same character fully convinced every one who heard it that the removal, if not the direct act of Mr. Davis, fully and freely met his approval. What impressed it upon the writer more vividly, he took the speech down in short hand at the time of its delivery and furnished a copy of it for publication. The immediate cause which led to Johnston's removal was his reply to a dispatch from the Secretary of War in these words: "Do you intend to make a stand at Atlanta?" "The enemy," said he, "are two to one in my front, and my action must be governed by his." He was at once ordered to turn the command over to Gen. Hood. That Mr. Davis committed many errors he himself often and frankly admitted. Had Hood been successful in his Tennessee campaign the dismissal of Johnston would have been considered a wise measure.

The negroes are demanding at least two of the places on the Radical State ticket. The demand is a moderate one, considering the fact that nine-tenths of the Radical voters in the State are negroes. Either with or without negroes on their State ticket, the defeat of the Radical party is a certainty, if the Democratic party is not paralyzed and divided by the folly of its own members.—Tusculum Times.

Grate! Thousands proclaim VINCA BITTERS the most wonderful invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs are not impoverished. Bilious, Humid, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their various complications, through our entire country, throughout the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangement of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. C. Walker's Vinca Bitters, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINCA BITTERS. So potent is the hold of a system thus fore-armed. Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Croup, Hoarseness, Stomachic Disturbances of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the Regions of the Liver, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement. Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swelling, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Gout, Rheumatism, Inflammation, Taint of the Blood, Scalding of the Skin, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional diseases, WALKER'S VINCA BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Sciatica, Hemiplegia and Intermittent Fevers, Biliousness of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vicious Blood. Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters and others, as they advance in life, are subject to purities of the Blood. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINCA BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Hot-head, Scurs, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Kingworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no verminicide, no anthelmintic will free the system from worms like these Bitters. For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Bitters display a decided influence that improvement is soon perceptible. Cleanse the Vicious Blood through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow. For sale by all druggists and dealers. Solely by J. C. Walker & Co., New York.
